Huron County city shattered

WILLARD, Ohio (AP)— Squads of Ohio National guardsmen and police officers moved into storm-battered parts of Willard at dawn to resume the search for bodies in wreckage left by a tornado Thursday night.

The tornado was one of dozens that raked Ohio and neighboring states, killing at least four persons and injuring about 100 others.

Sheriffs' deputies said many persons in the north-central Ohio community were unaccounted for hours after the tornado flattened three trailer parks. A National Guard officer with the search operation said about 300 trailers were believed destroyed.

The swath cut by the tornado was sealed off to all but rescue workers Thursday night, after Gov. John Gilligan dispatched 200 Ohio National Guardsmen to Willard, plus Republic, Kenton and Savannah.

Sheriffs' officers said two youths were arrested here on charges related to looting.

Dozens of deadly funnels were sighted over Ohio—the National Weather Service reported 27 within one hour along 75 miles from Akron south to Cambridge. Others were sighted, and some hit ground, in Indiana and Kentucky.

Three persons were killed in Willard and a woman died near Republic, Ohio when a tornado swept her car off a road.

Richard A. Falk, administrator of the Willard Area Hospital, reported receiving "about 65" persons with storm injuries. Twenty-three persons were admitted there and one woman was transferred to a Mansfield hospital.

Fourteen persons injured in a tornado at Bellville were taken to a Mansfield hospital for treatment. Three were admitted.

Several persons were injured at Kenton.

One man was injured near Newark and there were other scattered reports of injuries across northern Ohio.

Falk said doctors and nurses were summoned from several surrounding communities to help treat injured.

Law officers from a number of communities came to Willard to assist in rescue operations.

Sheriff John Borgia said one deputy pulled an injured woman from wreckage and she later died at a hospital.

Deputy Sheriff Dick Fredritz said witnesses reported the twister performing a deadly dance—bounding up and down in the air—moments before it struck two trailer parks at the southeast edge of town.

It cut a one-mile path of destruction, damaging several businesses in addition to the trailer parks, before disappearing into heavy rain clouds.

"One guy told me kids were flying through the air," Fredritz said. "He thinks there are still kids in the fields. There are too many of them unaccounted for."

"I'm afraid we're going to find more bodies," said Deputy Sheriff H.H. Tappel.

John Agee, 29, a truck driver from Roanoke, Va., was in the Triangle Motel when the storm hit.

"First the roof started to go off," he said, "then the bed, then the mattress on the bed started to rise.

"There was glass flying all over the place. The first thing I did was nothing. I just sat there for ten minutes."

Agee was treated at a hospital for minor cuts and bruises.

"Take a look at that trailer park," a state patrolman said of one heavily damaged area. "The highest thing standing isn't more than three feet off the ground."

Ed Felver, 30, was working in a printing company when the tornado hit. He described it as "just a huge roar."

"The whole place filled up with dust," he said. "Everyone was trying to find something to hang onto."

Felver later went to a trailer park and helped put injured persons into ambulances. "I don't know why more people didn't die," he said. "It's just a miracle."

The tornadoes struck in the afternoon. The first reports of funnels were at Forty Wayne, Ind., near the Ohio border. There was scattered minor damage in Indiana before the storm crossed into Ohio.

Snaking funnels touched down at Defiance, Malinta and Deshler, Ohio, causing some damage. Other damage was reported at Columbus, Ashville, Somerset, Thornville, Newark and a rural area west of Marion. Several

Heavy storms miss county, cause fright

A series of small thunderstorms which scurried across Fayette County Thursday night, accompanied by gusty winds, lightning and some hail, caused little or no damage but created apprehension among citizens.

Sheriff's Department dispatcher Gary Sword reported he was swamped with calls from persons inquiring about weather conditions in the area. He estimated that about 100 calls had come to the office. Police dispatchers said they also had some calls from worried residents.

Neither police nor sheriff's departments reported any damage in the city or county area dues to a fast moving storms which was visible to the north.

Tornadoes were spotted in nearby Franklin and Pickaway counties and Madison County was under alert, but there were no reports of any funnel cloud sightings in this immediate area.

Mitchell, Stans indicted

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans say they believe they will be vindicated when the facts behind their indictments are known.

They were indicted Thursday on charges of obstruction of justice, conspiracy and perjury in connection with their roles as cabinet officers and leaders of President Nixon's re-election campaign. The case involves a secret campaign contribution and alleged improper government influence.

Financier Robert L. Vesco, a fugitive, and New Jersey Republican leader Harry L. Sears, Vesco's lawyer, were charged in the indictments with conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

The four will be arraigned in U.S. District Court here May 21. If later convicted of all charges, Mitchell and Stans would face maximum prison terms of up to 50 years, Vesco and Sears, 20 years.

Mitchell denied any wrongdoing Thursday and said, "I am certain that the judicial proceedings in this case will fully vindicate and confirm the absence of any wrongdoing."

Stans said he was "greatly dismayed" by the grand jury action and added: "I expect that when all the facts are heard, I will be vindicated." Sears also claimed innocence.

The indictment alleges that Vesco, 37, made a secret $200,000 cash gift to the GOP campaign on April 10 in an attempt to influence a Securities and Exchange Commission probe of his far-flung financial operations.

The SEC filed a civil complaint on Nov. 27, charging that Vesco, 20 other persons and a score of corporations looted $224 million from Investors Overseas Services (IOS), four foreign mutual funds they controlled.

U.S. Atty. Whitney North Seymour Jr., who announced the indictments, said there was nothing to implicate President Nixon in the alleged conspiracy. The President's former counsel, John W. Dean III, was mentioned in the indictments.

Mitchell, who resigned last July as director of Nixon's reelection campaign, is alleged to have arranged a meeting between Sears and William J. Casey, then chairman of the SEC, on the day the $200,000 contribution from Vesco was received by Stans.

Rhodes can run for governorship

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court has given former Republican Gov. James Rhodes the go-ahead to seek the governor's office again in 1974.

In a 5-2 decision Thursday — with the court's only two Democrats dissenting — the court ordered Secretary of State Ted Brown to accept the former two-term governor's nominating petitions.

Brown refused the petitions in February, setting the stage for the court test of a 1954 constitutional amendment limiting governors to "two successive terms of four years." Rhodes, who served from 1963 to 1971, claimed he was eligible to run again after sitting one term out.

The Supreme Court said in part that the amendment's language was "ambiguous," and that a governor may serve "as many terms as he may achieve," as long as no more than two are successive.

The lauguage in the 1954 amendment, the court said, "constituted a distinct and clear departure from that which could have been easily stated if the desired result was to limit persons to two,-four-year terms during their life time."

Rhodes, who will be 64 in September, issued a short statement at his Columbus real estate development office, saying only that "the Supreme Court of Ohio has spoken, and I will be a candidate for re-election as governor."

The Supreme Court's majority opinion was signed by Chief Justice C. William O'Neill and Justices Paul W. Brown, J.J.P. Corrigan, Thomas M. Herbert, and Leonard J. Stern. Justices Frank D. Celebrezze and William B. Brown dissented.

Reaction to the court decision varied.

Democratic Gov. John Gilligan had nothing to say about the decision. His press secretary, Robert Tenanbaum, noted, however, that the governor "has said all along he will run against anyone they nominate. That still stands."

State Republican Chairman Kent McGough said the court decision means "that we now have one announced candidate. There may be others."

Besides Rhodes, another GOP prospect went into the courts to try to establish his eligibility. State Sen. Donald "Buz" Lukens of Middletown is appealing an election board order prohibiting him from seeking public office for five years.He was penalized for failing to file a campaign expense statement before the deadline last December.

House rejects bomb funds for Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — To a backdrop of cheers and chants, the House has turned against administration Indochina war policy for the first time by rejecting a presidential request for more funds for Cambodian bombing.

The House rejected President Nixon's spending proposal 219 to 188 Thursday. Then, by a 224-172 vote, the House added a prohibition against using any of a $2.8-billion supplemental appropriation for bombing in Cambodia.

The actions came during consideration of the supplemental appropriation, which was passed 284 to 96 and sent to the Senate.

"We've gotten out of Southeast Asia," said Rep. Robert N. Giaimo, D-Conn. "Let's stay out."

Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson has said that Congress' rejection of the spending authority would not halt the Cambodia bombing because the Pentagon can use other funds for it.

House antiwar forces cheered and chanted during a roll call as the House approved an amendment by Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., to deny $430 million in military spending authority, including at least $175 million for Indochina.

Approved later was an amendment by Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., to prohibit use of any of the $2.8-billion supplemental bill for "combat activities in, over or from off the shores of Cambodia by U.S. forces."

"I want to put another lock on the door," Long said.

Kissinger, Tho plan Paris meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho will meet in Paris next Thursday to talk about implementing the Indochina peace accord, the White House announced today.

Kissinger, who returned Thursday night from conferences in Moscow and London, is expected to engage Le Duc Tho in three to four days of talks, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

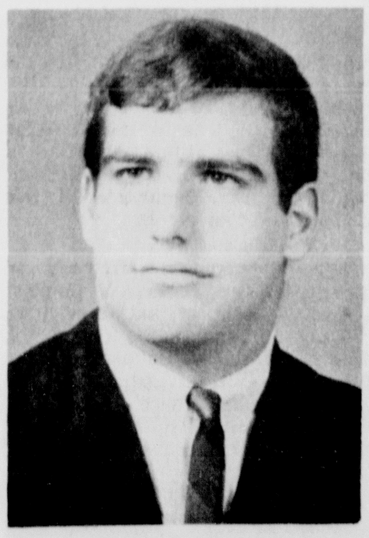
President Nixon's assistant for National Security Affairs and Tho, a member of the North Vietnamese Politburo, last met in Hanoi on Feb. 10-13.

Youngstown man chosen as MTHS football head

Fred Zechman, of Youngstown, has been employed as the new head football coach at Miami Trace High School by the Fayette County Board of Education.

Zechman, a graduate of Capital University who has been head football coach at Western Reserve High School in Berlin Center, will replace Fred Bernier, who resigned following the 1972 season to accept the head job at Covington (Ky.) Catholic High School.

At the last regular meeting of the Fayette County Board of Education, members authorized Superintendent Guy M. Foster to offer a contract to a new coach after interviews were held with the top five candidates by the board and administration. Foster said five top candidates were given thorough consideration from a field of 25 applicants.



FRED ZECHMAN

"WE ARE pleased that Zechman has accepted the head football coaching position at Miami Trace," Foster said. "Even in his relatively short coaching career, he has coached at the college level, a large high school and served as head coach at a small high school. He has worked under some excellent coaches in six years with football. He was an outstanding player himself in high school and college," Foster pointed out.

The 27-year-old Zechman was

Ohio storms

tornadoes were sighted between Akron and the Youngstown airport near the Pennsylvania line.

A number of tornadoes touched down in Kentucky. One family stayed with their trailer home on a 300-yard airborne trip near Pine Knot, Ky., and escaped uninjured.

Three persons were hurt in McCreary County, Ky., when a tornado carried their pickup truck about 100 yards.

A weaker version of the storm moved across Pennsylvania with heavy rains, strong winds and hail in the southwestern part of the state. Power lines were knocked out in places and trees ripped up, but no injuries were reported.

Other tornadoes were sighted in Tennessee and Missouri.

Clusters of heavy thunderstorms remained early today in Tennessee and the Carolinas. Other showers and a few thunderstorms were scattered from the northern Rockies to the central Plains and northern Mississippi Valley.

Missouri twister kills 4 persons

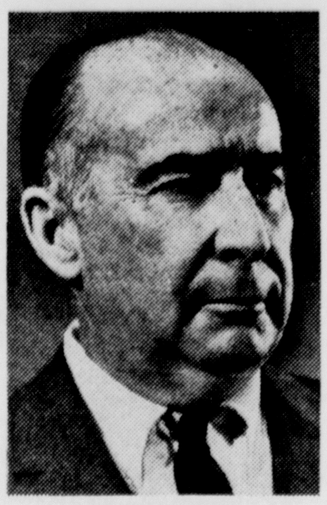
JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Four persons were killed and more than 80 injured in a tornado that swept through Joplin today, authorities said.

Eighty-seven persons were reported injured as the twister caused extensive damage to houses and mobile homes.

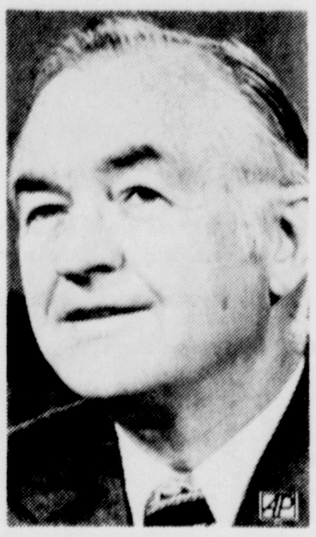
Telephone and electric service was disrupted, and Joplin area television and radio stations were off the air.

The tornado hit at 8 a. m. EDT, just minutes after tornado warning sirens were sounded.

McCord: Mitchell pushed break-in



JOHN MITCHELL



MAURICE STANS

WASHINGTON (AP) — James W. McCord Jr. has testified under oath that he never would have participated in the Watergate operation without assurances that Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell had approved it.

McCord also swore that fellow convicted conspirator G. Gordon Liddy told him Mitchell received logs of wiretapped conversations while President Nixon's campaign chairman, after he quit as attorney general.

McCord said Liddy had told him Mitchell urged the wiretappers to get started in mid-April 1972, and later prodded the bugging crew to make its second entry into Democratic headquarters on June 17, when five of them were arrested.

McCord's testimony, given April 30 and May 1 in connection with the Democratic party's lawsuit against the Nixon campaign for $6.4 million in damages from the Watergate raid, was made public Thursday.

Although much of what McCord said was reported second-hand before, the 383-page transcript of his testimony is his first sworn statement officially made public.

There were other developments in the Watergate case Thursday:

—Ousted presidential Counsel John W. Dean III issued a statement saying unnamed persons are trying to "get" him and limit his testimony about White House involvement in the wiretapping of Democratic headquarters and the subsequent coverup.

—Elliot L. Richardson testified at Senate hearings on his nomination to be attorney general that he feels "betrayed by the shoddy standard of morals of those whose activities have recently come to light" in the affair. He promised a broad and independent investigation.

In his deposition, McCord said Liddy had told him the wiretapping operation had been approved by Mitchell, Dean and former campaign deputy Jeb S. Magruder.

Liddy himself has refused to testify before the Watergate grand jury, and has received an additional prison term for that refusal.

New MT coach

graduated from Sylvania High School in Sylvania, Ohio, and received a bachelor of science degree from Capital University in Columbus. He is now working toward a master's degree and has had post-graduate work at Miami University and Youngstown University.

After receiving all-conference honors as a quarterback and linebacker at Sylvania, Zechman attended Capital University on an athletic scholarship. He was a defensive tackle at Capital for four years while the team compiled a 24-7-1 record.

He started his coaching career as an assistant under Head Coach Gene Slaughter at Capital, coaching the defensive tackles and middle guards. Following a year at Capital, Zechman moved to East Liverpool High School where he was defensive line coach for the Potters while they were ranked eighth in Ohio.

ZECHMAN was then named defensive coordinator at Franklin High School where he stayed two seasons before being named head football coach at Western Reserve High School. In two seasons, Zechman revived a sagging football program at Western Reserve High School into a leading contender.

Zechman, who becomes the sixth football coach in Miami Trace's history, coached wide receivers for a new minor league semi-pro team in Youngstown, which is affiliated with the Cleveland Browns.

In six years, the 6-foot-1 210-pounder has compiled a total coaching record of 43-30-1. Zechman, and his wife, Linda, plan to move to this area soon. His teaching areas are physical education, health, social studies and biology.

Foster said, "In two years as head coach he had displayed a leadership which promotes a real enthusiasm for football. His broad knowledge of the game and ability to communicate with his players has brought him success. It is felt that under Zechman's leadership, the football program at Miami Trace will continue its winning way."

Ohio House eyes cities aid, lottery plan

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— House hearings begin next week on a Senate-passed bill that would allow Ohio cities to utilize private capital to clear away slum neighborhoods.

Rep. Tom Fries, D-35 Dayton, chairman of the Local Government and Urban Affairs Committee, said his panel will consider the measure at a meeting which gets under way at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Fries will be the House sponsor of the proposal which has wide backing, including the support of the Ohio Municipal League. It passed the Senate April 16 by a vote of 27-5.

The bill had little opposition in the Senate although its main sponsor, Sen. Tony P. Hall. D-6 Dayton, had been concerned about one fearure that authorizes designated private corporations to use the power of eminent domain to claim blighted areas of cities for redevelopment.

Fries said he knows of no organized opposition to the bill, but does not expect it to escape controversy. "It's always a different ball game over here," he said.

The House okayed a bill to establish a state lottery commission before the lawmakers adjouned Thursday for the weekend. But the bill was stripped of an emergency clause that would give it immediate effect, and it apparently now must go to a joint conference committee.

Sen. Ronald Mottl, D-24 Parma, sponsor of the Senate-passed measure, noted that under its provisions, Tuesday is the deadline for naming the commission to draw plans for a lottery authorized by voters in the May 8 election.

The emergency clause was deleted after complaints by Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, and others that there wasn't all that much of a hurry.

Fries, who handled the bill on the House floor, maintained that passage of the lottery amendment by a vote of almost 2-1 was "a mandate" for the legislature to enact a lottery.

"The people of Ohio have shown that they want a lottery," he told the House.

Kurfess said he was "not so sure, since less than 20 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots on the question."

Majority Democrats, at the request of Fries, voted down two Republican amendments, including one by Rep. Robert E. Levitt, R-70 Canton, which would have extended the date for naming the commission to seven days after the effective date of the bill. Bills go into effect 90 days after signing by the governor, unless they contain an emergency clause.

Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, offered another unsuccessful amendment which would have changed the number of commission members from nine to eight and prohibited more than four members from each political party. He said his amendment would assure that the commission is "nonpartisan."

The bill provides that the governor, speaker of the House, and majority leader of the Senate each may name three members to the commission with no more than two from the same party in each instance. In calling for the defeat of the Norris amendment, Fries conceded the commission "will be political, just like every other state board or agency. That's just reality."

The bill would have the commission report to the General Assembly no later than July 1 with recommendations as to how the lottery would work. Its general instructions call for a lottery which would have "broad appeal and frequent drawings."

Some House members said they oppose the concept of a lottery and will continue to oppose it despite Tuesday's vote, that took away the constitutional prohibition.

Rep. Norman A. Murdock, R-21 Cincinnati, deplored "the state entering into gambling" and said he feels it would be "a wrong, poor public policy."

Before it adjourned until next Tuesday, the Senate voted 33-0 to change state nursing and rest home payments from a "reasonable cost" basis to a system of flat rate payments. Sponsors said the bill would increase costs about $8 million a year, but half of the amount would be paid by the federal government.

DIRECTORS OF JEFFERSONVILLE SWIM CLUB

Major elevator expansion planned at Jeff

A 600,000-bushel addition to the grain storage facility near Jeffersonville was approved Thursday night by the board of directors of the Fayette County Landmark Cooperative.

The addition, at an estimated cost of $556,000, will double grain storage at the Jeffersonville site. Clarence Cooper, manager of the cooperative whose main facility is in Washington C. H., said total storage capacity for the county cooperative will exceed 1,560,000 bushels with the addition. Storage capacity in Washington C. H. is 360,000 bushels.

"We can't see any other way to take care of the rush of grain that must be handled rapidly and kept in good condition," said Board President Robert Owens, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville. "Building additional storage seems to be the way to serve our owner-patrons who are producing more and more grain in Fayette County," Owens said.

Cooper said the Jeffersonville elevator can receive grain at the rate of 15,000 bushels per hour and dries grain at 3,000 bushels per hour.

Parliament OKs Brandt peace pact

BONN, Germany (AP) — The Bundestag today approved Chancellor Willy Brandt's treaty to normalize relations with Communist East Germany, virtually assuring its ratification.

The treaty eases two decades of hostility between West and East Germany, clears the way for them to enter the United Nations and provides for more contacts to ease the hardship of families divided by the Communist border.

The lower house voted 268 in favor of ratification and 217 against, a parliamentary official announced.

If the Bundesrat rejects the treaty, a joint lower-upper house committee controlled by Brandt's Socialist-Liberal coalition can override the upper house vote.

The Bundestag vote was another victory for Brandt's drive to improve relations with the Soviet bloc while keeping West Germany firmly in the Western alliance.

Sen. Long death not from poison

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Poisoning has been ruled out as the cause of death of the late Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., by a county medical examiner.

An autopsy report released Thursday showed that Long apparently died of a heart attack.

The autopsy was ordered after Helen Dunlop, the senator's former secretary, said Long told her just before his death that he thought he had been poisoned by chocolate candy sent to him as a gift.

Pentagon Papers tangle worsens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pentagon papers trial moves into new legal entanglements today following disclosures that Daniel Ellsberg was overheard by federal wiretappers whose records have vanished.

The FBI revealed the government researcher was heard on a wiretap up to two years before he released the Pentagon papers to the news media.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne, demanding that the government answer to him today about the disappearance of 1969 and 1970 wiretap logs, also has told attorneys for both sides to be prepared for legal arguments on the wiretap issue.

The team of defense attorneys urged questioning of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and perhaps President Nixon about the secret wiretaps at the home of Ellsberg's friend Morton Halperin, a one-time White House official.

With legal grounds apparently mounting for possible dismissal of the case against Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, Byrne has the choice of deciding for or against dismissal after today's arguments or of waiting for more evidence from the government.

Ellsberg and Russo are accused of espionage, conspiracy and theft for copying the Pentagon papers, a top secret study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, in 1969.

Byrne's two-week probe of possible government violations in connection with the trial spread to two fronts as a result of Thursday's wiretap disclosures. He was probing not only Watergate and White House links to a burglary of the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist, but also sought to bring out missing records of the apparently suppressed wiretap evidence.

While the wiretap dispute deflected attention from the central Watergate-White House involvements, the judge kept an eye on that probe. He released to the defense team a document involving former presidential counsel Charles W. Colson. The government prosecutor opposed making the Colson document public, calling it irrelevant to the trial.

The paper, an FBI report on a Colson interview, said Colson was told that the burglary had occurred. It said Colson was later instructed by former White House Counsel John W. Dean III and former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman to remain silent about the burglary when questioned by the FBI and the Watergate prosecutor.

2nd Newport official acquitted of charges

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Newport City Commissioner Paul Baker Thursday became the second city official acquitted of criminal charges in the past month, when charges of receiving stolen goods were dismissed Thursday.

Campbell Circuit Court Judge Paul Stapleton dismissed charges of receiving stolen goods against Baker when the prosecution failed to produce evidence.

William E. Colby named CIA chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the spring of 1945 allied demolition experts parachuted behind enemy lines in Norway and destroyed a rail line used by the Nazis to rush troops to the bitter fighting that marked the end of World War II.

The team was headed by William E. Colby, a 25-year-old, slightly built Princeton graduate with a record of daring clandestine missions in enemy-held territory.

Thursday, President Nixon selected Colby to head the nation's super spy organization, the Central Intelligence Agency.

Opinion And Comment

A salute to dedicated people

In 1921, leaders in the health care field established a National Hospital Day to encourage public appreciation of the people working in hospitals.

The day chosen was May 12, the birthday of hospital pioneer, Florence Nightingale. By 1953, the day was expanded to National Hospital Week, recognizing the tremendous growth in hospital services in this country.

The theme of National Hospital Week, 1973, sponsored nationally by the American Hospital Association and celebrated by the nation's more than 7,000 hospitals in their local communities, is "your hospital — a caring community, your health — our common concern."

With mounting public concern about the effectiveness of the American health care system and the rising costs of health care, hospitals are being subjected to some sharp criticism and demands for change.

While in sympathy with the demands of the American public for improvements in the delivery and quality of health care and for containment of health care costs, we suggest that National Hospital Week is an appropriate time to express our appreciation to the more than 3 million people working in the nation's hospitals.

Today, they are complex healing, educational and research institutions, where lives are saved, the causes and cure of disease sought, and future health professionals educated and trained.

Hospital employes represent an incredible diversity of skills and talents, working in some 200 different types of jobs, ranging from housekeepers to top level administrators, from plant engineers to registered nurses. However, they have one goal in common; a working life dedicated to caring for the ill and injured.

Modern technology and rapid scientific advances have made possible saving of lives and prevention or curing of disease. But, the human hands and hearts are still essential to the healings arts. As National Hospital Week 1973, draws to a close, we salute the hands and hearts in our hospitals whose concern is our health.

France has schizophrenia

PARIS — The French government currently is suffering from an acute case of paranoic schizophrenia in the are of foreign affairs. This ailment surfaced spectacularly in reaction to Henry Kissinger's New York speech calling for a new Atlantic Charter: Le Monde, which mirrors elite opinion, had a virtual spasm with two commentaries plus editorial on the subject featured on page one. "What are the Americans up to?" was the question, and the answer broadly speaking was (in a formulation borrowed from George Ball) a "Gaullist" initiative.

To put it differently, Kissinger's speech was interpreted as a presidential announcement that the playground was about to be closed, that the United States was in future going to play its own hand in cold-blooded fashion.

When the president pulled out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and announced that his nuclear weapons would be aimed in all directions, the informed reaction was laughter. Those nations within range to the west certainly lost no sleep anticipating nuclear attack.

AMERICAN "GAULLISM" — Which is to say the exercise of realpolitik in a wholly unsentimental fashion — would be something of an entirely different order. The simple difference is that the United States ia a great power and France is not.

Indeed, in terms of the power equation France has more in common with Luxembourg than it has with either the U.S., or the Soviet Union. Thus Dr. Kissinger, who is considered a dedicated disciple of Prince Metternich, is seen as the advance man for a new policy based on balance of power and, above all, on direct cooperation with Moscow.

Now we come to the paradox. For years the elite French press (which really consists of Le Monde and Figaro) has been deriding the United States for its addiction to outmoded Cold War doctrines, for its alleged conviction that the world was divided between the forces of evil (Communist) and the forces of righteousness (the Free World).

We were constantly chided for not recognizing that developments within the Soviet Union opened up the possibility of detente, and of abandoning rigid bi-polarism. (The Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 created all kinds of trouble inside the French Communist Party, but as far as most French were concerned it was a non-happening.)

Mr. Nixon's Moscow initiatives, however, had led to some second thoughts about the virtues of detente. Suddenly the French have a vision of Nixon and Brezhnev sitting at a table and dividing up the world. This would, of course, be done in the spirit of keeping the children off the streets, that is, neither Nixon nor Brezhnev would waste any time worrying about their clients or allies. The minor powers, France among them, would simply be treated as pawns on the chessboard.

THIS IS an exaggerated conception. The present imperatives of American politics, for example, make it impossible for President Nixon to play his ace and radically cut back American military commitments.

To do so would hand Sen. Mansfield and the Senate Democratic "doves" victory on a platter. Yet Kissinger's speech did convey a significant message.

In slightly Aesopian fashion, he was indicating that we would not sit passively on the sidelines and watch the Common Market develop into an air-tight, anti-American cartel. This is a point that the French and the other members of the EEC would be wise to include in their economic computations.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

'Troubleshooters' don't last

President Nixon moved quickly to fill to offices of Attorney General and Director of the FBI after the resignations of Richard Kleindienst and Patrick Gray. But it is fairly obvious that his choices for the two jobs are birds of passage.

Elliott Richardson, the nominee for Attorney General, is a born troubleshooter; he has gone from job to job — Undersecretary of State, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Secretary of Defense — as the needs of the Administration have dictated.

There are men like this, blessed with a mercurial brilliance who are fated to be tapped for crisis management, and, since crisis is endemic in public life, we may be sure that Richardson hasn't seen his last job during Nixon's second term in office.

So it will be with William Ruckelshaus as acting boss of the FBI. Ruckelshaus is not a cop. A defeated candidate for U.S. Senate from Indiana, Ruckelshaus is a man whose interests go all over the lot. He was once named as the outstanding first-year legislator in the Indiana House of Representatives and he served Nixon well in the difficult post of administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency. One cannot see him digging in for a lifetime at the FBI as J. Edgar Hoover once dug in.

IT IS A SURE BET, then, that Nixon will have to go elsewhere for permanence in both the Attorney General's office and the FBI. Having staked the reputation of his Administration on the revival of law and order in America, Nixon might look for a "promotable" man in the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, which is one law enforcement agency that has matched deeds to words in the attempt to recover from the blight of the Sixties.

John E. Ingersoll, the Director of the Narcotics Bureau, has impressive credentials. He did a remarkable job as chief of police in Charlotte, N.C., from 1966 at a time when Southern cities were fighting the violence that came with the end of segregation. There was no "hot summer" in Charlotte.

In his remarks at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs on "Law and Order Day," Mr. Ingersoll spoke of the frenetic Sixties, when law enforcement had to proceed by crisis management. The Sixties were a time of harsh rhetoric. But now, said Mr. Ingersoll, the time had come "to move on to greater maturity and stability in managing our affairs of law and order. There are all kinds of compelling reasons why more stable policies can and should be achieved. Crime is showing a decline for the first time in 15 years . . . What we need is a lot of management and less crises."

Words about the "decline" in crime sound plaintive while the Watergate scandal continues to explode. But the fact is that our narcotics fighters have made steady progress ever since Ingersoll took over the Narcotics Bureau in the summer of 1968.

Seizures of heroin tripled between 1970 and 1971, and they have continued to increase in 1972 and 1973. As recently as April of this year the New York City police, working with federal cooperation, closed in on more than 80 big-time drug dealers. With heroin becoming scarce, the price has jumped to the point where addicts, unable to satisfy their craving, have had to accept rehabilitation treatment as a matter of protection.

THE GENERAL crime statistics have fallen with the level of drug addiction. In Washington itself, crime was down by 27 per cent in 1972. The drop has not come from fighting crime directly. It has come because the addict has had to reckon with the fact that money from a mugging or a break-in couldn't easily purchase the price of a fix anyway.

When Calvin Coolidge faced the necessity of repairing the damage done to Department of Justice integrity after the Teapot Dome oil scandal revelations, he sought some "long-term men. Harlan Stone, later the Chief Justice of the United States, became his Attorney General. J. Edgar Hoover replaced the detective Walter Burns as FBI director.

Nixon has improvised well in naming troubleshooters to head the Department of Justice and the FBI. But improvisation is no substitute for a permanent commitment.

"THERE ARE TIMES, REBECCA, WHEN I WISH WE WERE EXHAUSTING SOME POLLUTION."

Hal Boyle . . . There's nothing like a cat . . .

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Editor's Note: Hal Boyle is ill.

Anyone who has this sickness sympathizes with those women, often elderly, who make the news pages because they are found to have 20 or more cats in their house in violation of some city ordinance.

To be "feline prone" is to be loved by cats.

Thus a householder who likes these animals is in danger of having more around than he really wants. Take some recent neighborhood examples.

In one instance, a family down the block had an affectionate female alley version of the cat family. Then the family obtained a Siamese kitten.

This put Alley's nose out of joint, and the next morning we nearly tripped over her as we went to get the morning paper.

Alley stayed on the front stoop for about three days, meowing piteously and growing visibly thinner, a trick cats have when they want sympathy. At last some kind soul in the household gave her a snack.

Now she considers herself our cat, a constant companion on our doorstep except in bad weather when she finds her way into the garage.

We acquired another cat some years ago which we will call Rusty. He grew thinner by the minute. Still we didn't want to feed him and be accused of stealing the neighbor's animal.

But it finally became such a pitiful situation that occasionally a piece of scrap would fall accidentally out the door. And in no time at all, Rusty considered himself our cat.

It all started with a ceremony. The neighbor decided Rusty had fleas and invited all the neighborhood over for a defleaing party.

He had bought a tube of flea powder that emits a puff of medication when you squeeze it.

Rusty at that moment turned his head to see what was going on and got the first puff right in his mouth.

It was pure panic.

Rusty made one great jump to a porch pillar, then to the roof and across it in a great circle, leaped to the ground and jumped an eight-foot fence. It was the last time the neighbor ever saw Rusty.

Went over the next afternoon to see how the neighbor was recovering and was met by his wife.

"He's sleeping right now," she said. "Had to feed him a tranquilizer and put him to bed about 4 o'clock this morning.

"He was up all night, going up and down the alleys, calling, 'Kitty, kitty, kitty.'

"The police picked him up twice.

"If somebody doesn't find that cat, he's going to have to take a round of rabies shots."

So Rusty showed up at our house, but the only signs of madness came at feeding times. Turned out he went wild when the menu was sardines.

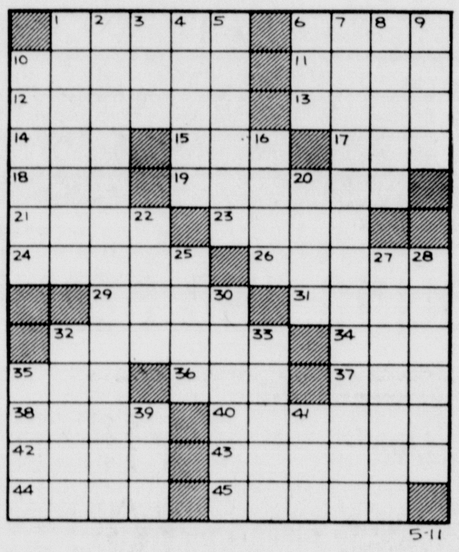
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

There's no inlaw like an ex-inlaw

DEAR ABBY: I am a 45-year-old divorcee who is engaged to marry a 53-year-old widower I'll call Sam. Sam has two daughters in college. Sam's wife, Sylvia, died of cancer a year ago. Sylvia's mother, a widow, had made her home with Sam and Sylvia for the last 20 years.

Abby, I know this woman only slightly but she has been cool to me. She is understandably heartbroken over the death of her daughter, and when Sam and I told her we were being married her disappointment was obvious.

Sam plans to sell his large home and move into an apartment after we marry. His daughters want their own apartment. The problem is Sylvia's mother. We surely can't have her living with us. Sam can well afford to provide her with a lovely home elsewhere, but she has grown so dependent on him that I doubt that she could live alone. She never learned to drive, and since her widowhood she's spent her life raising Sylvia's daughters and running Sylvia's home. She has no other family.

Sam and I have discussed it and he thinks I should tell her that our plans do not include her. I think he should tell her. (He insists he can't do it.) What do you think?

TOUCH PROBLEM

D E A R TOUCHY: She shouldn't have to be told, but if she does, Sam should tell her. It would be an act of kindness if you made a real effort to be friendly with this heavy-hearted woman. Investigate senior citizens' residences and try to help her relocate in the most pleasant and happy surroundings. If she rejects your friendship you will have at least tried.

DEAR ABBY: When I started going with Henry he used to show up so drunk he could hardly walk, so I'd let him sack out on my couch. It happened so often we finally started living together. After two years we decided to get married.

He buys two quarts of vodka on Saturday, and by Monday it's all gone. That's in addition to three cases of beer. Henry drinks every night, but goes to work in the morning, comes home at 5 p.m. and starts drinking again.

I knew he was an alcoholic when I married him so I can't complain.

I work and draw good money. I wish you would tell me why I stick with this guy. I support myself. Our sex life is zero, and I know I'd be better off without him.

NEEDED

DEAR NEEDED: Your answer is your signature. Some people have a need to be needed. You could be one of those people.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning taking small children to adult affairs such as weddings: I am only 21, but I know that we all have to learn certain things in this life, and the sooner we learn them, the better. Leaving children out of "adult" affairs until they learn to behave like adults is like saying, "I am not going to take you swimming until your learn how to swim!"

I'm glad my parents took me, and taught me.

SUSAN IN AMHERST

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1867, the Treaty of London was signed, guaranteeing neutrality to Luxembourg and the withdrawal of Prussian troops.

On this date—

In 1674, Pete Stuyvesant became governor of New Amsterdam.

In 1853, Minnesota was admitted to the Union as the 32nd state.

In 1943, American forces landed on Attu Island in the Aleutians. It was the first American territory regained from Japan in World War II.

In 1949, Israel was admitted to the United Nations.

Ten years ago: President John F. Kennedy and Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearsons were conferring at the Kennedy summer home at Hyannis Port, Mass.

Five years ago: Fifteen miners trapped five days in a flooded coal mine at Hominy Falls, W.Va., were rescued. Ten others were presumed dead.

One year ago: Voters in Ireland gave overwhelming support to a proposal for membership in the European Common Market.

Once-thriving religious orders shrinking

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A question mark hangs today over the future of the old, once thriving and powerful religious orders of Roman Catholicism. Most are shrinking. A noted American church scholar says bluntly they're "already dead."

This is the jolting thesis of Brother Gabriel Moran, a pungently articulate intellectual and leader in one of the Church's most venerable teaching orders, the Christian Brothers. He has been pressing the point for the last three years.

"We've got to face it while we still have enough concerned people left in the movement to crystallize new, living forms of community," he says. "There is still something that could be done, but it won't be true for long."

While other Church authorities cite various ailments of the religious orders, few agree with the idea that they're totally defunct, and many dismiss Brother Moran's view as mere needling of complacency.

"He makes overemphatic, blatant assertions to wake people up and make them think," commented his superior in Rome, Brother Aloysius Carmody, secretary-general of the 300-year-old Christian Brothers.

Nevertheless, statistically there has been a steady shrinkage in most religious orders both for men and women for the past seven years, despite numerous changes in their structures, rules and activities.

In that period in the United States, the number of priests in religious orders has fallen from 23,021 to 20,694; the number of brothers had dropped from 12,539 to 9,740 and the number of nuns from 181,421 to 146,914.

Studies have projected continued declines. A product of the late Middle Ages, orders such as the Franciscans, Dominicans and Jesuits long have been the wellspring of the Church's academic and social creativity. But their cohesive mystique has waned in modern times.

"They're slowly disintegrating," Brother Moran said in discussing the often indignant reactions to his conclusion that they have become moribund. If it wasn't valid, he added, "The screams wouldn't be so loud."

"It's apparently too threatening for the institutional Church to bear, and so the Church hangs on desperately to a system that's not working," he said. "It keeps withdrawing, fighting a kind of rearguard action, with fewer and fewer left in the organizations to take the drastic action necessary."

Borther Moran, 37, a professor of theology and education and also the elected superior of the Long Island-New England province of the Christian Brothers, has sounded his warning since 1970 in lectures, articles and books.

He maintains the religious order has lost its effectiveness, can no longer accomplish its purpose, has ceased to be a viable form of organization and thus, in effect, is dead, although thousands of people still are members.

That they still remain adherents offers a continuing, but gradually disappearing means for developing new modes of community religious life that can survive in modern times, he says.

He says this will require a total dismantling of the old forms which segregate men and women in different organizations, and the development of new communities including men and women, young and old, married and single, doing away with "all castes" and involving all kinds of Christians.

To accomplish this, however, would require a basic realignment of Church authority, he notes, including a change in the concept of the priesthood itself and eventual replacement of the present geographically based parish system.

Some tentative moves in this direction already are apparent in the so-called "floating parishes' and in the widespread tendency of order priests and nuns to leave the large religious houses and live in small groups in homes or apartments.

First Christian Sunlight Chorus offering concert

The Sunlight Chorus, composed of boys and girls in the third through eighth grades will present its annual spring concert at 7 p.m. Sunday in the First Christian Church.

The program will include sacred songs, folk anthems, spirituals, patriotic numbers and selections from Walt Disney's "Mary Poppins."

Insrumentalists assisting in the program will be Mrs. David Williams and Miss Linda Johnson, flute; Miss Denise Matthews and Bob Spengler, cornet and Mrs. Wayne Spengler, organ.

The pastor, the Rev. Don Baker, stressed that the public will be welcome to attend the concert.

OU students hear Shana Alexander

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Newsweek columnist Shana Alexander Thursday night said she would like to see the United States reform its electoral campaign system because of the Watergate scandal.

Ms. Alexander made her remarks after receiving Ohio University's award for "enduring contributions to journalism." The Carr Can Anda Award is given by the college of journalism.

The Watergate scandal is the biggest news story in 200 years, the writer said. "The alleged conspirators were not only prepared to steal papers and information, but also the 1972 presidential election."

"I hope this country celebrates its 200th anniversary not by having parades, but by reforming our electoral campaign system," she said.

Ms. Alexander said the press had been redeemad by its work in uncovering the Watergate, but warned against the press taking on the duties of prosecutor or judge.

Ms. Alexander spoke at the university as part of its fifth annual Communications Week.

Toledo Bar Association given merit award

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio State Bar Association Thursday night presented an Award of Merit to the Toledo Bar Association for producing a television series on the inner workings of a trial.

The series, first broadcast over Toledo television station WGTE-TV, is now being used with schools and civic groups in the city.

MRS. WILLIAM S. HALLIDAY

Miss Rulon, Mr. Halliday are united in marriage

First Christian Church was the setting April 28 for the marriage of Miss Linda Lee Rulon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rulon, 1122 Nelson Place, and William Simms Halliday, son of Mrs. Felix Halliday, 557 Albin Ave., and the late Mr. Halliday.

The Rev. Arthur W. Merkle, of the Wilmington Church of Christ, officiated for the double-ring candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Hurricane lamps surrounded by greenery, spring flowers and satin streamers marked the aisles. Each window in the sanctuary held a hurricane lamp with spring flowers and greenery with an orchid in the center. A large arrangement of flowers with an orchid in the center was in the center of the altar, with matching arrangements on either side. Candelabra were on both sides also.

Miss Rulon wore a white silk organza and Viennese lace gown with empire lace bodice which featured a square neckline and long Dresden sleeves. Her skirt was gathered and flowing, and the chapel-length mantilla of silk illusion edged lace, was held in place by a small pillbox. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers with a large orchid in the center.

Miss Marsha Rulon was maid of honor for her sister, and bridesmaids were Miss Cathy Climer, Miss Sharron Halliday, sister of the groom, and Miss Gayle Rulon, another sister of the bride. All of the attendants wore lavender doeskin satin gown with overskirt of angel wing chiffon, with deep purple velvet sash in back. Each carried a small hurricane lamp surrounded with spring flowers and greenery, and centered with an orchid, with satin streamers.

Little Carrie Johnson and Dana Johnson, cousins of the groom,, were the flower girl and ring bearer respectively. Little Carrie's was like that of the other attendants and she carried a similar flower arrangement.

Mrs. Rulon chose for her daughter's wedding a pink polyester double knit formal length gown with empire bodice and accents of green, purple and blue. The groom's mother wore a pink double knit long gown with empire waist. Both mothers had pink accessories, and orchid corsages.

Mrs. R. J. Rulon, of New Vienna, grandmother of the bride, wore a white orchid. Also present was the bride's grandfather, Floyd Jones, of Washington C. H.

John Halliday served as best man for his brother. Seating the wedding guests were Carl Anders, of Toledo, Dan Armbrust, of Washington C. H., Bill Marting, Sabina, and Steve Oyer, of Middletown.

Hostesses for the reception in the social room of the church were Mrs. James Garringer, Mrs. Russell Riggs, Mrs. Lloyd Sowders and Mrs. Arthur Tyree. Miss Becky Coulter, of Cincinnati, and Miss Cindy Thomas of Washington C.H., presided at the guest book.

The bride's table was covered with a lavender cloth with deep purple tulle skirt. The cake had four deep purple orchids at the base and greenery and the punch bowl was also encircled with greenery and spring flowers. The reception was also by candlelight.

The new Mrs. Halliday, a graduate of Washington High School, is employed by Redman as a secretary. Her husband, a graduate of WHS, also attended Bowling Green State University, and is president of Halliday Lumber Company here.

Jeff alumni plans banquet

The Jeffersonville High School Alumni Association banquet will be at 6:30 p.m. June 2 at the school. This will be the 62nd banquet for the school's alumni. The dinner will be served by Marshall Grange.

The guest speaker will be a former school superintendent, Everett Dabe, of Columbus.

Reservations must be made by May 30 with Mr. Smith.

Aid elects new officers

The Buena Vista Ladies Aid met in the Township Hall for a noon carry-in luncheon and Mrs. Nathaniel Blackstone, president, and Mrs. Hazel Anders gave devotions.

Mrs. Harold Haines was elected president; Mrs. Eddie Corzatt, vice president; Mrs. Noah Lee, treasurer; Mrs. Harlan Johnson, secretary; Mrs. Anders, devotions chairman; Mrs. Nathaniel Blackstone; Mrs. Albert Haines, flowers and cards; and Mrs. Bina Rude, press reporter.

Mrs. Blackstone reported the wedding ring quilt, which was made by the Aid, has been sold. The money will be used to purchase material for making more quilts.

Activities reported were 30 calls, 11 flowers, 14 cards and nine donations.

Mrs. Albert Haines presented a Mother's Day program of readings and poems. She was assisted by Mrs. Blackstone, Mrs. Harold Haines and Mrs. Rude. Mrs. Rude won a contest concerning Mother's Day.

Doctor discloses Krogh 'threat'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egil "Bud" Krogh Jr., the Nixon administration official who resigned Wednesday amidst the Watergate-Pentagon papers web of scandal, once threatened to destroy anyone who opposed President Nixon's policies.

The threat was made to a prominent doctor who had told Krogh he would not support legislation that would have created a permanent White House office to deal with narcotics traffic and drug abuse.

"Well, don't worry, Doc," Krogh is quoted as replying. "Anyone who opposes us we'll destroy. As a matter of fact, anyone who doesn't support us we'll destroy."

Krogh could not be reached for comment.

The doctor involved was Daniel X. Freedman, chairman of the department of psychiatry at the University of Chicago and a well-known authority on psychoparmacology, the study of the effect of drugs on mental states.

In a telephone interview Wednesday, Freedman confirmed the 1970 incident and said that, while he doubted that the threat endangered him, he was uneasy about it for a long time.

"Maybe that's just the way these people talk," Dr. Freedman said. "I do think the language was excessive. I remember thinking at the time that Krogh was referring to destruction of people in Congress who opposed the President rather than to destruction of me, but I was very uneasy about the thing for several years.

"I didn't want to get hurt nor did I want anyone associated with me hurt. I was so uneasy because I just couldn't be certain what he had in mind."

According to Dr. Freedman and

Rhubarb originally came from Mongolia, but is grown both in Europe and America. Technically it is a vegetable, but people usually prepare it as a dessert food, mostly as pie fillings and sweet suaces.

Miss U.S.A. contestants aim for May 19 pageant

NEW YORK (AP) — Wisps of hair fall correctly into place. Every fingernail gleams with the season's brilliant tints. Their lips part readily into practiced smiles.

These are the 51 entrants to this year's Miss U.S.A. Beauty Pageant who have begun arriving here for 10 days of parties, press interviews, rehearsals and fittings that will almost certainly end in tears of victory or disappointment on May 19.

Like brides bubbling with anticipation, they represent the 50 states plus the District of Columbia. With them come the evening gowns, the ensembles and the cosmetics calculated to show the contestants at their very best.

"Just getting here is an accomplishment," said Judy Gregory, 26, of Boston. An elementary school teacher and fashion model, she became Miss Massachusetts less than a month ago.

"I don't know what I'm doing here," she said after looking over the field.

Storm Hensley, a 22-year-old sergeant at Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana, expressed similar doubts. But not in words. She simply groaned, long and anxiously.

However, Sherry Nix, who at 21 is Miss Arizona, said she was going into the pageant optimistically.

"It just depends how hungry the judges are that night— maybe they had a bad day," the blonde-tressed student from Phoenix said.

"I'm still going to be the same person when I leave, whether I win or not," she said.

Shepherded by a public relations man, the three girls spoke of their hopes and displayed the poise that has helped make them beauty queens.

They have found the road to success paved with money— theirs—for their wardrobes. And they have found shopping and appearance and modeling commitments so time-consuming that their social lives have suffered. But they agreed unanimously it has all been worth it, just for the exposure the pageant brings.

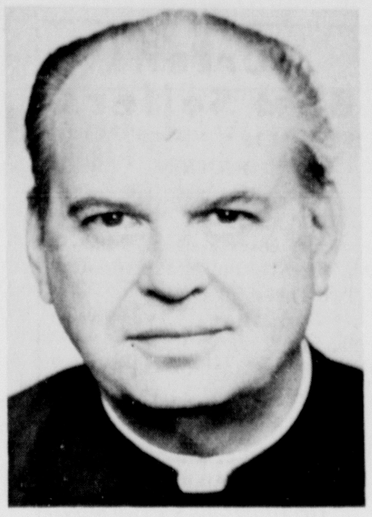
City to honor returned POW

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — City officials are planning a hero's welcome Saturday for native son Air Force Major Hayden J. Lockhart, released this year after eight years of imprisonment in Hanoi.

"Major Hayden Lockhart Day" will include presentation of a key to the Ohio River city and a full afternoon of festivities.

Now a resident of Springfield, Ohio, Lockhart's parents live here and he was graduated from Point Pleasant High School in 1956.

The flyer was shot down over Hanoi in March 1965, and was one of the first POWs to be freed by the North Vietnamese.



CHURCH LEADER HONORED — Dr. Oswald C. J. Hoffmann, President of the Lutheran Council in the United States and speaker on the International Lutheran Hour, will be honored as Clergyman of the Year by Religious Heritage of America, Inc. Dr. Hoffmann will be honored at the 1973 Annual National Awards Program to be held June 7 in Washington. The Clergyman of the Year Award, one of the various awards to be presented at the National Awards Program, is given annually to a distinguished American clergyman who has made significant contributions in religious understanding and tolerance and who, through his service to church and nation, has upheld the highest traditions of this country's religious heritage.

Year-round schools doing well

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)— Nearly all the educators who have experimented with year-round public school systems said Thursday that overcrowding prompted the experiments.

The educators attending the fifth annual national seminar on year-round schools said it generally is too soon to determine if students learn more and if so exactly how much more in a year-round school system

Richmond's school system isn't overcrowded, however, since it has lost thousands of students to private schools and to surrounding localities since school desegregation became an accomplished fact.

But the Richmond educators indicated they believe students may be able to learn more under the year round program, and that is what is important in Richmond.

James R. George, Richmond's project administrator, said the school system hopes that with additional class time and more accessible remedial programs, students will improve.

George said that one out of every six children in the Richmond public schools is two years or more behind in reading by the time he reaches the sixth or seventh grades.

J. Patrick Page, administrative assistant of the Valley View school system in Romeoville, Ill., said the project there "has demonstrated that year round school education under the valley View 45-15 plan is possible, practical and educationally profitable."

Under the 45-15 plan, school terms are broken into 45-day sessions, followed by 15 days of vacation. A student who failed or did poor work during the 45-day term could use the 15 days for remedial work and be ready to proceed with his classmates when they return from vacation.

Page said curriculum improvements are implemented more rapidly under the system, parents become more interested and fewer new buildings are needed.

Officials of the La Mesa Spring Valley, Calif., school district said they have had good results with a year-round system where students go to school the same number of days they always have, but on staggered shifts. Under this plan 75 per cent of the student population is always in school while 25 per cent of the student population is on vacation.

The La Mesa educators said students do as well in a 12-month program as in a traditional nine-month program.

The educators also said students and parents prefer the year-round concept to the old nine-month school year.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The hills may be alive with the sound of music, but these days it's primarily due to the reverberations of pop music shows that have sprouted all over television on weekends.

Tonight, for example, there's ABC's "In Concert," followed at one a.m. Saturday by NBC's "Midnight Special." This in turn is followed Saturday and Sunday nights in many cities by "Flipside," a new syndicated half-hour show.

All three shows began this year, "Flipside" being the most recent entry. And one more is in the works.

It'll be a series of three 90-minute rock concerts produced by Tom Owens, a 31-year-old pop music producer whose firm is known as Ego Productions of Los Angeles.

Owens, who says none of the shows have been given a title yet, said the first will be taped in late June and feature four major acts.

He said his sales representatives will try to interest any of the three networks in buying the shows, but if that fails, they'll sell them to individual stations on a syndicated basis.

All these shows are produced with the main idea of making money for their creators; performers appear on them at relatively low fees because the TV exposure helps boost their record sales.

But since September, 1971, at least two record labels owned by the Columbia Broadcasting System have produced TV music shows with a different business approach; they only want to boost record sales.

The labels are Columbia and Epic. Al Teller, Columbia's national director of merchandising, says the two labels jointly have produced a total of five half-hour shows seen on TV stations around the country.

All feature Columbia or Epic artists and are offered free to local stations in return for the TV exposure, or they're sponsored by major local record stores.

Turning now to loftier thoughts, at least for the little ones, "What's Skylab All About?" is coming up Saturday at 12:30 p.m. EDT on CBS-TV. It's another of the network's fine news-for-children series.

On Monday, all three networks will be out in force for the scheduled 1:30 p.m. launch of Skylab, America's first space lab. They'll be back Tuesday to televise the 1 p.m. launch of the three astronauts who for four weeks will live in the space station.

Procedures, by necessity, are slow

City has 'public nuisance' guidelines

By LARRY JOSEPH
Record-Herald City Editor

"You are hereby advised that you are in violation of Section 1329.02 of the Codified Ordinances of the City of Washington," reads the opening paragraph of a new notification form for the abatement of public nuisances.

Legislation establishing the procedure to be followed in the removal of public nuisances recently was adopted by City Council as part of the Codified Ordinances.

The procedure, by necessity, is a slow one to protect the rights of the owners of buildings designated as hazardous. The legislation provides for inspections, hearings, appeals, demolition and finances.

"You can not correct a bad situation that has existed for 50 years overnight," said City Manager Dan Wolford. He also pointed out that demolition of broken-down buildings could mean a long-term financial investment of city funds. If the owner refuses to pay the cost of removing a building, the city must provide the money and collect it over a period of years through property tax assessments.

WHEN CITY officials received a complaint and have probable cause to believe that a building is in such an advanced stage of disrepair as to endanger the health, safety and welfare of the residents, an inspection of the property is made by the building inspector. When the building is occupied, the inspector must first obtain a search warrant to make the evaluation.

If the inspector declares the building to be a public nuisance, the owner receives the written notice by certified mail and is given 60 days to comply with the inspector's orders. The orders may be any of the following:

1. Elimination of the advanced state of disrepair by reason of defective or inadequate plumbing and-or sanitary facilities.
2. Elimination of faulty or defective wiring
3. Removal of debris, filth, rubbish or garbage.
4. Elimination of general deterioration in the structure by reason of age, neglect, exposure to the elements or vandalism.
5. Failure of the exterior enclosure causing exposure to the elements.
6. Elmination of general deterioration of the structure.

A PROPERTY can be declared a public nuisance because it is detrimental to the general health of the community, a fire hazard, or because it is unsafe for occupancy, or use on, in, upon, about or around the premises.

A building can also be declared a public nuisance because of continued vacancy resulting in a lack of reasonable or adequate maintenance of structures and grounds, and causing deterioration and a blighting influence on nearby properties and thereby depreciating the enjoyment and use of the property in the immediate vicinity to such an extent that it is harmful to the community in which the structure is situated.

The property owner may, within 60 days of receiving the notice, appeal the inspector's finding to City Council. The owner has the right to appear before Council and to present evidence that the building or other structure is not in such an advanced state of disrepair for any reasons set forth as to endanger the health, safety and welfare of the public and therefore is NOT a public nuisance.

Armco accident hurts 3 workers

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)— Three persons were injured at the New Miami plant of Armco Steel Corp., north of Hamilton, Thursday night when an elevated rail car fell about 15 feet and cut a steam line.

One of the men, Richard Murphy, 31, suffered severe leg and other injuries. He underwent surgery.

The other two were dismissed after treatment.

OBES chief denies charge employes are being gagged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A spokesman for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services has branded as a "cheap political trick" charges by three Republican state senators that bureau employes were muzzled.

The senators, Stanley Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati; Paul Matia, R-25 Westlake, and Thomas Van Peter, R-19 Ashland, said Thursday that Bureau administrator William Garnes had issued an order warning employes not to discuss the agency's problems with outsiders.

Stan Wyman, director of public relations for the bureau, said the document referred to by the senators applies only to grievance cases and not general operation of the bureau.

Wyman said the order was never intended to muzzle employes and labeled the senators' interpretation of it as a "cheap political trick."

Wyman and John Wile, deputy administrator of the bureau, said the order was only for clarification of bureau grievance procedure. The order stated that information about grievance cases should not be given to persons outside the bureau.

Wyman said the order says "nothing about a worker talking about his job.

"If an employe does not file a grievance, he can go to a senator or the news media," he said. "But if they do this and then file a grievance, it taints the case."

The order was issued April 23. It said that "violation of this policy will probably result in disciplinary action."

Sen. Aronoff, who chaired a bipartisan committee that probed Garnes' attempt in March to fire more than 300 employes, called the order "incredible."

Arnoff's committee proposed measures which essentially guarantee seniority in any job reductiton and the right of appeal to any person who is fired.

"The Ohio Senate blew the whistle on the OBES' illegal layoff procedures and it is obvious OBES is trying to prevent anything like that from happening again," the three Republican senators said in a joint statement.

Photograph contracts come under fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Commerce Director Dennis Shaul today announced that his department has received numerous complaints from across the state about door-to-door sales by several firms of children's photo contracts

Shaul said the companies offer a free photo album and enlargement, but require signing a long-term contract, do not provide for taking and processing the original pictures and charge a substantial "handling charge" for black and white enlargements.

See difficult task for Connally

NEW YORK (AP) — Several moderate Republican governors say former Democrat John B. Connally faces a difficult task in establishing his Republican credentials sufficiently to win the 1976 GOP presidential nomination.

That view was expressed in interviews during the Republican governor's conference by Govs. Daniel J. Evans of Washington, Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts, Christopher S. Bond of Missouri, Robert D. Ray of Iowa and John A. Love of Colorado.

However, two conservatives, Govs. Stanley K. Hathaway of Wyoming and Jack Williams of Arizona, said they thought the former Texas governor, named Thursday as a part-time White House consultant by President Nixon, won't be at any disadvantage if he challenges more established Republicans for the 1976 nomination.

The governors scheduled a day-long political discussion today at New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's Pocantico Hills estate in suburban Westchester County. Newsmen were excluded.

The Watergate case is one subject that presumably won't be on the agenda as the governors discuss ways to assume a larger role in the GOP. The governors decided Wednesday night against issuing a joint statement on the scandal now shaking the Nixon administration.

However, Watergate and the indictment of former Nixon cabinet officers John M. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans dominated much of the conversation of the governors on Thursday.

Gov. Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, vice-chairman of the Republican governors, commented "how tragic it is." Bond said, "I hope they'll have a fair trial and, if they are found guilty, that they will be appropriately punished."

Some of the governors mixed their statements that Watergate wouldn't hurt Republican candidates in 1974 with fears that failure to get to the bottom of the scandal could be damaging.

Ray said it could be damaging in 1974 if it is not completely cleared up.

Confidence that President Nixon is moving to clear up the Watergate matter was expressed in speeches Thursday by Republican National Chairman George Bush and presidential counselor Anne Armstrong.

"Without downgrading the ugliness of Watergate, the Republican party is alive and well," Bush said.

Lebanese truce put into effect

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas from Syria shelled a border post in northern Lebanon today, but elsewhere along the frontier thousands of the guerrillas were moving back into Syria.

An army communique said the border post at Arida came under "an intensive attack by rockets and mortars" before dawn, and the Lebanese troops returned the fire. The army said the guerrillas withdrew into Syria, and there were no Lebanese casualties.

An army spokesman said the general withdrawal of the guerrillas who invaded from Syria during the fighting Tuesday between the army and the guerrillas based in Lebanon began Thursday from the Bekka Valley. The valley was the scene of heavy fighting Wednesday and Thursday.

Only one incident was reported in Beirut. A taxicab ran over a mine near Aran University, killing two persons and wounding three others. Police sources said the guerrillas planted the mines during the fighting Tuesday.

As part of the peace agreement, joint army and guerrilla patrols fanned out over the country to help enforce the latest cease-fire agreed on Wednesday night. The guerrilla and army headquarters in Beirut were linked by a "hot line" telephone for instant consultations on any cease-fire violations, and a joint four-man high committee was also set up.

Meanwhile, President Suleiman Franjieh was looking for a successor to Prime Minister Amin Hafez, who resigned on Tuesday after Franjieh ordered the air force to repel a guerrilla attack on the Beirut airport.

A military spokesman reported no fighting in the Bekaa Valley since early Thursday afternoon, and Beirut was quiet after only occasional sniping Thursday. The curfew in the capital was relaxed for five hours, bringing thousands of persons into the streets to buy food and other provisions.

The pullback of the infiltrators from Syria promised a significant reduction in the international crisis resulting from the fighting.

There were fears that the Palestinians would be followed by the Syrian army, and Israel said it would intervene if that happened.

State tax processing moves slowly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Taxation expects to have the last of the state income tax returns processed by June 15.

Stan Spaulding, a spokesman for the department, said it had received numerous complaints about the slowness of refund checks.

He said the department now estimates that 1.24 million Ohioans will receive refunds, with the average refund averaging $14.31.

According to Spaulding, that's more refunds than were anticipated.

"We had no way of predicting accurately how many refunds would be involved," he said. "We predicted a low of 750,000 to a high of one million.

Spaulding said that 1,092,346 income tax returns involving refunds had been processed by the middle of this week, and that so far about 800,000 refund checks have been mailed out.

He explained that there is about a week's delay between the time refund information is sent to the state auditor's office and checks are written.

Employment agencies drew fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite a state personnel policy against using private employment agencies to recruit new employes, private agencies place as many as 2,000 persons annually in state jobs, the Dayton Daily News reported.

The agencies then collect fees from the employes for finding them jobs.

The News cited a complaint from Mrs. Delmar Sibrie of Dayton, who recently wrote Gov. John Gilligan asking for a refund of $420 she paid a private agency for finding her a $504-a-month state job. She said she was advised to retain an attorney.

She said she went to the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services looking for a state job and was told they did not know how she could apply for a state job.

She then went to a private agency which referred her to the state job opening.

She said she was not upset about the fee until she saw a memorandum from former State Personnel Director Paul Corey reading: "No one should have to pay a fee to enter state service.

Corey's memo said it is not state policy to use private employment agencies, and that violations of the policy should warrant disciplinary action.

John Marshall, past-president of the Ohio Private Employment Service Association estimated that private agencies place 500 to 2,000 people with the state each year.

He said state officials "continue to ignore" orders not to use the services of private agencies because the OBES cannot do the job.

Toledo policemen all back on jobs

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Toledo Police Chief Robert Duck said Thursday he believes leaders of a police sickout decided to halt the action because "we were getting along very well without them."

Duck said command officers managed to maintain basic services during the three-day work stoppage.

Most of the policemen returned to work Thursday.

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Democratic Party has been patting itself on the back for the large number of tickets pre-sold for its $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner Saturday.

To hear party officials tell it, they sold more than 3,000 tickets with modern techniques such as organized telephone solicitations and advance mailings.

There were widespread reports, however, that an old but successful method also was used. It is commonly referred to as "arm twisting."

Some department heads within the administration have been grumbling about the number of tickets they have been told to dispose of, apparently to employes.

The arm reportedly also has been put on lobbying groups. Even Republican-oriented associations felt compelled to accept an offer of large blocks of tickets. The Democrats are in command.

Advance mailing was so thorough solicitations went even to Statehouse newsmen, most of whom object to paying even $5 for dinner.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown may not have political feet of clay as Gov. John J. Gilligan apparently believes, but he knows a lot about molding the stuff.

In recent months Brown has spent a lot of his spare time making ceramic objects. He has displayed some of them, such as a reproduction of the Liberty Bell, in his office.

Brown has set up a ceramics studio in the basement of his home. He contended it was cheaper pasttime "than going out Saturday afternoons and buying beer for the boys."

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency isn't trying to cripple the coal industry with emission control standards too strict to be economically feasible, said Dr. Ira Whitman, the state's anti-pollution chief.

Whitman said his agency "strongly recommends the continued use of coal" but with control equipment which is "available and proven."

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce and other groups have asked that the state's sulfur oxide standards be eased. They claimed the standards put coal at a competitive disadvantage in the current fuel market.

The Ohio Petroleum Marketers' Association also asked for such relaxation as an essential move in the energy crisis.

Dr. Whitman said 14 major power plants in areas of severe pollution in Ohio have been issued proposed compliance schedules and will be given a chance to testify at public hearings.

"If the companies can prove their cases to our statisfaction," said Whitman, "we may request from the U.S. EPA an extension of the time limit for reduction of sulfur oxide emissions."

Greenfield gets physicians

GREENFIELD — The need for doctors in Greenfield, which prompted the Rotary Doctor Fund, has been relieved somewhat. A husband-wife physician team have agreed to begin practice here on or about June 18.

Dr. Jose A. Faffinan Jr. and his wife, Dr. Maria Reyes Raffinan, will open their offices in the complex owned by Dr. Glenn B. Doan. Mrs. Raffinan will practice solely in Greenfield, while Mr. Raffinan will also practice in Hillsboro.

The Doctor Fund has agreed to pay part of the couple's moving expenses, and gives them an income guarantee. If income fails to meet the specified level per month, the fund will pay the difference, with the stipulation that the doctors will repay the money within three years.

The two physicians have found a home in Greenfield and plan to move here with their three children around the first of June.

POWs blast Hanoi trips by peaceniks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several former prisoners of war, telling Congress of torture and blows to their morale, have urged a ban on unauthorized trips by Americans to nations fighting the United States.

They said life behind Hanoi's bars was made even more miserable by American antiwar visitors to North Vietnam.

"All in all, it created an untenable situation for us," Navy Cmdr. David Hoffman of Philadelphia and San Diego, Calif., told the House Internal Security Committee Wednesday.

The North Vietnamese, he said, "were convinced the delegations that came in there were representative of American public opinion. They were taking everything they said at face value and it was very widely publicized within Vietnam.

"After all, if you can have a picture of an American sitting in an antiaircraft battery with a helmet on as though shooting down an aircraft, that makes pretty good propaganda. It also made it much more difficult for us to continue to fight against the propaganda efforts that were being made trying to use us for propaganda purposes."

Air Force Capt. Larry Carrigan of Scottsdale, Ariz., testified: "I personally know of several men that were either forced to go see a delegation or there were repercussions afterward ....

"These delegations did absolutely nothing for the betterment of our camp life, it did not improve one bit because they came to Hanoi. In fact, it hurt us and hurt us badly."

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, MAY 12

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Avoid needless anxiety and tension. You can deal effectively with difficult assignments by being your innately enthusiastic and sound-thinking self.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Step up and be counted! Several advantages indicated for you if you put forth original and progressive ideas. This is no day for outmoded methods or practices.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Some dubious schemes may be suggested. Be alert — and reject promptly. Also, avoid eccentric behavior, extremes in word or deed.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

An excellent day for furthering business and financial affairs, strengthening personal relationships. You should do well now.

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Influences encouraging for substantial interests and projects. Bide your time where fast moves could offset the effect of work already done commendably.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Emotions could get out of hand unless you are determined to keep them under control. Lack of self-mastery could hinder progress.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

This could be a day of great personal achievement. Aim to attain goals you have set for yourself, but don't expect the unreasonable.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Care needed in both budgetary and domestic matters now. Also, avoid restlessness and changeability. A day for straight-line thinking and action.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may have a desire to try something a bit "different," but think well beforehand of the possible outcome. Your wish may not be based on logic.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Don't be so overly cautious that you lose out on advantages. And don't wait for others to "mend the fences." Some things need to be straightened out — by you.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Determine distance efforts must stretch to cover ground necessary. You may be tempted to press too hard now — trying to cover more than is possible. DON'T!

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

You may not reach the peak of your expectations, but if you keep things going and have faith, you will achieve a great deal. Take clever short cuts; trim out nonessentials.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a warm and outgoing personality, great dignity and extraordinary determination, which helps you to achieve almost "impossible" goals. Your adaptability, strength of will, love of harmony, imagination and pride in your work are outstanding. Many fields of endeavor are open to you because of your versatility and willingness to strive hard for achievement. You could excel especially in art, music, the law, teaching, gardening, writing or archeology. Also, with your innate humanitarianism and sympathy for all living creatures, you could make a notable success as a physician, nurse or veterinarian.

Nixon kin in trouble

"They'd better leave me and my family alone," declared Milhous' wife, Anna.

She said her son, who has declared bankruptcy, had quit a private detective's job because he was being forced to break the law by being assigned as an undercover agent to parties where drugs were being used illegally.

"If he'd got caught, he'd gone to jail," she told a newsman who asked for her comment on her son's plight.

Milhous is the President's first cousin. He disclosed two years ago that he and his wife had been ill and were forced to go on welfare.

ACCEPTED BY ARMY — James D. Haithcock Jr. of 1028 John St., has been accepted into the U.S. Army's Delayed Entry Program (DEP), according to Sgt. Don Warner, local Army representative. Scheduled to graduate from Washington Senior High School in June, Haithcock is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Haithcock Sr. He has been active in track and NROTC during his four years at Washington Senior High School. The DEP program enables a high school senior to make plans while in school for his future after graduation. A qualified man can be guaranteed a choice of training, schooling and, in most cases, location. Pvt. Haithcock selected the Army's 82nd Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

House gets registration by postcard

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed and sent to an uncertain fate in the House a bill that would allow Americans to register for federal elections by mailing a postcard.

The White House opposes the measure, which won 57-37 Senate passage Wednesday only after a month-long filibuster by Southerners and conservatives was broken.

Twice earlier the Senate had failed to cut off debate and bring the bill to a vote. Opponents, led by Sens. James Allen, D-Ala., and Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, contended registration by mail would promote election fraud.

The vote on halting the filibuster was 67 to 32, with all senators voting except John C. Stennis, D-Miss., who is recovering from gunshot wounds.

The bill, which was killed in the Senate last year, would create a voter-registration administration. The Census Bureau would identify potential voters and the Postal Service would deliver registration cards. The voter would register simply by returning the card.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Occasionally, we ought to stop to study this color phenomenon to appreciate its magic and its value. Its present stature has been attained in a comparatively short time for there's little more than 100 years between the first color theory demonstrations and today's sophisticated achievements.

We ought to pause, too, to improve the quality of our color pictures instead of the quantity. And, since color dyes may deteriorate, under certain conditions, we should make an effort to preserve our favorite pictures from premature fading.

Fortunately, to spare you time involved in research, editors of Popular Photography did some homework on the subject. Result: six articles and three color portfolios in the current "1973 Color Photography" annual (Ziff-Davis Publishers, $1.50).

ON THE historical side, Norman Rothschild traces the evolution of color photography from lab experiments in 1881 to the revolutionary new Polaroid SX-70 camera which automatically produces color prints in minutes without fuss or mess.

On the educational beat, Jacob Deschin provides a checklist and compact review of currently available publications on color from general guidebooks for beginners to comprehensive manuals for advanced workers. A fan can select the specific topic — slid making, shooting outdoors . . . or indoors, color processing . . . or printing, etc. — that will improve his picture-taking results.

Harvey V. Fondiller is the author-photographer who says, "The color photographs you make will not survive unless something is done about preserving the images — and soon."

Color films and prints should be stored or kept in a dry, cool, preferably dark place and never in a damp basement or hot attic.

Transparencies and slides are vulnerable to high temperature and high humidity because the combination can cause mold or mildew. They should be stored in a moisture - proof box containing silica gel, a chemical that absorbs moisture.

Other protective measures to preserve color films are mounting in clean glass mounts, inserting in transparent sleeves or applying a lacquer coating. Make sure also that color materials aren't exposed to insecticide sprays, moth flakes or hypo cyrstals.

If a transparency or print you value shows signs of fading, have a duplicate made immediately before deterioration goes any further. Once started, Fondiller warns, the dye destruction takes place slowly, silently and irrevocably.

In another article, Fondiller emphasizes an old rule by which professionals maintain their reputation as good photographers: never show your bad pictures.

"It Takes Courage To Throw Away Color Slides," he entitles it, but it's necessary and practical. Start with the assumption that every frame you click off will not be perfect.. . . not even for pros. So do what they do: they make mulitple shots of any picture they shoot, then select only the best one for expression, composition or mood.

Be discriminating, show only the best pictures and you'll be spared the embarrassment of apologizing for what went wrong.

Even when good pictures show up every fourth or fifth shot, the total effect is a bomb. However, if he had shown only the infrequent gems, he would have been considered a good photographer.

The lesson then is: a wastepaper basket in an important item in a camera fan's filing system. Use it when the pictures aren't good.

Highlighted on the new adhesive are the signatures of those who penned their names to this historic document.

Although one would need a large magnifying glass to see the names on the stamp, a stellar array of Israel's founders can be noted — including David Ben-Gurion, Golda Meyerson (now Meier), David Remez and Moshe Shertok.

Also issued simultaneously is a sourvenir sheet which contains the new stamp but also adds the complete Declaration. The tab sheet is inscribed "Israel — 25 Years of Independence," reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America.

In contrast to the celebration theme is a haunting commemorative dedicated to the "Hitler Holocaust." The design depicts a stylized skeletal hand reaching out to the people of the world.

Fully titled "The Holocaust and the Revolt of European Jewry," the stamp represents the brutal and inhuman treatment by the Hitler regime which wiped out six million Jews from 1933 to 1945.

Copies for $1 each may be obtained directly from the American First Day Cover Society, 14359 Chadbourne, Houston, Tex., 77024.

CYPRUS honors the 29th Congress of the International Skiing Federation to be held in Nicosia in June with a new two-value set of stamps.

The stamp is the 1969 U. S. Christmas issue which has been found to exist vertically and horizontally imperforate. A full pane of 50 stamps, including 30 without the horizontal or vertical perforations, is in Schiff's hands.

This represents the fourth discovery of a completely imperforate sheet stamp since 1968 and the seventh in the past 35 years. The rarity of such errors is evident when one realizes that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has produced 875 billion stamps in that 35 years.

The error pane was purchased in 1969 by a resident of small town in Tennessee for mailing his holiday cards. Though not a philatelist he recognized their possible value and carefully placed them in his bank vault. He did this because he feared that if he reported his find immediately, the Post Office Department might order a reprinting of the error stamps as was done for the Hamarskjold errors of 1962, thus negating their rarity and value.

COLLECTORS who specialize in first-day covers will be interested in the latest issue of "First Days," the official magazine of the American First Day Cover Society. The publication features stories on U.S. issues from 1926 to the present time.

POWER PLANT CHANGES — New precipitators, which will be installed on the south side of the Tait Generating Station, will be 110 feet high, according to the Dayton Power and Light Co. The new conventional design units will be built instead of the Mirror Grid system which could not meet emission control standards. The cost of this latest environmental project will be over $8 million. It will include a modification of the station's topping plant boilers so they can burn fuel oil as well as coal. The precipitators are expected to be in service in early 1975.

Strong wheat prices to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat farmers can expect prices to continue relatively strong for another year, according to the latest production and use estimates by the Agriculture Department.

The winter wheat crop, which supplies the bulk of the bread grain, was estimated Thursday at a record 1.282 billion bushels. That would be 8 per cent or 96 million bushels more than harvested in 1972.

Although the estimate did not include new figures on spring wheat production this year, that type has been projected roughly at 454 million bushels.

Thus, the total crop of 1973 wheat is shaping up at a record of about 1.736 billion bushels. That would compare with 1.545 billion last year and the previous high of 1.618 billion in 1971.

Although the estimates are still subject to major revisions, it appears that as of now a crop of around 1.7 billion bushels would be about equal or slightly less than the demand expected for wheat next marketing year.

As it looks to USDA experts, wheat exports for the year beginning July 1 may run about 950 million bushels, second only to the record 1.115 billion expected to be shipped in the current year.

If domestic use in 1973-74 is about equal to this season, another 800 million or more bushels will be required. That would put total use in the range of 1.7 billion to 1.8 billion bushels.

In other words, if the total crop materializes as it looks to USDA now—and the exports and other requirements shape us—the United States may not produce enough wheat this year to meet total demand.

That would put new upward pressure on the farm price of wheat through mid-1974 when another crop will be ready for harvest. It also would syphon off the dwindling carryover or reserve of wheat, expected to be about 441 million bushels on July 1.

The July 1 carryover, reduced by exports to the Soviet Union and other markets, would be the smallest in six years.

Officials point out, however, that the first official estimates on spring-planted wheat will not be ready until July and that those could indicate a larger (or smaller) crop than currently projected.

Death probed at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police are awaiting results of an autopsy as investigation continued today in the death of Mrs. Brenda Seifert, 25, of Reading.

She was found early Thursday morning by her husband Gary, 25, in the bedroom of the couple's home. He said he had been out for the night.

"All we can say at this time," a police spokesman said, "is that we have a female death that appears to us not to be natural."

Negotiations resumed

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Officials of the B. F. Goodrich Co. and the United Rubber Workers resume negotiations in Columbus today in an attempt to end a strike of 10,600 workers at seven Goodrich plants.

Chamber of Commerce board elects new officers

Fred Domenico, 137 River Rd., was elected president of the Chamber of Commerce at a board of directors meeting Thursday night.

Jack Criswell, community relations manager for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., will be the speaker at the annual meeting to be held in the Mahan Building.

DOMENICO announced the appointment of five persons to the board of directors. They are: Robert Gestrich, Ronald Hidy, John Lachet, David Ogan and LaVerne Haugen. Leroy Barton, chairman of the election committee, reported that Brennan, Otis Hess, Paul Johnson, John Rhoad and Jim Ward were elected to the board of directors by the Chamber membership.

Other Chamber officials are Jerry Sheppard, immediate past president, and James Dunn, executive vice president. Members of the board of directors also will be installed at the annual meeting. An orientation meeting for the new directors will be held at 10 a.m. Monday in the Chamber office.

Pool, as attendance chairman for the annual meeting, announced that formal reservations were mailed Thursday to members. The attendance goal is 400.

The program of work was discussed at the Thursday meeting and will be presented at the annual event.

NEW MEMBERSHIP plaques have been ordered and will be distributed during the membership drive, to begin the day following the annual meeting. A membership planning committee session will be conducted at 1 p.m. today in the Chamber office.

In other business Thursday, the board reviewed the budget, heard a report by Roberta Bowers concerning the 1973 Business and Industry Education Days, and selected Eddie Fisher as chairman of the Christmas Parade.

Property damage crashes reported

Two minor hitskip traffic mishaps were investigated by city police and sheriff's departments Thursday.

A truck driven by Robert L. Oty, 34, Rt. 4, was damaged when it was struck by a hitskip driver on Main Street at 9:54 a.m.

Oty was turning left into an alley beside the J.C. Penney Co. store when a car backed from a parking space and hit the left door of the truck. Oty said that while he went to telephone police the other driver left the scene.

Sheriff's deputies are still investigating a hitskip mishap on Rowe-Ging Road which damaged three rods of fence on the Lowell Coffman estate. Officers said the driver of the hitskip vehicle had failed to negotiate a sharp curve and ran through the wire fence.

City band concert scheduled outdoors

The All-City Band Concert is scheduled to begin at 6:30 this evening at Gardner Park on Circle Avenue. The elementary, Junior High and Senior Bands will all participate.

In the event that the daily rains strike the city at concert time, the presentation will be held in the Senior High gymnasium.

Annual awards presented at Boys' Choir windup

Several awards were presented at the final 1972-73 meeting of the Fayette County Boys' Choir Thursday night in its meeting room at the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Robert E. Willis, founder and director of the choir, made the awards. Brad Tolle won the highest attendance award and highest ticket sales award, Randall Burge the best behavior award, Gregg Sanderson the highest bank account award and Ralph Fast the best salesman award.

Choir officers spoke to the gathering of parents on their experiences during the year especially during the spring trip to Charlottesville, Va., last weekend. President Gregg Sanderson, Vice President Jess Fannin, Sergeant-at-arms Ralph Fast, Librarians Mess Overly and Steve Ford, Secretary-Joe Smith and Pianist John Huffman all gave short talks.

Reports were given by Mrs. Joe Overly, secretary; Mrs. Ron Waggonner, treasurer; Mrs. William Heinz, project chairman; Mrs. Kenneth Ford, bake sale chairman, and Garrell Leasure, choir trip manager.

Mrs. Willis said the choir had some "left over expenses" from the spring trip and will be selling stationery and cards this summer to clear the slate.

The choir entertained their guests with two groups of songs, and Mrs. Willis gave a short theory demonstration. In her 17th year as choir director, Mrs. Willis said she was especially pleased with this year's group because it had shown marked improvement in various aspects throughout the year.

Strevey installed as Barracks head

J. Paul Strevey became commander of Fayette County Barracks 2291, Veterans of World War I, Thursday night at an installation ceremony held in the Paul H. Hughey Post, American Legion, home here. The oath of office was administered by the Rev. Cloyce Copley, District 7 commander and Ohio Department chaplain.

Other officers installed were Robert Rothrock, senior vice commander; Earl Greer, junior vice commander; Clarence Hackett, chaplain; Harold C. Mark, quartermaster; R. B. Tharp, judge advocate; the Rev. Mr. Copley, adjutant; and D. V. Lockwood, Calvin Johnson and Willis E. Hays, trustees.

Plans also were made at the business session to participate in the Memorial Day parade and observance at 7:30 p.m. May 30. Strevey, Mark and Hackett were named to represent the Fayette County Barracks at the state convention June 8-10 in Columbus.

Gold zooms in Europe

LONDON (AP) — A new wave of buying hit European gold markets today, sending the metal to new peaks amid expectations that $100 an ounce would be reached soon. Bullion opened in London at $96.05 an ounce, a dollar above Thursday's close. It was raised another 25 cents at the morning fixing.

The price was up 37½ cents an ounce at $96.125 in Zurich.

The record high followed a steady climb all week that has taken the price up more than $6 an ounce.

Thursday's trading in London was double the normal amount, dealers said, and more than 30 tons, worth nearly $100 million, changed hands. Trading in the big Zurich market was believed even heavier.

The U.S. dollar continued steady on foreign exchanges. Dealers said the American money was again in demand, apparently as a result of the raising of the Federal Reserve discount rate.

Female turkeys, unlike chicken hens, stand upright when they lay eggs. Since the eggs drop an average of 10 inches, the breakage problem is tremendous.

Defensive driving course presented

The sixth Defensive Driving Course, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club, was held Thursday evening in the Farm Bureau auditorium.

The three-hour course, with an intermission when refreshments were served, was conducted by officers from the city, county and State Highway Patrol.

Police Patrolman Dennis Brown spoke on "Laws of Nature - Safety and Mechanics." Fayette County Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks taught a course on defensive driving principles and presented two films.

The course, designed by the Highway Patrol, was conducted to promote driver safety.

Committee chairwoman for the promotion was Miss Frances White, and assisting her were Mrs. Donald Long, Miss Mary Jo Cullen, Miss Mary Sauer, Mrs. William Rogers, Mrs. Dave Seaman and Mrs. Stanley Brown.

Also present for the course was state WRAP (Women Responsible for Accident Prevention) chairman, Mozelle Ross, of Lebanon.

Nader attacks oil companies over shortages

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Consumer advocate Ralph Nader charged Thursday that oil companies deliberately produced less gasoline than was needed in face of increasing demand in order to create a shortage.

Speaking with newsmen here, Nader accused the companies of creating the shortage in an effort to win tax breaks and permission to build the Alaskan pipeline. 7

Nader also criticized the Environmental Protection Agency's decision to allow auto manufacturers a year's grace in meeting 1975 emission control standards. He said it was an example of the Nixon administration's disinterest in enforcing consumer laws.

Social Security Act changes hike retirement payments

CHILLICOTHE — Social Security retirement payments to most aged widows and dependent widowers were increased this year due to the 1972 amendments to the Social Security Act.

Under the old law a 62-year-old widow was entitled to 82½ per cent of the amount her husband would have received at age 65. The widow had nothing to gain by waitinb beyond age 62.

Under the new legislation a widow has the option of beginning her payments with any month from age 60 to age 65. The payments are not reduced if she elects to wait until age 65 to begin receiving her benefits. In that case she receives 100 per cent of the amount her husband was receiving.

If he was not entitled to benefits at the time of his death she would receive the same benefit her husband would have received at age 65.

SOME INCREASE in monthly benefits resulted for widows and widowers already receiving checks. For example, a widow who started getting benefits at age 62 now gets 82.9 per cent of her husband's benefit amount instead of the 82.5 per cent she received under previous law.

Nationwide, about 4 million widows and dependent widowers are receiving higher payments under the new law. Increases that were due were automatically processed by the payment centers and appeared in checks beginning in February.

The 1972 amendments contained several other changes affecting widows and widowers. One requirement of the old law was that marriage took place at least three months before the worker died where the death was accidental or occurred in the line of duty in military service. This provision has been eliminated.

Another change eases a similar duration - of - marriage requirement where the widow had divorced and remarried to the same individual shortly before his death.

A FURTHER CHANGE which benefits some divorced women provides that a surviving divorced wife will no longer need to meet a support requirement. It is still necessary that the marriage had lasted for at least 20 years. Any widow who might qualify under this change must file an application with the Social Security Administration.

The waiting period for disabled widows and widowers is 5 months under the new law instead of 6 months. This change affects all claims in which a decision has not been reached and is effective January 1973.

The 1972 amendments also provide that disabled widows and dependent widowers between age 50 and 65 who have been entitled to benefits for 24 consecutive calendar months, will be entitled to hospital insurance benefits under Medicare effective July 1973.

The disabled widow is also eligible to enroll in the supplementary medical insurance. The Social Security Administration will contact these persons by mail before July 1973.

Anyone wishing more information regarding these or any other changes may contact the Chillicothe Social Security Office at 606 Central Center. The office is open daily, Monday through Friday, from 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. - except on holidays. The telephone number is 775-4950.

Here's a Real Dream Diet

How do you feel about the controversy over the weight-reducing diet that allows you to eat limitless fats?

Mrs. B.B., Mass.

Dear Mrs. B.:

The raging controversy about the high-fat, low-sugar, low-carbohydrate diet has taken on unprecedented proportions in the field of weight-reducing programs.

Those who have lost weight on the recommended regime are the greatest proponents in support of it.

This, of course, is a typical response of anyone who has also lost weight on the water diet, the banana diet, the milk diet, the fruit diet, the nine-day diet, the alcohol diet, the diet-of-the-month, and the dieter's diet.

An ideal diet is the dream of anyone who wants to shed 20 pounds without imposing the slightest effort or deprivation. This diet might include eggs, butter, martinis, French fried potatoes, thick milk shakes, rich gravies, pancakes dripping with butter and syrup, plenty of hot biscuits drenched in butter and jam, doughnuts, baked beans, fettucine saturated in rich sauce, mouth-watering pastries and banana splits topped with mountainous crests of whipped cream.

If, on such a diet one could lose those 20 pounds overnight and regain his svelte figure immediately so much the better.

Since such a fictional diet will have to remain in the world of dreams, the dieter will have to come face to face with the reality that it is only by arduous effort and consistent restraint that he can expect the pounds to come off and STAY OFF.

It is a well-established fact that a high level of cholesterol in the bloodstream is potentially responsible for the narrowing of the arteries. Heart disease and strokes due to arteriosclerotic changes in the blood vessels are related to these high cholesterol levels. There are, of course, other contributing factors such as tobacco.

Certain foods such as eggs, butter and fatty meats (containing saturated fats) do increase the cholesterol level in the blood, and expose people to a greater possibility of vascular disease.

Healthy, normal adults can do themselves an injustice when their diet is excessively high in cholesterol.

People with heart, lung, liver or kidney disease are especially vulnerable to diets that contain large amounts of saturated fats.

There are other conditions in which the metabolic balance is easily thrown off by unrestricted diets.

That which is apparent is that some people have lost weight on this unusually tempting diet. It must be emphasized that this diet has been used for many years by doctors who carefully select their patients and follow them meticulously throughout the weight-losing period, checking constantly on their cholesterol level and the output of significant elements (ketone) in the urine.

Herein lies the key to the controversy that now involves physicians and laity. When the general public becomes captivated by such a diet, the element of risk is introduced unless this plan is carefully supervised by a physician. The doctor knows his own patients. Their underlying medical status may be such that he will often advise against such a regime.

Any diet, new or old, should be under the doctor's supervision if permanent weight control, without risk to health, is to be maintained.

Contract Bridge

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Notrump and North leads the ten of spades. How would you play the hand?

	♠ KQ6 ♥ A5 ♦ A74 ♣ A9543
♠ AJ3 ♥ K82 ♦ KJ5 ♣ QJ62	N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts. North leads the ace and another heart, South following suit. How should you play the hand

	♠ K8 ♥ KQ10984 ♦ A10 ♣ AQ9

1. If you were sure of five club tricks you'd also be sure of the contract, but, since the odds strongly favor only four, you must consider a diamond finesse as an eventual source for the twelfth trick.

This train of thought leads to the surprising conclusion that, since there are two ways to play the clubs and only one way to play the diamonds, you should try the diamond finesse first — as an aid to how to play the clubs.

Suppose you lead a diamond to the jack at trick two and it wins. Once this occurs, the contract is foolproof. The only remaining problem is to absolutely guarantee four club tricks, and this can be done very simply by returning to your hand in any suit but clubs and leading a low club to dummy. This enables you to guard against either opponent's having the K-10-8-7.

If the diamond finesse at trick two loses, you will have to assume that South was dealth specifically the K-x or K-x-x of clubs (a 26 per cent chance) and rely on a finesse to produce five club tricks.

2. Win the heart in your hand, cash the K-A of spades, ruff a spade, then play the A-10 of diamonds. This sequence of plays guarantees the contract 100 per cent.

If North wins the diamond, he is bound to hand you a trick whatever he returns. If South wins the diamond and returns a low club, you finesse the nine — thus forcing North to yield the game-going trick. If South's return is the jack or ten of clubs, you play the queen to achieve the same result.

If South wins the ten of diamonds and returns a low diamond, you discard a club, while, if he returns a spade, you get a ruff and discard.

All roads lead to Rome.

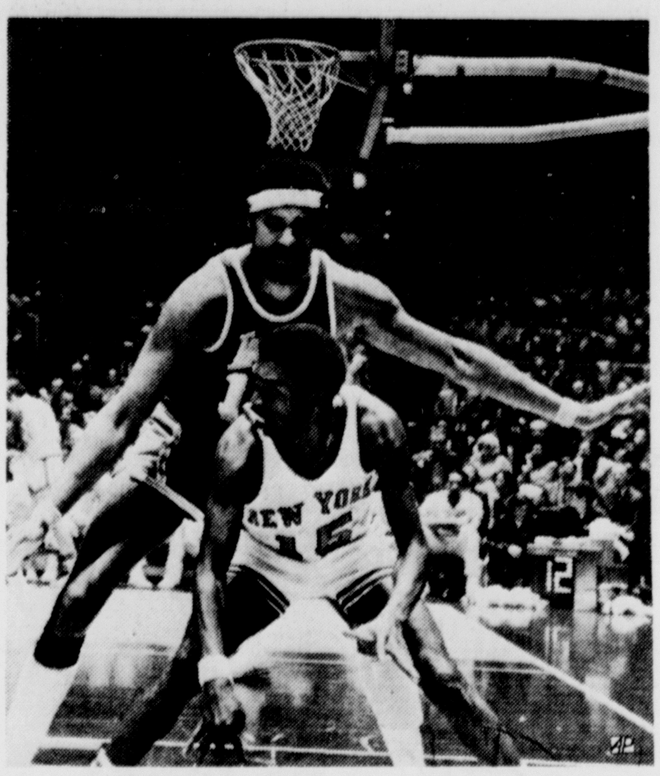
Knicks nab NBA playoff crown



LONG AND SHORT OF IT — New York Knicks guard Earl Monroe (15) is dwarfed by Los Angeles Lakers pivotman Wilt Chamberlain as he tries to dribble the ball (not shown) away from the 7-foot-1 star during the National Basketball Association playoffs.

NY clinches series with 102-93 victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Four in a row seems almost impossible," sadly commented the giant Wilt Chamberlain, yet he and his Los Angeles Laker teammates had lost their National Basketball Association title to New York in a virtual sweep.

"New York was the better team," added the 7-foot-1 Laker after the Knicks had hung up a 102-93 victory Thursday night and a 4-1 winning margin in playoff series games.

They had lost the opener and then come back to whip the defending champions four straight and there were few excuses.

"They are well balanced, have tremendous passing and so many good shooters that you can't concentrate on one man. The key to the series was that the defense stopped our running game."

The Knicks' defense throttled the Lakers, particularly when there was a chance of Los Angeles pulling ahead.

Ironically, the Lakers had wanted to play New York in the final series rather than Boston and cheered when the Knicks beat the Celtics in the Eastern playoffs.

Last year, it was Los Angeles 4-1 over the Knicks, who had won the NBA title in 1970 by beating the Lakers.

"I think we had more depth than we did the last time we won the title," commented Knicks' Coach Red Holzman. "We didn't have Jerry Lucas, Earl Monroe or Dean Meminger then."

Monroe took scoring honors for the finale on the New York side with 23 points and Bill Bradley, the Rhodes scholar, added 20.

Dave DeBusschere, who starred two nights previously with 33 points, tallied just one field goal and sprained his right ankle in the fourth quarter when he finally did reach the scoring list.

Willis Reed, the nine-year veteran pro from Grambling, proved tremendous. Three years ago when the Knicks beat the Lakers for the title he was the most valuable in the series. Then his knees were injured. Last year he didn't even play in the finals.

This time he showed more quickness than any time during the season.

Again, a national magazine voted him most valuable and he received a new car.

In the final game, he scored 18 points, grabbed 12 rebounds and had seven assists.

The Lakers had only one excuse. Back court ace Jerry West was hampered by strained hamstring muscles in both legs. The right was bandaged for the finale and he scored only 12 points.

"With Jerry hurt, our quickness, our speed and our running game just aren't the same," said Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman and even efforts of 28 points by Gail Goodrich and 23 by Chamberlain could not compensate for the bad West underpinnings.

For the winners, Jerry Lucas commented, "I really believe this is the most intelligent team in the history of pro basketball. Everybody on this team is thinking all the time. We don't overpower anybody, we have to finesse them. To do that, you have to play smart, intelligent basketball."

LEAVES JAIL — Heisman football trophy winner Johnny Rodgers pulls on a fur hat as he leaves the Lancaster County-Lincoln City jail after serving a 30-day sentence for driving on a suspended license. Rodgers says he plans to go to Canada and then to San Diego, Calif., to discuss his pro football future.

Circleville outburst ousts Lions from section tourney

Circleville's Tigers, a perennial tourney toughie, unveiled an explosive 17-hit assault to usher Washington C. H. to the sidelines of the Class AA Central District sectional baseball tournament Thursday night at the WSHS diamond.

Head coach Dan Fouts' Tigers, who have now beaten the Blue Lions twice this spring, clobbered the injury-riddled Washington C. H. 17-1 to advance to the finals of the South sectional.

WASHINGTON C. H. which saw a three-game winning string snapped, was eventually forced to play without the service of five regulars in the contest.

Junior Duke Willis suffered a sprained ankle prior to the game, but later came back to belt a pinch-hit double. Third sacker Herb Bonner suffered a broken nose in batting practice and junior Mark Johnson was spiked in the first inning and later removed from the game. Senior catcher Mike Domenico was attending a Hi-Y convention in Columbus and Craig Stebleton was hurt during the game.

The loss was the sixth in 14 outings for head coach Rodger Mickle's Blue Lions. Washington C. H. had won tourney games over Watkins Memorial and Columbus Bishop Hartley.

Greg Hoskins, who has emerged with victories in both starts against the Blue Lions, nursed a 1-0 lead for four innings, before the Tigers erupted for 12 runs in the fifth inning.

The 12-run outburst, coupled with eight Washington C. H. fielding miscues, didn't help the Blue Lion cause.

Coach Mickle employed a total of three pitchers in hopes of quieting the booming Circleville bats. Stebleton started for Washington C. H. and pitched four innings before being relieved in the middle of Circleville's fifth inning explosion.

HOSKINS, in picking up the win, allowed one run and scattered six hits. Washington C. H. scored its only run of the lopsided contest in the seventh inning.

Second sacker Tom Taylor sparked Circleville's high-powered offensive attack with four hits in four appearances at the plate, while Dave Truex, Rock Davis and Mike Speakman had two hits each.

Washington C. H., still nursing hopes of at least clinching a share of the South Central Ohio League baseball pennant, will risk its 2-1 loop record in a game at Greenfield McClain tonight. The Lions stand 8-6 overall.

Lion spikers fare well in prelims

WCH's Wilson grabs district track berth

Wilson leaped 20 feet, four and one-fourth inches in the long jump Thursday to place third in the sectional field. The performance earned Wilson an automatic berth in the Class AA Central District track meet which will be held May 19 at Columbus Walnut Ridge High School.

WASHINGTON C.H.'s mile relay team shattered a school record, eclipsing the old mark by a total of five seconds. The mile relay team of Kevin Merritt, David Payton, Gene Lyons and Bob Osborne placed second in the sectional prelim field with a 1:34.7 clocking.

Senior Brian Storm, who captured sectional honors last spring and later advanced to the state track meet where he placed third, posted victories in the 100 and 220-yard dashes to earn a spot in Saturday's semifinals.

Storm turned in a 10.1 clocking in the 100-yard dash and a 22.3 time in the 220-yard dash.

The Blue Lions' 880-yard relay team will also advance to the sectional finals after a fine effort in the prelims. Members of the 880 relay team were Kevin Terry, Peyton, Jeff Willis and Storm.

Terry won a berth in the semifinals in the low hurdles and senior Eric Shaffer will compete in the semifinals of the 440-yard dash.

Saturday's semifinals will open at 10 a.m. with the finals scheduled for 2 p.m. Six representatives from the sectional finals will qualify for the Class AA Central District meet.

Bench joins Shamsky in Reds record book

CINCINNATI — The booming bat of Johnny Bench has put the Cincinnati Reds catcher into the baseball record book once again.

Bench became only the sixth player in National League history to hit four consecutive home runs in two games. The defending major league homer king accomplished the feat in Philadelphia on his last time at bat Tuesday night and his first three times up Wednesday.

Johnny is the second Reds player to do it. Art Shamsky hit four in a row in 1962. Deron Johnson was the last National Leaguer to turn the feat, blasting four straight in 1971. The others who have done it are Bill Nicholson, Ralph Kiner (twice) and Stan Musial. Johnson, a former Red, was with the Phils at the time.

IT WAS the second time in his career Bench had hit three homers in the same game . . . both times against Steve Carlton, Philadelphia's Cy Young Award winner.

Only one other Reds player ever hit three home runs in a game twice. Gus Bell did it in 1955 and 1956.

Bench blasted his way into the record book last year during a five-game home run tear. He hit seven in the five games, tying Jim Bottomley's record that had stood since 1929. Although not a record, Bench also added seven more in an eight-game stretch in September.

Home run binges are nothing new to Bench. He hit six in eight games in 1969. During one four-game stretch in 1970 Johnny hit six, including three off Carlton, who was then with St. Louis. And in 1971 he hit nine in the month of April, including four in three games against Atlanta.

Just 25 years old, Bench now has 163 career home runs, including nine this year. Few players in baseball history have hit as many at such a young age.

Reporter Ken winner of Lebanon feature

Six horses are in the field.

Thursday night, Reporter Ken forged into the lead moments before a five-horse accident at the three-qyarters mark and went on to win. Only two horses finished the race.

There were no injuries when a horse fell and created a chain of collisions.

Red Chinese tour scheduled by cagers

WASHINGTON (AP) — An all-star men's team will be joined by a college women's squad when the United States invades mainland China for an amateur basketball tour in June.

Two Providence University stars, 6-foot-8 center Marvin Barnes and 6-4 guard Kevin Stacom, reportedly are assured of spots on the team.

200 elusive for Indy drivers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Where is that 200 miles-perhour lap so freely predicted for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this year?

"It's still over there in the garage area, in the minds of the drivers who will have to do it," said one seasoned observer. "I think it will come ... when the tension builds up during qualifying."

Another pit roader pointed to the top of the front stretch grandstand and commented, "You won't see a 200 mile lap at the speedway as long as that pennant up there continues to flutter in the wind. That's the key — no wind, good track conditions and a perfect car-driver."

With only two practice sessions left—a 9 a.m.-6 p.m. shift today and a 90-minute warmup Saturday close to the magic barrier heading into the first weekend of qualifying for the May 28 500-mile race, richest motoring event in the world.

The mad scramble for positions in the 33-car starting field begins at 11 a.m. EST Saturday. At least 40 drivers were to participate in a late afternoon drawing to gain assignments for the first session under the clock, when the pole position will be at stake.

Their target will be Bobby Unser's track record speed of 196.678 m.p.h. for one lap and 195.940 for four laps, or 10 miles, set last year. Unser himself has been slowly gearing up for a shot at his mark.

Until today's final warmups, however, 25-year-old Swede Savage had been the closest to the 200 mark. The second-year driver from Santa Ana, Calif., posted an unofficial 197.802 last Saturday, during what track observers said were perfect weather and track conditions.

Colonels top Pacers, 109-93; final game slated Saturday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The home court advantage has seemingly turned to disadvantage in the American Basketball Association championship series, but Indiana Pacers' Coach Bobby Leonard isn't very happy about going back to Kentucky Saturday.

Leonard was disappointed but not shaken after the Pacers lost to the Colonels 109-93 here Thursday night to even the series at three games apiece.

"The momentum's gone back and forth in this series and now they've grabbed it back," he said.

Each team has won two of three games away from home, and Kentucky can't afford to get too bouyant about having the home court advantage for the nationally televised seventh and final game.

Kentucky Coach Joe Mullaney mulled over the poor home court luck of the first six games and said, "It doesn't look too good, but we'd rather be home."

Indiana, the defending ABA champion, is the only team to have won two league titles in the first five seasons of play, but the Pacers have been unable to win a title at home.

Thursday night, Kentucky took the lead in the early minutes of the first quarter and never relinquished it. The Colonels built the lead to 12 points, 55-43, at halftime and upped it to 14 in the opening minutes of the third period.

The Pacers cut the deficit to 78-76 with 44 seconds left in the third period, but Kentucky then reeled off a 19-3 surge to put the game on ice.

Kentucky forward Dan Issel, who popped in 22 points, pointed to 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore and said, "If we can get a performance out of Artis like we did tonight, I think we'll be all right."

The big center led both teams with 28 points and 21 rebounds. He was aided by guard Louie Dampier, the only remaining original Colonel, who pitched in 25 points. Dampier hit 10 of 15 shots from the floor, including a three-pointer.

George McGinnis topped Indiana with 26 points, followed by Mel Daniels with 17 and Freddie Lewis with 16. But that trio only managed five points in the fourth quarter as Indiana scored only 17 points.

Longshots victorious at River Downs opener

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — River Downs opened Thursday before a record 8,800 fans, but the day belonged to longshots.

Jenny Jo, 45-1, won the $4,400 feature race to pay $96.60, $26.40 and $10.40.

Straight Dope, 30-1, and Bull Along, 70-1, combined for a quinella payoff of $1,959.60.

Conquering Roman was second in the feature race and returned $6.20 and $5. Antebate showed at $7.60.

The record crowd also produced a record opening day handle of $529,846.

Post 25 call

The last of three tryout sessions for prospective Washington C.H. Post 25 American Legion baseball players will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Charles Mallow, of the Post 25 baseball committee, said the tryouts will again be held at the Washington Senior High School diamond.

Colonial Stair sponsor

Top slo-pitch teams enter tourney here

Fayette County fans will have the opportunity to see some of Ohio's top slo-pitch teams this weekend in the Colonial Stair-sponsored tournament at Eyman Park.

The three-day tourney, which has attracted 18 of the top slo-pitch teams in the area, will open tonight with a three-game schedule.

A hefty schedule, including seven first round games, are booked Saturday. Action will continue Sunday with the championship game of the double elimination event set at 6 p.m.

GENE FOUT, manager of the sponsoring Colonial Stair team, said the tourney will offer first, second and third place trophies, plus individual awards for members of the championship team. A home run and leading hitter trophies will also be presented.

Fout said that Don Fowler, president of the Fayette County Softball Association, will be in charge of the tourney, which is the first in Washington C. H. this season.

The tourney field includes teams from Chillicothe, Greenfield, London, Columbus, Xenia, Carroll and Westerville, in addition to five teams from the Fayette County league.

Fayette County teams entered are Colonial Stair, Washington C. H. Eagles Lodge, Hidy's Food Market, Bell-Dor-Lite and Jeffersonville Merchants.

In tonight's action starting at 7 p.m., Chipaco's, of Chillicothe, will clash with the Greenfield Businessmen; Colonial Stair meets a team from the London Correctional Institute at 8 p.m. and Associates, of Chillicothe, will cross bats with Wilhelm Plumbing, of Xenia, in the nightcap.

Saturday's schedule opens at 10 a.m. with Page News, of Chillicothe, meeting the Washington C. H. Eagles Lodge. Hidy's Food will collide with Bell-Dor-Lite at 11, followed by Jeff Merchants vs. Carroll Union 76, 12; Jequita's, of Columbus, vs. King's Realty, of Westerville, 1; Hillsboro UAW vs. Snawnee Trophy of Chillicothe, 2; Pasquella's, of Xenia, vs. winner of Jeff Merchants - Carroll Union 76 game, 3; and Staub's, of Chillicothe, vs. winner of Colonial Stair-LCI game, 4.

BRL draft nabs 57 players

A total of 57 players were selected in the annual Fayette County Babe Ruth League draft for the four Washington C.H. teams Thursday night.

John Skinner, the new Babe Ruth League commissioner, said the four Washington C.H. teams have set practice schedules and all managers request that all returning players, plus those drafted report to Roszmann Field for the drills.

Girtons will practice at 8 a.m. Saturday, Wilson's Chevrolet at 2 p.m., Willis Insurance at 10 a.m. Saturday and the Medics at 4 p.m. Saturday.

MEDICS — Scott Johnson, Alan Conner, Mark Tubbs, Gary Fisher, Bill Davis, Keith Downing, Jim Sturgeon, Randy Hinkley, Brian Carr, Chip Adams, Bret Wilson, Jim Haines and Jeff Penwell.

Practice scheduled for Wilson players

Practice has been scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday at Roszmann Field for members of the Wilson Chevrolet Babe Ruth League baseball team.

Gary Dunn, coach of the Wilson Chevrolet team, said all returning major and minor league players, plus those picked in Thursday's draft should report for the drills.

Canadiens Stanley Cup victors

CHICAGO (AP) — Their objective achieved, the Montreal Canadiens took turns sipping champagne from the coveted Stanley Cup which they earned Thursday night with a hardfought 6-4 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

Aside from a shout here and there, there was no whooping it up, no hollering and no spraying of champagne. They were tired, weary warriors. They had done their job. The Stanley Cup now goes back to Montreal where they feel it belongs following a one year absence in Boston.

"The Stanley Cup is the only trophy," said Yvan Cournoyer who set a playoff record of 15 goals when he hammered in the tie-breaking and winning goal at 8:13 of the third period.

"The Conn Smythe?," said Cournoyer, the most valuable player in the playoffs. "I wasn't even thinking about it. One man can do nothing. I didn't think about the record. When you work hard, things happen. And if they happen, they happen. How important was my goal? How important was Henri's goal?"

Henri Richard, playing on his 11th Stanley Cup winner, got the Canadiens going with a score as only 12 seconds remained in the first period and the Hawks leading 2-0 on the first two of three goals by Pit Martin.

Goals by Pete Mahovlich and Rejean Houle gave the Canadiens a 3-2 lead early in the second period. As the series had been going, rookie Dave Kryskow tied it with a disputed goal at 8:32. Frank Mahovlich, whose record of 14 goals in one series set two years ago was wiped out by Cournoyer, made it 4-3 before Martin completed his hat trick to tie it at 4-4.

Summer pin loops to open schedules at Bowland Lanes

Summer bowling leagues are now starting to form at Bowland Lanes, according to proprietor Tony Capuana.

Capuana said there's still plenty of time to register for one of the three summer leagues, and interested bowlers are asked to contact Bowland Lanes for further details.

The Thursday Night Mixed Couples League will launch its summer schedule this week at 7 p.m. Earl Mark is secretary of the mixed couples league.

Mrs. Dale (Marge) Merritt, secretary of the Monday Night Ladies League, reports that league will embark on its summer season starting Monday, May 21. Mrs. Merritt said an organizational meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. prior to the start of the opening night of bowling.

Capuana said the three-man team league which bowls on Tuesday nights is scheduled to open May 22.

Our company is growing. We now have an opening as a branch manager trainee for an ambitious man who is willing to start at a modest but comfortable salary and look forward to earning well above average.

Previous experience not necessary. We train you. You'll work with our customers both inside and out of the office. In a friendly manner you'll be helping people with their financial problems. You'll have an exceptional opportunity to learn the consumer business.

Our men who start in similar positions become branch managers and leaders in their community and business. You can do the same.

ONE OF THE FINER HOMES

We have had the pleasure of offering for sale. Three massive bedrooms and bath upstairs off a central hallway. Downstairs as you enter the lower hall, you have easy access to the tastefully decorated living room, family room or formal dining room. The large eat-in kitchen has an abundance of new cabinets, built in china and work desk. The extra large bath downstairs offers spaciousness that includes washer and dryer hook-up. Partial basement, hot water heat, storm windows and screens. At the back of the lot is a four car garage, plus block storage building that gives you much outdoor spaciousness as well. Homes such as this one is seldom offered for sale, and are seldom in showplace condition such as this one. It's a jewel. Let us show you through.

Heartworm disease of dogs now blamed on mosquitoes

CHICAGO (AP) — Many dogs annually fall victim to canine heartworm disease, which in its advanced stages causes impaired breathing, coughing, listlessness and wight loss. If not detected and treated, the disease can lead to extensive organ damage and death, warns the American Veterinary Medical Assn.

Canine heartworm disease is caused by long white worms called Dirofilaria immitis. The disease can reach advanced stages and even cause death before signs become apparent to the owner. In its early stages heartworm disease can be detected using a blood test. Sometimes an infected dog will have adult worms but no larvae in the blood. To confirm the infection in these cases, a veterinarian must use X-rays and other laboratory tests.

Technically known as dirofilariasis, canine heartworm disease is transmitted by mosquitoes. When biting an infected dog, a mosquito may take up blood containing larval forms of the heartworm that are microscopic in size. After a 2-week incubation period in the mosquito, the larvae become infective.

Girl arrested for possession of marijuana

A Westlake teenager was arrested for possession of marijuana in Jeffervsonville Thursday afternoon when sheriff's deputies disovered three plastic bags of the drug in the panel truck she was driving.

Deputies said Joan M. Borelli, 18, initially was stopped on High Street for speeding in a school zone. When she was unable to produce proof of ownership of the truck Deputy Charles Wise made a routine search of the truck and discovered the marijuana.

Miss Borelli was brought to the county jail and later was released after posting $523 bond.

Howard Burnett, Jeffersonville, reported that someone threw rocks through five heavy plastic covers on his windows during the past week. Damage was set at $125.

James Morris, 43, Sabina, was treated at Memorial Hospital for a laceration of the nose suffered when he became ill at the Lafayette Inn Thursday night.

Sheriff's deputies said Morris was sitting at a table when he became ill and passed out. He was taken to Memorial Hospital by ambulance and later released.

Colleges face bias charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 150 all-male and all-female colleges, including some of the most prestigious in the nation, must explain by early summer delays in totally eliminating sex discrimination in admissions.

A government memo and guidelines mailed recently to presidents of the institutions in 33 states say they have up to six years to comply with a new anti-discrimination law if accetable transition plans are received before July 1.

"Educational institutions which are eligible to submit a plan, but do not, will be required not to discriminate on the basis of sex in admissions as of June 24, 1973," the memo said.

Copies were sent to such schools as Notre Dame, Harvard, Yale and Vassar.

Institutions violating the guidelines, covered by Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, risk the loss of all federal aid.

The memo from Peter E. Holmes, director of the Office for Civil Rights, and John Ottina, commissioner-designate of the U.S. Office of Education, asks the schools to identify all obstacles that might hinder full compliance this fall.

"Nondiscrimination does not imply that your institution must or will accept students of either sex in any particular number or proportion, but it does mean removal of all obstacles, based on sex, to admission of students," the guidelines said.

Jeff Downs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Downs, 811 S. Main St., and Steve Fenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fenton, 1031 Millwood Ave., were named chairmen of committees.

Eleven other Hi-Y members also are in Columbus for the Youth in Government session. They are Steve Hill, John Tatman, Garth Cox, John Hopkins, Jeff Wallace, Mark Allen, David Mustine, Jim Smith, Jim Vess, Keith Stimpert and Rory Souther. They were accompanied by Austin Crusie and George Shoemaker, Hi-Y advisers.

The session will conclude Saturday afternoon.

City firemen make 10 runs during April

City firemen made a total of 10 fire runs during the month of April according to a monthly report released by Chief Maynard Denen.

Of the 10 runs, eight were in the city and two in Union Township. There were five blazes involving buildings, four in trucks or cars and one grass fire during the month. Firemen responding to the runs averaged just over 11 per call.

The department's five pieces of equipment worked a total of 6.9 hours and traveled 21.9 miles in answer to the calls.

Other activities of the department included: four trash burning and after hours burning complaints; two fire prevention lectures; five miscellaneous inspections; investigation of 11 gas leaks or carbon monoxide tests; two hours of training and familiarization on the aerial ladder; two hours of pumper training and two tours of the department by school children.

The department also sponsored a county-wide meeting on the safe handling and storage of anhydrous ammonia and toured the Pennington Bakery.

Columbus Flight Service program explained here

Three speakers from the Columbus Flight Service briefed members of the Fayette County Pilots Association about services the firm has to offer at a regular meeting held Thursday night at the Fayette County Airport.

The county pilots learned that Columbus Flight Service, which is a division of FAA, helps lost pilots, aids those planning trips in terms of weather conditions and helps the pilots follow flight plans. The county association also learned what is involved in search and rescue missions.

Members discussed the new beacon which is being installed at the Fayette County Airport. The weather has he'l up installation of the beacon. Poles have been set and further work such as trenching, laying lines and stringing wires for the poles will be completed at 8 a.m. Saturday. The new beacon should be in operation within two weeks.

A special meeting of the Fayette County Pilots Association will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 23 at the airport. A safety specialist from the General Aviation District Office in Cincinnati will be present at the meeting.

Election turnout only 1,586,667

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Unofficial figures show the vote turnout in Tuesday's election was 1,586,667, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said today.

Brown had predicted that 1,680,000 would go to the polls. Brown blamed the poor turnout — 30.3 per cent of the nearly 5,238,000 eligible — on general public disinterest.

In addition to the seven statewide issues, there 286 local questions on the ballot.

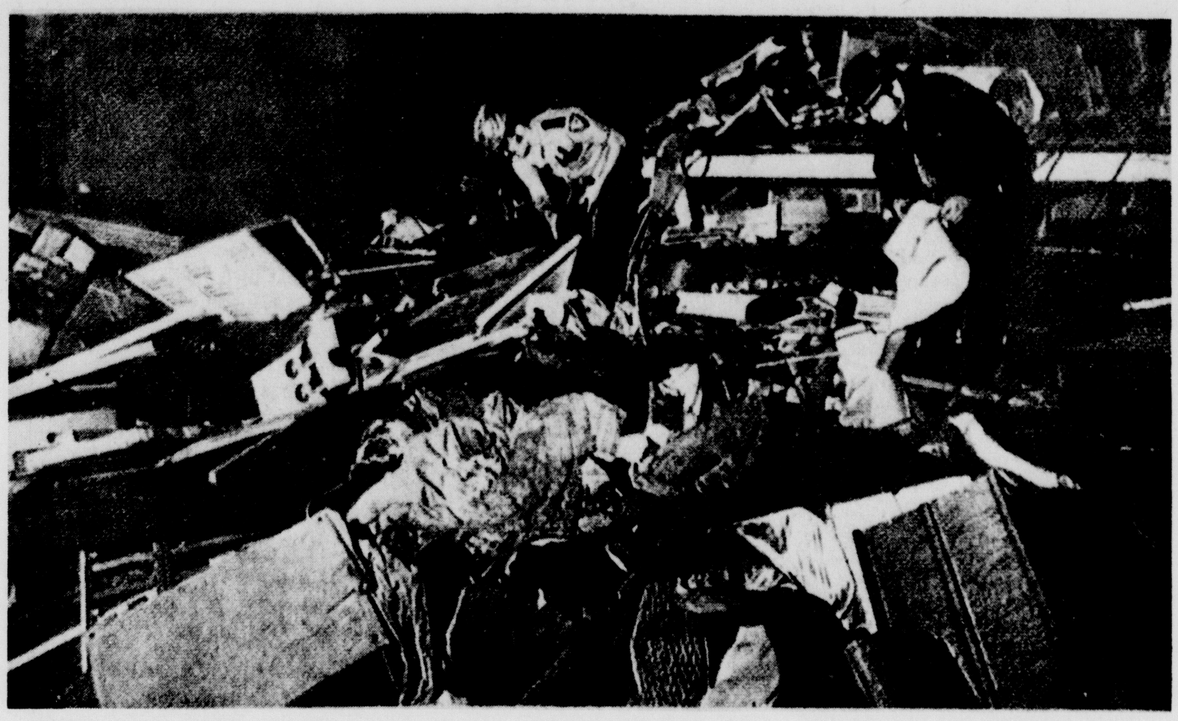
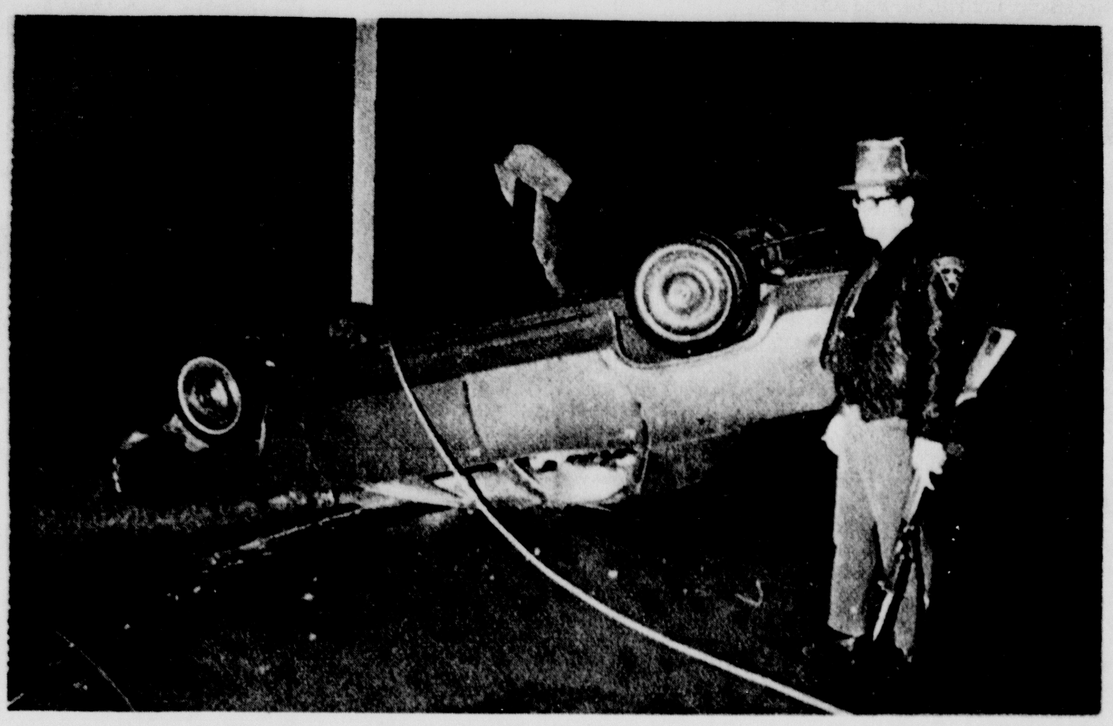
Toll mounts in wake of Ohio tornadoes





A NIGHT OF TERROR — Police search the wreckage of a trailer court at Willard after a tornado struck the Huron County town late Thursday afternoon, killing at least three and injuring scores. Huron County city shattered

WILLARD, Ohio (AP)— Squads of Ohio National guardsmen and police officers moved into storm-battered parts of Willard at dawn to resume the search for bodies in wreckage left by a tornado Thursday night.

The tornado was one of dozens that raked Ohio and neighboring states, killing at least four persons and injuring about 100 others.

Sheriffs' deputies said many persons in the north-central Ohio community were unaccounted for hours after the tornado flattened three trailer parks. A National Guard officer with the search operation said about 300 trailers were believed destroyed.

The swath cut by the tornado was sealed off to all but rescue workers Thursday night, after Gov. John Gilligan dispatched 200 Ohio National Guardsmen to Willard, plus Republic, Kenton and Savannah.

Sheriffs' officers said two youths were arrested here on charges related to looting.

Dozens of deadly funnels were sighted over Ohio—the National Weather Service reported 27 within one hour along 75 miles from Akron south to Cambridge. Others were sighted, and some hit ground, in Indiana and Kentucky.

Three persons were killed in Willard and a woman died near Republic, Ohio when a tornado swept her car off a road.

Richard A. Falk, administrator of the Willard Area Hospital, reported receiving "about 65" persons with storm injuries. Twenty-three persons were admitted there and one woman was transferred to a Mansfield hospital.

Fourteen persons injured in a tornado at Bellville were taken to a Mansfield hospital for treatment. Three were admitted.

Several persons were injured at Kenton.

One man was injured near Newark and there were other scattered reports of injuries across northern Ohio.

Falk said doctors and nurses were summoned from several surrounding communities to help treat injured.

Law officers from a number of communities came to Willard to assist in rescue operations.

Sheriff John Borgia said one deputy pulled an injured woman from wreckage and she later died at a hospital.

Deputy Sheriff Dick Fredritz said witnesses reported the twister performing a deadly dance—bounding up and down in the air—moments before it struck two trailer parks at the southeast edge of town.

It cut a one-mile path of destruction, damaging several businesses in addition to the trailer parks, before disappearing into heavy rain clouds.

"One guy told me kids were flying through the air," Fredritz said. "He thinks there are still kids in the fields. There are too many of them unaccounted for."

"I'm afraid we're going to find more bodies," said Deputy Sheriff H.H. Tappel.

John Agee, 29, a truck driver from Roanoke, Va., was in the Triangle Motel when the storm hit.

"First the roof started to go off," he said, "then the bed, then the mattress on the bed started to rise.

"There was glass flying all over the place. The first thing I did was nothing. I just sat there for ten minutes."

Agee was treated at a hospital for minor cuts and bruises.

"Take a look at that trailer park," a state patrolman said of one heavily damaged area. "The highest thing standing isn't more than three feet off the ground."

Ed Felver, 30, was working in a printing company when the tornado hit. He described it as "just a huge roar."

"The whole place filled up with dust," he said. "Everyone was trying to find something to hang onto."

Felver later went to a trailer park and helped put injured persons into ambulances. "I don't know why more people didn't die," he said. "It's just a miracle."

The tornadoes struck in the afternoon. The first reports of funnels were at Forty Wayne, Ind., near the Ohio border. There was scattered minor damage in Indiana before the storm crossed into Ohio.

Snaking funnels touched down at Defiance, Malinta and Deshler, Ohio, causing some damage. Other damage was reported at Columbus, Ashville, Somerset, Thornville, Newark and a rural area west of Marion. Several

Heavy storms miss county, cause fright

A series of small thunderstorms which scurried across Fayette County Thursday night, accompanied by gusty winds, lightning and some hail, caused little or no damage but created apprehension among citizens.

Sheriff's Department dispatcher Gary Sword reported he was swamped with calls from persons inquiring about weather conditions in the area. He estimated that about 100 calls had come to the office. Police dispatchers said they also had some calls from worried residents.

Neither police nor sheriff's departments reported any damage in the city or county area dues to a fast moving storms which was visible to the north.

Tornadoes were spotted in nearby Franklin and Pickaway counties and Madison County was under alert, but there were no reports of any funnel cloud sightings in this immediate area.

Mitchell, Stans indicted

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans say they believe they will be vindicated when the facts behind their indictments are known.

They were indicted Thursday on charges of obstruction of justice, conspiracy and perjury in connection with their roles as cabinet officers and leaders of President Nixon's reelection campaign. The case involves a secret campaign contribution and alleged improper government influence.

Financier Robert L. Vesco, a fugitive, and New Jersey Republican leader Harry L. Sears, Vesco's lawyer, were charged in the indictments with conspiracy and obstruction of justice.

The four will be arraigned in U.S. District Court here May 21. If later convicted of all charges, Mitchell and Stans would face maximum prison terms of up to 50 years, Vesco and Sears, 20 years.

Mitchell denied any wrongdoing Thursday and said, "I am certain that the judicial proceedings in this case will fully vindicate and confirm the absence of any wrongdoing."

Stans said he was "greatly dismayed" by the grand jury action and added: "I expect that when all the facts are heard, I will be vindicated." Sears also claimed innocence.

The indictment alleges that Vesco, 37, made a secret $200,000 cash gift to the GOP campaign on April 10 in an attempt to influence a Securities and Exchange Commission probe of his far-flung financial operations.

The SEC filed a civil complaint on Nov. 27, charging that Vesco, 20 other persons and a score of corporations looted $224 million from Investors Overseas Services (IOS), four foreign mutual funds they controlled.

U.S. Atty. Whitney North Seymour Jr., who announced the indictments, said there was nothing to implicate President Nixon in the alleged conspiracy. The President's former counsel, John W. Dean III, was mentioned in the indictments.

Mitchell, who resigned last July as director of Nixon's reelection campaign, is alleged to have arranged a meeting between Sears and William J. Casey, then chairman of the SEC, on the day the $200,000 contribution from Vesco was received by Stans.

Rhodes can run for governorship

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court has given former Republican Gov. James Rhodes the go-ahead to seek the governor's office again in 1974.

In a 5-2 decision Thursday — with the court's only two Democrats dissenting — the court ordered Secretary of State Ted Brown to accept the former two-term governor's nominating petitions.

Brown refused the petitions in February, setting the stage for the court test of a 1954 constitutional amendment limiting governors to "two successive terms of four years." Rhodes, who served from 1963 to 1971, claimed he was eligible to run again after sitting one term out.

The Supreme Court said in part that the amendment's language was "ambiguous," and that a governor may serve "as many terms as he may achieve," as long as no more than two are successive.

The lauguage in the 1954 amendment, the court said, "constituted a distinct and clear departure from that which could have been easily stated if the desired result was to limit persons to two,-four-year terms during their life time."

Rhodes, who will be 64 in September, issued a short statement at his Columbus real estate development office, saying only that "the Supreme Court of Ohio has spoken, and I will be a candidate for re-election as governor."

The Supreme Court's majority opinion was signed by Chief Justice C. William O'Neill and Justices Paul W. Brown, J.J.P. Corrigan, Thomas M. Herbert, and Leonard J. Stern. Justices Frank D. Celebrezze and William B. Brown dissented.

Reaction to the court decision varied.

Democratic Gov. John Gilligan had nothing to say about the decision. His press secretary, Robert Tenanbaum, noted, however, that the governor "has said all along he will run against anyone they nominate. That still stands."

State Republican Chairman Kent McGough said the court decision means "that we now have one announced candidate. There may be others."

Besides Rhodes, another GOP prospect went into the courts to try to establish his eligibility. State Sen. Donald "Buz" Lukens of Middletown is appealing an election board order prohibiting him from seeking public office for five years.He was penalized for failing to file a campaign expense statement before the deadline last December.

House rejects bomb funds for Cambodia

WASHINGTON (AP) — To a backdrop of cheers and chants, the House has turned against administration Indochina war policy for the first time by rejecting a presidential request for more funds for Cambodian bombing.

The House rejected President Nixon's spending proposal 219 to 188 Thursday. Then, by a 224-172 vote, the House added a prohibition against using any of a $2.8-billion supplemental appropriation for bombing in Cambodia.

The actions came during consideration of the supplemental appropriation, which was passed 284 to 96 and sent to the Senate.

Secretary of Defense Elliot L. Richardson has said that Congress' rejection of the spending authority would not halt the Cambodia bombing because the Pentagon can use other funds for it.

House antiwar forces cheered and chanted during a roll call as the House approved an amendment by Rep. Joseph P. Addabbo, D-N.Y., to deny $430 million in military spending authority, including at least $175 million for Indochina.

Approved later was an amendment by Rep. Clarence D. Long, D-Md., to prohibit use of any of the $2.8-billion supplemental bill for "combat activities in, over or from off the shores of Cambodia by U.S. forces."

"I want to put another lock on the door," Long said.

Kissinger, Tho plan Paris meet

WASHINGTON (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger and Hanoi's Le Duc Tho will meet in Paris next Thursday to talk about implementing the Indochina peace accord, the White House announced today.

Kissinger, who returned Thursday night from conferences in Moscow and London, is expected to engage Le Duc Tho in three to four days of talks, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

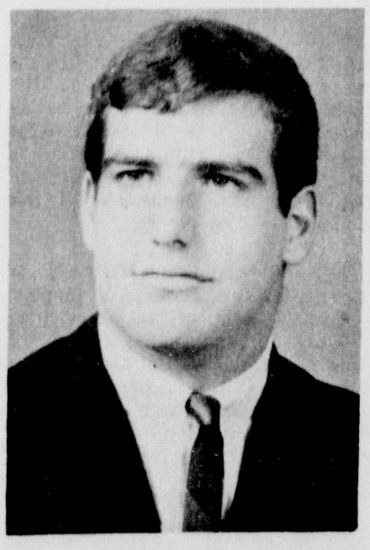
President Nixon's assistant for National Security Affairs and Tho, a member of the North Vietnamese Politburo, last met in Hanoi on Feb. 10-13.

Youngstown man chosen as MTHS football head

Fred Zechman, of Youngstown, has been employed as the new head football coach at Miami Trace High School by the Fayette County Board of Education.

Zechman, a graduate of Capital University who has been head football coach at Western Reserve High School in Berlin Center, will replace Fred Bernier, who resigned following the 1972 season to accept the head job at Covington (Ky.) Catholic High School.

At the last regular meeting of the Fayette County Board of Education, members authorized Superintendent Guy M. Foster to offer a contract to a new coach after interviews were held with the top five candidates by the board and administration. Foster said five top candidates were given thorough consideration from a field of 25 applicants.



FRED ZECHMAN

"WE ARE pleased that Zechman has accepted the head football coaching position at Miami Trace," Foster said. "Even in his relatively short coaching career, he has coached at the college level, a large high school and served as head coach at a small high school. He has worked under some excellent coaches in six years with football. He was an outstanding player himself in high school and college," Foster pointed out.

The 27-year-old Zechman was

tornadoes were sighted between Akron and the Youngstown airport near the Pennsylvania line.

A number of tornadoes touched down in Kentucky. One family stayed with their trailer home on a 300-yard airborne trip near Pine Knot, Ky., and escaped uninjured.

Three persons were hurt in McCreary County, Ky., when a tornado carried their pickup truck about 100 yards.

A weaker version of the storm moved across Pennsylvania with heavy rains, strong winds and hail in the southwestern part of the state. Power lines were knocked out in places and trees ripped up, but no injuries were reported.

Other tornadoes were sighted in Tennessee and Missouri.

Clusters of heavy thunderstorms remained early today in Tennessee and the Carolinas. Other showers and a few thunderstorms were scattered from the northern Rockies to the central Plains and northern Mississippi Valley.

Missouri twister kills 4 persons

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP) — Four persons were killed and more than 80 injured in a tornado that swept through Joplin today, authorities said.

Eighty-seven persons were reported injured as the twister caused extensive damage to houses and mobile homes.

Telephone and electric service was disrupted, and Joplin area television and radio stations were off the air.

The tornado hit at 8 a. m. EDT, just minutes after tornado warning sirens were sounded.

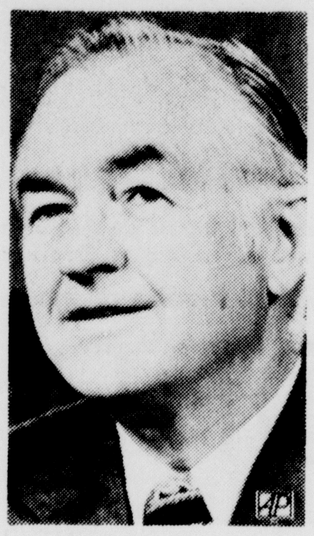
JOHN MITCHELL



MAURICE STANS

WASHINGTON (AP) — James W. McCord Jr. has testified under oath that he never would have participated in the Watergate operation without assurances that Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell had approved it.

McCord also swore that fellow convicted conspirator G. Gordon Liddy told him Mitchell received logs of wiretapped conversations while President Nixon's campaign chairman, after he quit as attorney general.

McCord said Liddy had told him Mitchell urged the wiretappers to get started in mid-April 1972, and later prodded the bugging crew to make its second entry into Democratic headquarters on June 17, when five of them were arrested.

McCord's testimony, given April 30 and May 1 in connection with the Democratic party's lawsuit against the Nixon campaign for $6.4 million in damages from the Watergate raid, was made public Thursday.

Although much of what McCord said was reported second-hand before, the 383-page transcript of his testimony is his first sworn statement officially made public.

There were other developments in the Watergate case Thursday:

—Ousted presidential Counsel John W. Dean III issued a statement saying unnamed persons are trying to "get" him and limit his testimony about White House involvement in the wiretapping of Democratic headquarters and the subsequent coverup.

—Elliot L. Richardson testified at Senate hearings on his nomination to be attorney general that he feels "betrayed by the shoddy standard of morals of those whose activities have recently come to light" in the affair. He promised a broad and independent investigation.

In his deposition, McCord said Liddy had told him the wiretapping operation had been approved by Mitchell, Dean and former campaign deputy Jeb S. Magruder.

Liddy himself has refused to testify before the Watergate grand jury, and has received an additional prison term for that refusal.

Stock list down again

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued to slide lower today, as investors worried over the hike in the Federal Reserve's discount rate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which lost more than 17 points in the two previous sessions, was down 5.11 to 934.23 at noon.

Declining issues held almost a 3-to-1 lead over advances in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was off .34 to 57.81 at noon.

On the American Stock Exchange, losers took a broad lead over gainers, and the price-change index was down .04 to 23.58.

graduated from Sylvania High School in Sylvania, Ohio, and received a bachelor of science degree from Capital University in Columbus. He is now working toward a master's degree and has had post-graduate work at Miami University and Youngstown University.

After receiving all-conference honors as a quarterback and linebacker at Sylvania, Zechman attended Capital University on an athletic scholarship. He was a defensive tackle at Capital for four years while the team compiled a 24-7-1 record.

He started his coaching career as an assistant under Head Coach Gene Slaughter at Capital, coaching the defensive tackles and middle guards. Following a year at Capital, Zechman moved to East Liverpool High School where he was defensive line coach for the Potters while they were ranked eighth in Ohio.

ZECHMAN was then named defensive coordinator at Franklin High School where he stayed two seasons before being named head football coach at Western Reserve High School. In two seasons, Zechman revived a sagging football program at Western Reserve High School into a leading contender.

Zechman, who becomes the sixth football coach in Miami Trace's history, coached wide receivers for a new minor league semi-pro team in Youngstown, which is affiliated with the Cleveland Browns.

In six years, the 6-foot-1 210-pounder has compiled a total coaching record of 43-30-1. Zechman, and his wife, Linda, plan to move to this area soon. His teaching areas are physical education, health, social studies and biology.

Foster said, "In two years as head coach he had displayed a leadership which promotes a real enthusiasm for football. His broad knowledge of the game and ability to communicate with his players has brought him success. It is felt that under Zechman's leadership, the football program at Miami Trace will continue its winning way."

Ohio House eyes cities aid, lottery plan

By ROBERT E. MILLER
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— House hearings begin next week on a Senate-passed bill that would allow Ohio cities to utilize private capital to clear away slum neighborhoods.

Rep. Tom Fries, D-35 Dayton, chairman of the Local Government and Urban Affairs Committee, said his panel will consider the measure at a meeting which gets under way at 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Fries will be the House sponsor of the proposal which has wide backing, including the support of the Ohio Municipal League. It passed the Senate April 16 by a vote of 27-5.

The bill had little opposition in the Senate although its main sponsor, Sen. Tony P. Hall. D-6 Dayton, had been concerned about one fearure that authorizes designated private corporations to use the power of eminent domain to claim blighted areas of cities for redevelopment.

Fries said he knows of no organized opposition to the bill, but does not expect it to escape controversy. "It's always a different ball game over here," he said.

The House okayed a bill to establish a state lottery commission before the lawmakers adjouned Thursday for the weekend. But the bill was stripped of an emergency clause that would give it immediate effect, and it apparently now must go to a joint conference committee.

Sen. Ronald Mottl, D-24 Parma, sponsor of the Senate-passed measure, noted that under its provisions, Tuesday is the deadline for naming the commission to draw plans for a lottery authorized by voters in the May 8 election.

The emergency clause was deleted after complaints by Minority Leader Charles F. Kurfess, R-83 Perrysburg, and others that there wasn't all that much of a hurry.

Fries, who handled the bill on the House floor, maintained that passage of the lottery amendment by a vote of almost 2-1 was "a mandate" for the legislature to enact a lottery.

"The people of Ohio have shown that they want a lottery," he told the House.

Kurfess said he was "not so sure, since less than 20 per cent of the eligible voters cast ballots on the question."

Majority Democrats, at the request of Fries, voted down two Republican amendments, including one by Rep. Robert E. Levitt, R-70 Canton, which would have extended the date for naming the commission to seven days after the effective date of the bill. Bills go into effect 90 days after signing by the governor, unless they contain an emergency clause.

Rep. Alan E. Norris, R-27 Westerville, offered another unsuccessful amendment which would have changed the number of commission members from nine to eight and prohibited more than four members from each political party. He said his amendment would assure that the commission is "nonpartisan."

The bill provides that the governor, speaker of the House, and majority leader of the Senate each may name three members to the commission with no more than two from the same party in each instance. In calling for the defeat of the Norris amendment, Fries conceded the commission "will be political, just like every other state board or agency. That's just reality."

The bill would have the commission report to the General Assembly no later than July 1 with recommendations as to how the lottery would work. Its general instructions call for a lottery which would have "broad appeal and frequent drawings."

Some House members said they oppose the concept of a lottery and will continue to oppose it despite Tuesday's vote, that took away the constitutional prohibition.

Rep. Norman A. Murdock, R-21 Cincinnati, deplored "the state entering into gambling" and said he feels it would be "a wrong, poor public policy."

Before it adjourned until next Tuesday, the Senate voted 33-0 to change state nursing and rest home payments from a "reasonable cost" basis to a system of flat rate payments. Sponsors said the bill would increase costs about $8 million a year, but half of the amount would be paid by the federal government.

DIRECTORS OF JEFFERSONVILLE SWIM CLUB

Major elevator expansion planned at Jeff

A 600,000-bushel addition to the grain storage facility near Jeffersonville was approved Thursday night by the board of directors of the Fayette County Landmark Cooperative.

The addition, at an estimated cost of $556,000, will double grain storage at the Jeffersonville site. Clarence Cooper, manager of the cooperative whose main facility is in Washington C. H., said total storage capacity for the county cooperative will exceed 1,560,000 bushels with the addition. Storage capacity in Washington C. H. is 360,000 bushels.

"We can't see any other way to take care of the rush of grain that must be handled rapidly and kept in good condition," said Board President Robert Owens, Rt. 1, Jeffersonville. "Building additional storage seems to be the way to serve our owner-patrons who are producing more and more grain in Fayette County," Owens said.

Cooper said the Jeffersonville elevator can receive grain at the rate of 15,000 bushels per hour and dries grain at 3,000 bushels per hour.

Parliament OKs Brandt peace pact

BONN, Germany (AP) — The Bundestag today approved Chancellor Willy Brandt's treaty to normalize relations with Communist East Germany, virtually assuring its ratification.

The treaty eases two decades of hostility between West and East Germany, clears the way for them to enter the United Nations and provides for more contacts to ease the hardship of families divided by the Communist border.

The lower house voted 268 in favor of ratification and 217 against, a parliamentary official announced.

If the Bundesrat rejects the treaty, a joint lower-upper house committee controlled by Brandt's Socialist-Liberal coalition can override the upper house vote.

The Bundestag vote was another victory for Brandt's drive to improve relations with the Soviet bloc while keeping West Germany firmly in the Western alliance.

Sen. Long death not from poison

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — Poisoning has been ruled out as the cause of death of the late Sen. Edward V. Long, D-Mo., by a county medical examiner.

An autopsy report released Thursday showed that Long apparently died of a heart attack.

The autopsy was ordered after Helen Dunlop, the senator's former secretary, said Long told her just before his death that he thought he had been poisoned by chocolate candy sent to him as a gift.

Pentagon Papers tangle worsens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pentagon papers trial moves into new legal entanglements today following disclosures that Daniel Ellsberg was overheard by federal wiretappers whose records have vanished.

The FBI revealed the government researcher was heard on a wiretap up to two years before he released the Pentagon papers to the news media.

U.S. District Court Judge Matt Byrne, demanding that the government answer to him today about the disappearance of 1969 and 1970 wiretap logs, also has told attorneys for both sides to be prepared for legal arguments on the wiretap issue.

The team of defense attorneys urged questioning of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and perhaps President Nixon about the secret wiretaps at the home of Ellsberg's friend Morton Halperin, a one-time White House official.

With legal grounds apparently mounting for possible dismissal of the case against Ellsberg and Anthony J. Russo, Byrne has the choice of deciding for or against dismissal after today's arguments or of waiting for more evidence from the government.

Ellsberg and Russo are accused of espionage, conspiracy and theft for copying the Pentagon papers, a top secret study of U.S. involvement in Vietnam, in 1969.

Byrne's two-week probe of possible government violations in connection with the trial spread to two fronts as a result of Thursday's wiretap disclosures. He was probing not only Watergate and White House links to a burglary of the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist, but also sought to bring out missing records of the apparently suppressed wiretap evidence.

While the wiretap dispute deflected attention from the central Watergate-White House involvements, the judge kept an eye on that probe. He released to the defense team a document involving former presidential counsel Charles W. Colson. The government prosecutor opposed making the Colson document public, calling it irrelevant to the trial.

The paper, an FBI report on a Colson interview, said Colson was told that the burglary had occurred. It said Colson was later instructed by former White House Counsel John W. Dean III and former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman to remain silent about the burglary when questioned by the FBI and the Watergate prosecutor.

2nd Newport official acquitted of charges

NEWPORT, Ky. (AP) — Newport City Commissioner Paul Baker Thursday became the second city official acquitted of criminal charges in the past month, when charges of receiving stolen goods were dismissed Thursday.

William E. Colby named CIA chief

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the spring of 1945 allied demolition experts parachuted behind enemy lines in Norway and destroyed a rail line used by the Nazis to rush troops to the bitter fighting that marked the end of World War II.

The team was headed by William E. Colby, a 25-year-old, slightly built Princeton graduate with a record of daring clandestine missions in enemy-held territory.

Thursday, President Nixon selected Colby to head the nation's super spy organization, the Central Intelligence Agency.

Opinion And Comment

A salute to dedicated people

In 1921, leaders in the health care field established a National Hospital Day to encourage public appreciation of the people working in hospitals.

The day chosen was May 12, the birthday of hospital pioneer, Florence Nightingale. By 1953, the day was expanded to National Hospital Week, recognizing the tremendous growth in hospital services in this country.

The theme of National Hospital Week, 1973, sponsored nationally by the American Hospital Association and celebrated by the nation's more than 7,000 hospitals in their local communities, is "your hospital — a caring community, your health — our common concern."

With mounting public concern about the effectiveness of the American health care system and the rising costs of health care, hospitals are being subjected to some sharp criticism and demands for change.

While in sympathy with the demands of the American public for improvements in the delivery and quality of health care and for containment of health care costs, we suggest that National Hospital Week is an appropriate time to express our appreciation to the more than 3 million people working in the nation's hospitals.

Today, they are complex healing, educational and research institutions, where lives are saved, the causes and cure of disease sought, and future health professionals educated and trained.

Hospital employes represent an incredible diversity of skills and talents, working in some 200 different types of jobs, ranging from housekeepers to top level administrators, from plant engineers to registered nurses. However, they have one goal in common; a working life dedicated to caring for the ill and injured.

Modern technology and rapid scientific advances have made possible saving of lives and prevention or curing of disease. But, the human hands and hearts are still essential to the healings arts. As National Hospital Week 1973, draws to a close, we salute the hands and hearts in our hospitals whose concern is our health.

A WORD EDGEWISE . . . by John P. Roche

France has schizophrenia

PARIS — The French government currently is suffering from an acute case of paranoic schizophrenia in the are of foreign affairs. This ailment surfaced spectacularly in reaction to Henry Kissinger's New York speech calling for a new Atlantic Charter: Le Monde, which mirrors elite opinion, had a virtual spasm with two commentaries plus editorial on the subject featured on page one. "What are the Americans up to?" was the question, and the answer broadly speaking was (in a formulation borrowed from George Ball) a "Gaullist" initiative.

To put it differently, Kissinger's speech was interpreted as a presidential announcement that the playground was about to be closed, that the United States was in future going to play its own hand in cold-blooded fashion.

When the president pulled out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and announced that his nuclear weapons would be aimed in all directions, the informed reaction was laughter. Those nations within range to the west certainly lost no sleep anticipating nuclear attack.

AMERICAN "GAULLISM" — Which is to say the exercise of realpolitik in a wholly unsentimental fashion — would be something of an entirely different order. The simple difference is that the United States ia a great power and France is not.

Indeed, in terms of the power equation France has more in common with Luxembourg than it has with either the U.S., or the Soviet Union. Thus Dr. Kissinger, who is considered a dedicated disciple of Prince Metternich, is seen as the advance man for a new policy based on balance of power and, above all, on direct cooperation with Moscow.

Now we come to the paradox. For years the elite French press (which really consists of Le Monde and Figaro) has been deriding the United States for its addiction to outmoded Cold War doctrines, for its alleged conviction that the world was divided between the forces of evil (Communist) and the forces of righteousness (the Free World).

We were constantly chided for not recognizing that developments within the Soviet Union opened up the possibility of detente, and of abandoning rigid bi-polarism. (The Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in 1968 created all kinds of trouble inside the French Communist Party, but as far as most French were concerned it was a non-happening.)

Mr. Nixon's Moscow initiatives, however, had led to some second thoughts about the virtues of detente. Suddenly the French have a vision of Nixon and Brezhnev sitting at a table and dividing up the world. This would, of course, be done in the spirit of keeping the children off the streets, that is, neither Nixon nor Brezhnev would waste any time worrying about their clients or allies. The minor powers, France among them, would simply be treated as pawns on the chessboard.

THIS IS an exaggerated conception. The present imperatives of American politics, for example, make it impossible for President Nixon to play his ace and radically cut back American military commitments.

To do so would hand Sen. Mansfield and the Senate Democratic "doves" victory on a platter. Yet Kissinger's speech did convey a significant message.

In slightly Aesopian fashion, he was indicating that we would not sit passively on the sidelines and watch the Common Market develop into an air-tight, anti-American cartel. This is a point that the French and the other members of the EEC would be wise to include in their economic computations.

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

'Troubleshooters' don't last

President Nixon moved quickly to fill to offices of Attorney General and Director of the FBI after the resignations of Richard Kleindienst and Patrick Gray. But it is fairly obvious that his choices for the two jobs are birds of passage.

Elliott Richardson, the nominee for Attorney General, is a born troubleshooter; he has gone from job to job — Undersecretary of State, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, Secretary of Defense — as the needs of the Administration have dictated.

There are men like this, blessed with a mercurial brilliance who are fated to be tapped for crisis management, and, since crisis is endemic in public life, we may be sure that Richardson hasn't seen his last job during Nixon's second term in office.

So it will be with William Ruckelshaus as acting boss of the FBI. Ruckelshaus is not a cop. A defeated candidate for U.S. Senate from Indiana, Ruckelshaus is a man whose interests go all over the lot. He was once named as the outstanding first-year legislator in the Indiana House of Representatives and he served Nixon well in the difficult post of administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency. One cannot see him digging in for a lifetime at the FBI as J. Edgar Hoover once dug in.

IT IS A SURE BET, then, that Nixon will have to go elsewhere for permanence in both the Attorney General's office and the FBI. Having staked the reputation of his Administration on the revival of law and order in America, Nixon might look for a "promotable" man in the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, which is one law enforcement agency that has matched deeds to words in the attempt to recover from the blight of the Sixties.

John E. Ingersoll, the Director of the Narcotics Bureau, has impressive credentials. He did a remarkable job as chief of police in Charlotte, N.C., from 1966 at a time when Southern cities were fighting the violence that came with the end of segregation. There was no "hot summer" in Charlotte.

In his remarks at the Air Force Academy in Colorado Springs on "Law and Order Day," Mr. Ingersoll spoke of the frenetic Sixties, when law enforcement had to proceed by crisis management. The Sixties were a time of harsh rhetoric. But now, said Mr. Ingersoll, the time had come "to move on to greater maturity and stability in managing our affairs of law and order. There are all kinds of compelling reasons why more stable policies can and should be achieved. Crime is showing a decline for the first time in 15 years . . . What we need is a lot of management and less crises."

Words about the "decline" in crime sound plaintive while the Watergate scandal continues to explode. But the fact is that our narcotics fighters have made steady progress ever since Ingersoll took over the Narcotics Bureau in the summer of 1968.

Seizures of heroin tripled between 1970 and 1971, and they have continued to increase in 1972 and 1973. As recently as April of this year the New York City police, working with federal cooperation, closed in on more than 80 big-time drug dealers. With heroin becoming scarce, the price has jumped to the point where addicts, unable to satisfy their craving, have had to accept rehabilitation treatment as a matter of protection.

THE GENERAL crime statistics have fallen with the level of drug addiction. In Washington itself, crime was down by 27 per cent in 1972. The drop has not come from fighting crime directly. It has come because the addict has had to reckon with the fact that money from a mugging or a break-in couldn't easily purchase the price of a fix anyway.

When Calvin Coolidge faced the necessity of repairing the damage done to Department of Justice integrity after the Teapot Dome oil scandal revelations, he sought some "long-term men. Harlan Stone, later the Chief Justice of the United States, became his Attorney General. J. Edgar Hoover replaced the detective Walter Burns as FBI director.

Nixon has improvised well in naming troubleshooters to head the Department of Justice and the FBI. But improvisation is no substitute for a permanent commitment.

"THERE ARE TIMES, REBECCA, WHEN I WISH WE WERE EXHAUSTING SOME POLLUTION."

Hal Boyle . . .

There's nothing like a cat . . .

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

Editor's Note: Hal Boyle is ill.

Anyone who has this sickness sympathizes with those women, often elderly, who make the news pages because they are found to have 20 or more cats in their house in violation of some city ordinance.

To be "feline prone" is to be loved by cats.

Thus a householder who likes these animals is in danger of having more around than he really wants. Take some recent neighborhood examples.

In one instance, a family down the block had an affectionate female alley version of the cat family. Then the family obtained a Siamese kitten.

This put Alley's nose out of joint, and the next morning we nearly tripped over her as we went to get the morning paper.

Alley stayed on the front stoop for about three days, meowing piteously and growing visibly thinner, a trick cats have when they want sympathy. At last some kind soul in the household gave her a snack.

Now she considers herself our cat, a constant companion on our doorstep except in bad weather when she finds her way into the garage.

We acquired another cat some years ago which we will call Rusty. He grew thinner by the minute. Still we didn't want to feed him and be accused of stealing the neighbor's animal.

But it finally became such a pitiful situation that occasionally a piece of scrap would fall accidentally out the door. And in no time at all, Rusty considered himself our cat.

It all started with a ceremony. The neighbor decided Rusty had fleas and invited all the neighborhood over for a defleaing party.

He had bought a tube of flea powder that emits a puff of medication when you squeeze it.

Rusty at that moment turned his head to see what was going on and got the first puff right in his mouth.

It was pure panic.

Rusty made one great jump to a porch pillar, then to the roof and across it in a great circle, leaped to the ground and jumped an eight-foot fence. It was the last time the neighbor ever saw Rusty.

Went over the next afternoon to see how the neighbor was recovering and was met by his wife.

"He's sleeping right now," she said. "Had to feed him a tranquilizer and put him to bed about 4 o'clock this morning.

"He was up all night, going up and down the alleys, calling, 'Kitty, kitty, kitty.'

"The police picked him up twice.

"If somebody doesn't find that cat, he's going to have to take a round of rabies shots."

So Rusty showed up at our house, but the only signs of madness came at feeding times. Turned out he went wild when the menu was sardines.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Dear Abby:

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

There's no inlaw like an ex-inlaw

DEAR ABBY: I am a 45-year-old divorcee who is engaged to marry a 53-year-old widower I'll call Sam. Sam has two daughters in college. Sam's wife, Sylvia, died of cancer a year ago. Sylvia's mother, a widow, had made her home with Sam and Sylvia for the last 20 years.

Abby, I know this woman only slightly but she has been cool to me. She is understandably heartbroken over the death of her daughter, and when Sam and I told her we were being married her disappointment was obvious.

Sam plans to sell his large home and move into an apartment after we marry. His daughters want their own apartment. The problem is Sylvia's mother. We surely can't have her living with us. Sam can well afford to provide her with a lovely home elsewhere, but she has grown so dependent on him that I doubt that she could live alone. She never learned to drive, and since her widowhood she's spent her life raising Sylvia's daughters and running Sylvia's home. She has no other family.

Sam and I have discussed it and he thinks I should tell her that our plans do not include her. I think he should tell her. (He insists he can't do it.) What do you think?

TOUCH PROBLEM

D E A R TOUCHY: She shouldn't have to be told, but if she does, Sam should tell her. It would be an act of kindness if you made a real effort to be friendly with this heavy-hearted woman. Investigate senior citizens' residences and try to help her relocate in the most pleasant and happy surroundings. If she rejects your friendship you will have at least tried.

DEAR ABBY: When I started going with Henry he used to show up so drunk he could hardly walk, so I'd let him sack out on my couch. It happened so often we finally started living together. After two years we decided to get married.

He buys two quarts of vodka on Saturday, and by Monday it's all gone. That's in addition to three cases of beer. Henry drinks every night, but goes to work in the morning, comes home at 5 p.m. and starts drinking again.

I knew he was an alcoholic when I married him so I can't complain.

I work and draw good money. I wish you would tell me why I stick with this guy. I support myself. Our sex life is zero, and I know I'd be better off without him.

NEEDED

DEAR NEEDED: Your answer is your signature. Some people have a need to be needed. You could be one of those people.

DEAR ABBY: Concerning taking small children to adult affairs such as weddings: I am only 21, but I know that we all have to learn certain things in this life, and the sooner we learn them, the better. Leaving children out of "adult" affairs until they learn to behave like adults is like saying, "I am not going to take you swimming until your learn how to swim!"

I'm glad my parents took me, and taught me.

SUSAN IN AMHERST

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, May 11, the 131st day of 1973. There are 234 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1867, the Treaty of London was signed, guaranteeing neutrality to Luxembourg and the withdrawal of Prussian troops.

On this date—

In 1853, Minnesota was admitted to the Union as the 32nd state.

In 1943, American forces landed on Attu Island in the Aleutians. It was the first American territory regained from Japan in World War II.

In 1949, Israel was admitted to the United Nations.

Ten years ago: President John F. Kennedy and Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearsons were conferring at the Kennedy summer home at Hyannis Port, Mass.

Five years ago: Fifteen miners trapped five days in a flooded coal mine at Hominy Falls, W.Va., were rescued. Ten others were presumed dead.

One year ago: Voters in Ireland gave overwhelming support to a proposal for membership in the European Common Market.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A question mark hangs today over the future of the old, once thriving and powerful religious orders of Roman Catholicism. Most are shrinking. A noted American church scholar says bluntly they're "already dead."

This is the jolting thesis of Brother Gabriel Moran, a pungently articulate intellectual and leader in one of the Church's most venerable teaching orders, the Christian Brothers. He has been pressing the point for the last three years.

"We've got to face it while we still have enough concerned people left in the movement to crystallize new, living forms of community," he says. "There is still something that could be done, but it won't be true for long."

While other Church authorities cite various ailments of the religious orders, few agree with the idea that they're totally defunct, and many dismiss Brother Moran's view as mere needling of complacency.

"He makes overemphatic, blatant assertions to wake people up and make them think," commented his superior in Rome, Brother Aloysius Carmody, secretary-general of the 300-year-old Christian Brothers.

Nevertheless, statistically there has been a steady shrinkage in most religious orders both for men and women for the past seven years, despite numerous changes in their structures, rules and activities.

In that period in the United States, the number of priests in religious orders has fallen from 23,021 to 20,694; the number of brothers had dropped from 12,539 to 9,740 and the number of nuns from 181,421 to 146,914.

Studies have projected continued declines. A product of the late Middle Ages, orders such as the Franciscans, Dominicans and Jesuits long have been the wellspring of the Church's academic and social creativity. But their cohesive mystique has waned in modern times.

"They're slowly disintegrating," Brother Moran said in discussing the often indignant reactions to his conclusion that they have become moribund. If it wasn't valid, he added, "The screams wouldn't be so loud."

"It's apparently too threatening for the institutional Church to bear, and so the Church hangs on desperately to a system that's not working," he said. "It keeps withdrawing, fighting a kind of rearguard action, with fewer and fewer left in the organizations to take the drastic action necessary."

Borther Moran, 37, a professor of theology and education and also the elected superior of the Long Island-New England province of the Christian Brothers, has sounded his warning since 1970 in lectures, articles and books.

He maintains the religious order has lost its effectiveness, can no longer accomplish its purpose, has ceased to be a viable form of organization and thus, in effect, is dead, although thousands of people still are members.

That they still remain adherents offers a continuing, but gradually disappearing means for developing new modes of community religious life that can survive in modern times, he says.

He says this will require a total dismantling of the old forms which segregate men and women in different organizations, and the development of new communities including men and women, young and old, married and single, doing away with "all castes" and involving all kinds of Christians.

To accomplish this, however, would require a basic realignment of Church authority, he notes, including a change in the concept of the priesthood itself and eventual replacement of the present geographically based parish system.

Some tentative moves in this direction already are apparent in the so-called "floating parishes' and in the widespread tendency of order priests and nuns to leave the large religious houses and live in small groups in homes or apartments.

First Christian Sunlight Chorus offering concert

The Sunlight Chorus, composed of boys and girls in the third through eighth grades will present its annual spring concert at 7 p.m. Sunday in the First Christian Church.

The program will include sacred songs, folk anthems, spirituals, patriotic numbers and selections from Walt Disney's "Mary Poppins."

Insrumentalists assisting in the program will be Mrs. David Williams and Miss Linda Johnson, flute; Miss Denise Matthews and Bob Spengler, cornet and Mrs. Wayne Spengler, organ.

The pastor, the Rev. Don Baker, stressed that the public will be welcome to attend the concert.

OU students hear Shana Alexander

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Newsweek columnist Shana Alexander Thursday night said she would like to see the United States reform its electoral campaign system because of the Watergate scandal.

Ms. Alexander made her remarks after receiving Ohio University's award for "enduring contributions to journalism." The Carr Can Anda Award is given by the college of journalism.

The Watergate scandal is the biggest news story in 200 years, the writer said. "The alleged conspirators were not only prepared to steal papers and information, but also the 1972 presidential election."

"I hope this country celebrates its 200th anniversary not by having parades, but by reforming our electoral campaign system," she said.

Ms. Alexander said the press had been redeemad by its work in uncovering the Watergate, but warned against the press taking on the duties of prosecutor or judge.

Ms. Alexander spoke at the university as part of its fifth annual Communications Week.

MRS. WILLIAM S. HALLIDAY

Miss Rulon, Mr. Halliday are united in marriage

First Christian Church was the setting April 28 for the marriage of Miss Linda Lee Rulon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rulon, 1122 Nelson Place, and William Simms Halliday, son of Mrs. Felix Halliday, 557 Albin Ave., and the late Mr. Halliday.

The Rev. Arthur W. Merkle, of the Wilmington Church of Christ, officiated for the double-ring candlelight ceremony at 7:30 p.m. Hurricane lamps surrounded by greenery, spring flowers and satin streamers marked the aisles. Each window in the sanctuary held a hurricane lamp with spring flowers and greenery with an orchid in the center. A large arrangement of flowers with an orchid in the center was in the center of the altar, with matching arrangements on either side. Candelabra were on both sides also.

Miss Rulon wore a white silk organza and Viennese lace gown with empire lace bodice which featured a square neckline and long Dresden sleeves. Her skirt was gathered and flowing, and the chapel-length mantilla of silk illusion edged lace, was held in place by a small pillbox. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers with a large orchid in the center.

Miss Marsha Rulon was maid of honor for her sister, and bridesmaids were Miss Cathy Climer, Miss Sharron Halliday, sister of the groom, and Miss Gayle Rulon, another sister of the bride. All of the attendants wore lavender doeskin satin gown with overskirt of angel wing chiffon, with deep purple velvet sash in back. Each carried a small hurricane lamp surrounded with spring flowers and greenery, and centered with an orchid, with satin streamers.

Little Carrie Johnson and Dana Johnson, cousins of the groom,, were the flower girl and ring bearer respectively. Little Carrie's was like that of the other attendants and she carried a similar flower arrangement.

Mrs. Rulon chose for her daughter's wedding a pink polyester double knit formal length gown with empire bodice and accents of green, purple and blue. The groom's mother wore a pink double knit long gown with empire waist. Both mothers had pink accessories, and orchid corsages.

Mrs. R. J. Rulon, of New Vienna, grandmother of the bride, wore a white orchid. Also present was the bride's grandfather, Floyd Jones, of Washington C. H.

John Halliday served as best man for his brother. Seating the wedding guests were Carl Anders, of Toledo, Dan Armbrust, of Washington C. H., Bill Marting, Sabina, and Steve Oyer, of Middletown.

Hostesses for the reception in the social room of the church were Mrs. James Garringer, Mrs. Russell Riggs, Mrs. Lloyd Sowders and Mrs. Arthur Tyree. Miss Becky Coulter, of Cincinnati, and Miss Cindy Thomas of Washington C.H., presided at the guest book.

The bride's table was covered with a lavender cloth with deep purple tulle skirt. The cake had four deep purple orchids at the base and greenery and the punch bowl was also encircled with greenery and spring flowers. The reception was also by candlelight.

The new Mrs. Halliday, a graduate of Washington High School, is employed by Redman as a secretary. Her husband, a graduate of WHS, also attended Bowling Green State University, and is president of Halliday Lumber Company here.

Jeff alumni plans banquet

The Jeffersonville High School Alumni Association banquet will be at 6:30 p.m. June 2 at the school. This will be the 62nd banquet for the school's alumni. The dinner will be served by Marshall Grange.

The guest speaker will be a former school superintendent, Everett Dabe, of Columbus.

Class officers are Roscoe Smith, president; Mrs. Fern Bentley, vice president; Mrs. Rowena Cummings, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Betty Anderson, registrar; Miss Louise Fults, recording secretary; and Ben Kinnison, treasurer.

Reservations must be made by May 30 with Mr. Smith.

Aid elects new officers

The Buena Vista Ladies Aid met in the Township Hall for a noon carry-in luncheon and Mrs. Nathaniel Blackstone, president, and Mrs. Hazel Anders gave devotions.

Mrs. Harold Haines was elected president; Mrs. Eddie Corzatt, vice president; Mrs. Noah Lee, treasurer; Mrs. Harlan Johnson, secretary; Mrs. Anders, devotions chairman; Mrs. Nathaniel Blackstone; Mrs. Albert Haines, flowers and cards; and Mrs. Bina Rude, press reporter.

Mrs. Blackstone reported the wedding ring quilt, which was made by the Aid, has been sold. The money will be used to purchase material for making more quilts.

Activities reported were 30 calls, 11 flowers, 14 cards and nine donations.

Mrs. Albert Haines presented a Mother's Day program of readings and poems. She was assisted by Mrs. Blackstone, Mrs. Harold Haines and Mrs. Rude. Mrs. Rude won a contest concerning Mother's Day.

Doctor discloses Krogh 'threat'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Egil "Bud" Krogh Jr., the Nixon administration official who resigned Wednesday amidst the Watergate-Pentagon papers web of scandal, once threatened to destroy anyone who opposed President Nixon's policies.

The threat was made to a prominent doctor who had told Krogh he would not support legislation that would have created a permanent White House office to deal with narcotics traffic and drug abuse.

"Well, don't worry, Doc," Krogh is quoted as replying. "Anyone who opposes us we'll destroy. As a matter of fact, anyone who doesn't support us we'll destroy."

Krogh could not be reached for comment.

The doctor involved was Daniel X. Freedman, chairman of the department of psychiatry at the University of Chicago and a well-known authority on psychoparmacology, the study of the effect of drugs on mental states.

In a telephone interview Wednesday, Freedman confirmed the 1970 incident and said that, while he doubted that the threat endangered him, he was uneasy about it for a long time.

"Maybe that's just the way these people talk," Dr. Freedman said. "I do think the language was excessive. I remember thinking at the time that Krogh was referring to destruction of people in Congress who opposed the President rather than to destruction of me, but I was very uneasy about the thing for several years.

"I didn't want to get hurt nor did I want anyone associated with me hurt. I was so uneasy because I just couldn't be certain what he had in mind."

According to Dr. Freedman and

Rhubarb originally came from Mongolia, but is grown both in Europe and America. Technically it is a vegetable, but people usually prepare it as a dessert food, mostly as pie fillings and sweet suaces.

Miss U.S.A. contestants aim for May 19 pageant

These are the 51 entrants to this year's Miss U.S.A. Beauty Pageant who have begun arriving here for 10 days of parties, press interviews, rehearsals and fittings that will almost certainly end in tears of victory or disappointment on May 19.

Like brides bubbling with anticipation, they represent the 50 states plus the District of Columbia. With them come the evening gowns, the ensembles and the cosmetics calculated to show the contestants at their very best.

"Just getting here is an accomplishment," said Judy Gregory, 26, of Boston. An elementary school teacher and fashion model, she became Miss Massachusetts less than a month ago.

"I don't know what I'm doing here," she said after looking over the field.

Storm Hensley, a 22-year-old sergeant at Barksdale Air Force Base in Louisiana, expressed similar doubts. But not in words. She simply groaned, long and anxiously.

However, Sherry Nix, who at 21 is Miss Arizona, said she was going into the pageant optimistically.

"It just depends how hungry the judges are that night— maybe they had a bad day," the blonde-tressed student from Phoenix said.

"I'm still going to be the same person when I leave, whether I win or not," she said.

Shepherded by a public relations man, the three girls spoke of their hopes and displayed the poise that has helped make them beauty queens.

They have found the road to success paved with money— theirs—for their wardrobes. And they have found shopping and appearance and modeling commitments so time-consuming that their social lives have suffered. But they agreed unanimously it has all been worth it, just for the exposure the pageant brings.

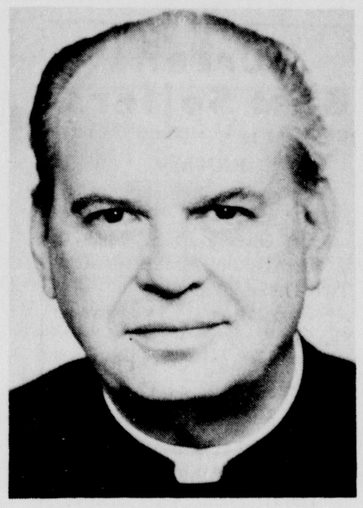
City to honor returned POW

POINT PLEASANT, W.Va. (AP) — City officials are planning a hero's welcome Saturday for native son Air Force Major Hayden J. Lockhart, released this year after eight years of imprisonment in Hanoi.

"Major Hayden Lockhart Day" will include presentation of a key to the Ohio River city and a full afternoon of festivities.

Now a resident of Springfield, Ohio, Lockhart's parents live here and he was graduated from Point Pleasant High School in 1956.

The flyer was shot down over Hanoi in March 1965, and was one of the first POWs to be freed by the North Vietnamese.



CHURCH LEADER HONORED — Dr. Oswald C. J. Hoffmann, President of the Lutheran Council in the United States and speaker on the International Lutheran Hour, will be honored as Clergyman of the Year by Religious Heritage of America, Inc. Dr. Hoffmann will be honored at the 1973 Annual National Awards Program to be held June 7 in Washington. The Clergyman of the Year Award, one of the various awards to be presented at the National Awards Program, is given annually to a distinguished American clergyman who has made significant contributions in religious understanding and tolerance and who, through his service to church and nation, has upheld the highest traditions of this country's religious heritage.

Year-round schools doing well

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)— Nearly all the educators who have experimented with year-round public school systems said Thursday that overcrowding prompted the experiments.

The educators attending the fifth annual national seminar on year-round schools said it generally is too soon to determine if students learn more and if so exactly how much more in a year-round school system

Richmond's school system isn't overcrowded, however, since it has lost thousands of students to private schools and to surrounding localities since school desegregation became an accomplished fact.

But the Richmond educators indicated they believe students may be able to learn more under the year round program, and that is what is important in Richmond.

James R. George, Richmond's project administrator, said the school system hopes that with additional class time and more accessible remedial programs, students will improve.

George said that one out of every six children in the Richmond public schools is two years or more behind in reading by the time he reaches the sixth or seventh grades.

J. Patrick Page, administrative assistant of the Valley View school system in Romeoville, Ill., said the project there "has demonstrated that year round school education under the valley View 45-15 plan is possible, practical and educationally profitable."

Under the 45-15 plan, school terms are broken into 45-day sessions, followed by 15 days of vacation. A student who failed or did poor work during the 45-day term could use the 15 days for remedial work and be ready to proceed with his classmates when they return from vacation.

Page said curriculum improvements are implemented more rapidly under the system, parents become more interested and fewer new buildings are needed.

Officials of the La Mesa Spring Valley, Calif., school district said they have had good results with a year-round system where students go to school the same number of days they always have, but on staggered shifts. Under this plan 75 per cent of the student population is always in school while 25 per cent of the student population is on vacation.

The La Mesa educators said students do as well in a 12-month program as in a traditional nine-month program.

The educators also said students and parents prefer the year-round concept to the old nine-month school year.

TV Viewing

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The hills may be alive with the sound of music, but these days it's primarily due to the reverberations of pop music shows that have sprouted all over television on weekends.

Tonight, for example, there's ABC's "In Concert," followed at one a.m. Saturday by NBC's "Midnight Special." This in turn is followed Saturday and Sunday nights in many cities by "Flipside," a new syndicated half-hour show.

All three shows began this year, "Flipside" being the most recent entry. And one more is in the works.

It'll be a series of three 90-minute rock concerts produced by Tom Owens, a 31-year-old pop music producer whose firm is known as Ego Productions of Los Angeles.

Owens, who says none of the shows have been given a title yet, said the first will be taped in late June and feature four major acts.

He said his sales representatives will try to interest any of the three networks in buying the shows, but if that fails, they'll sell them to individual stations on a syndicated basis.

All these shows are produced with the main idea of making money for their creators; performers appear on them at relatively low fees because the TV exposure helps boost their record sales.

But since September, 1971, at least two record labels owned by the Columbia Broadcasting System have produced TV music shows with a different business approach; they only want to boost record sales.

The labels are Columbia and Epic. Al Teller, Columbia's national director of merchandising, says the two labels jointly have produced a total of five half-hour shows seen on TV stations around the country.

All feature Columbia or Epic artists and are offered free to local stations in return for the TV exposure, or they're sponsored by major local record stores.

Turning now to loftier thoughts, at least for the little ones, "What's Skylab All About?" is coming up Saturday at 12:30 p.m. EDT on CBS-TV. It's another of the network's fine news-for-children series.

On Monday, all three networks will be out in force for the scheduled 1:30 p.m. launch of Skylab, America's first space lab. They'll be back Tuesday to televise the 1 p.m. launch of the three astronauts who for four weeks will live in the space station.

Procedures, by necessity, are slow

City has 'public nuisance' guidelines

By LARRY JOSEPH
Record-Herald City Editor

"You are hereby advised that you are in violation of Section 1329.02 of the Codified Ordinances of the City of Washington," reads the opening paragraph of a new notification form for the abatement of public nuisances.

Legislation establishing the procedure to be followed in the removal of public nuisances recently was adopted by City Council as part of the Codified Ordinances.

The procedure, by necessity, is a slow one to protect the rights of the owners of buildings designated as hazardous. The legislation provides for inspections, hearings, appeals, demolition and finances.

"You can not correct a bad situation that has existed for 50 years overnight," said City Manager Dan Wolford. He also pointed out that demolition of broken-down buildings could mean a long-term financial investment of city funds. If the owner refuses to pay the cost of removing a building, the city must provide the money and collect it over a period of years through property tax assessments.

WHEN CITY officials received a complaint and have probable cause to believe that a building is in such an advanced stage of disrepair as to endanger the health, safety and welfare of the residents, an inspection of the property is made by the building inspector. When the building is occupied, the inspector must first obtain a search warrant to make the evaluation.

If the inspector declares the building to be a public nuisance, the owner receives the written notice by certified mail and is given 60 days to comply with the inspector's orders. The orders may be any of the following:

1. Elimination of the advanced state of disrepair by reason of defective or inadequate plumbing and-or sanitary facilities.
2. Elimination of faulty or defective wiring.
3. Removal of debris, filth, rubbish or garbage.
4. Elimination of general deterioration in the structure by reason of age, neglect, exposure to the elements or vandalism.
5. Failure of the exterior enclosure causing exposure to the elements.
6. Elmination of general deterioration of the structure.

A PROPERTY can be declared a public nuisance because it is detrimental to the general health of the community, a fire hazard, or because it is unsafe for occupancy, or use on, in, upon, about or around the premises.

A building can also be declared a public nuisance because of continued vacancy resulting in a lack of reasonable or adequate maintenance of structures and grounds, and causing deterioration and a blighting influence on nearby properties and thereby depreciating the enjoyment and use of the property in the immediate vicinity to such an extent that it is harmful to the community in which the structure is situated.

The property owner may, within 60 days of receiving the notice, appeal the inspector's finding to City Council. The owner has the right to appear before Council and to present evidence that the building or other structure is not in such an advanced state of disrepair for any reasons set forth as to endanger the health, safety and welfare of the public and therefore is NOT a public nuisance.

Armco accident hurts 3 workers

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP)— Three persons were injured at the New Miami plant of Armco Steel Corp., north of Hamilton, Thursday night when an elevated rail car fell about 15 feet and cut a steam line.

The other two were dismissed after treatment.

OBES chief denies charge employes are being gagged

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A spokesman for the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services has branded as a "cheap political trick" charges by three Republican state senators that bureau employes were muzzled.

The senators, Stanley Aronoff, R-8 Cincinnati; Paul Matia, R-25 Westlake, and Thomas Van Peter, R-19 Ashland, said Thursday that Bureau administrator William Garnes had issued an order warning employes not to discuss the agency's problems with outsiders.

Stan Wyman, director of public relations for the bureau, said the document referred to by the senators applies only to grievance cases and not general operation of the bureau.

Wyman said the order was never intended to muzzle employes and labeled the senators' interpretation of it as a "cheap political trick."

Wyman and John Wile, deputy administrator of the bureau, said the order was only for clarification of bureau grievance procedure. The order stated that information about grievance cases should not be given to persons outside the bureau.

Wyman said the order says "nothing about a worker talking about his job.

"If an employe does not file a grievance, he can go to a senator or the news media," he said. "But if they do this and then file a grievance, it taints the case."

The order was issued April 23. It said that "violation of this policy will probably result in disciplinary action."

Sen. Aronoff, who chaired a bipartisan committee that probed Garnes' attempt in March to fire more than 300 employes, called the order "incredible."

Arnoff's committee proposed measures which essentially guarantee seniority in any job reductiton and the right of appeal to any person who is fired.

"The Ohio Senate blew the whistle on the OBES' illegal layoff procedures and it is obvious OBES is trying to prevent anything like that from happening again," the three Republican senators said in a joint statement.

Photograph contracts come under fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Commerce Director Dennis Shaul today announced that his department has received numerous complaints from across the state about door-to-door sales by several firms of children's photo contracts

Shaul said the companies offer a free photo album and enlargement, but require signing a long-term contract, do not provide for taking and processing the original pictures and charge a substantial "handling charge" for black and white enlargements.

See difficult task for Connally

NEW YORK (AP) — Several moderate Republican governors say former Democrat John B. Connally faces a difficult task in establishing his Republican credentials sufficiently to win the 1976 GOP presidential nomination.

That view was expressed in interviews during the Republican governor's conference by Govs. Daniel J. Evans of Washington, Francis W. Sargent of Massachusetts, Christopher S. Bond of Missouri, Robert D. Ray of Iowa and John A. Love of Colorado.

However, two conservatives, Govs. Stanley K. Hathaway of Wyoming and Jack Williams of Arizona, said they thought the former Texas governor, named Thursday as a part-time White House consultant by President Nixon, won't be at any disadvantage if he challenges more established Republicans for the 1976 nomination.

The governors scheduled a day-long political discussion today at New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's Pocantico Hills estate in suburban Westchester County. Newsmen were excluded.

The Watergate case is one subject that presumably won't be on the agenda as the governors discuss ways to assume a larger role in the GOP. The governors decided Wednesday night against issuing a joint statement on the scandal now shaking the Nixon administration.

However, Watergate and the indictment of former Nixon cabinet officers John M. Mitchell and Maurice H. Stans dominated much of the conversation of the governors on Thursday.

Gov. Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, vice-chairman of the Republican governors, commented "how tragic it is." Bond said, "I hope they'll have a fair trial and, if they are found guilty, that they will be appropriately punished."

Some of the governors mixed their statements that Watergate wouldn't hurt Republican candidates in 1974 with fears that failure to get to the bottom of the scandal could be damaging.

Ray said it could be damaging in 1974 if it is not completely cleared up.

Confidence that President Nixon is moving to clear up the Watergate matter was expressed in speeches Thursday by Republican National Chairman George Bush and presidential counselor Anne Armstrong.

"Without downgrading the ugliness of Watergate, the Republican party is alive and well," Bush said.

Lebanese truce put into effect

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Palestinian guerrillas from Syria shelled a border post in northern Lebanon today, but elsewhere along the frontier thousands of the guerrillas were moving back into Syria.

An army communique said the border post at Arida came under "an intensive attack by rockets and mortars" before dawn, and the Lebanese troops returned the fire. The army said the guerrillas withdrew into Syria, and there were no Lebanese casualties.

An army spokesman said the general withdrawal of the guerrillas who invaded from Syria during the fighting Tuesday between the army and the guerrillas based in Lebanon began Thursday from the Bekka Valley. The valley was the scene of heavy fighting Wednesday and Thursday.

Only one incident was reported in Beirut. A taxicab ran over a mine near Aran University, killing two persons and wounding three others. Police sources said the guerrillas planted the mines during the fighting Tuesday.

As part of the peace agreement, joint army and guerrilla patrols fanned out over the country to help enforce the latest cease-fire agreed on Wednesday night. The guerrilla and army headquarters in Beirut were linked by a "hot line" telephone for instant consultations on any cease-fire violations, and a joint four-man high committee was also set up.

Meanwhile, President Suleiman Franjieh was looking for a successor to Prime Minister Amin Hafez, who resigned on Tuesday after Franjieh ordered the air force to repel a guerrilla attack on the Beirut airport.

A military spokesman reported no fighting in the Bekaa Valley since early Thursday afternoon, and Beirut was quiet after only occasional sniping Thursday. The curfew in the capital was relaxed for five hours, bringing thousands of persons into the streets to buy food and other provisions.

The pullback of the infiltrators from Syria promised a significant reduction in the international crisis resulting from the fighting.

There were fears that the Palestinians would be followed by the Syrian army, and Israel said it would intervene if that happened.

State tax processing moves slowly

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Taxation expects to have the last of the state income tax returns processed by June 15.

Stan Spaulding, a spokesman for the department, said it had received numerous complaints about the slowness of refund checks.

He said the department now estimates that 1.24 million Ohioans will receive refunds, with the average refund averaging $14.31.

According to Spaulding, that's more refunds than were anticipated.

"We had no way of predicting accurately how many refunds would be involved," he said. "We predicted a low of 750,000 to a high of one million.

Spaulding said that 1,092,346 income tax returns involving refunds had been processed by the middle of this week, and that so far about 800,000 refund checks have been mailed out.

He explained that there is about a week's delay between the time refund information is sent to the state auditor's office and checks are written.

Employment agencies drew fire

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite a state personnel policy against using private employment agencies to recruit new employes, private agencies place as many as 2,000 persons annually in state jobs, the Dayton Daily News reported.

The agencies then collect fees from the employes for finding them jobs.

The News cited a complaint from Mrs. Delmar Sibrie of Dayton, who recently wrote Gov. John Gilligan asking for a refund of $420 she paid a private agency for finding her a $504-a-month state job. She said she was advised to retain an attorney.

She said she went to the Ohio Bureau of Employment Services looking for a state job and was told they did not know how she could apply for a state job.

She then went to a private agency which referred her to the state job opening.

She said she was not upset about the fee until she saw a memorandum from former State Personnel Director Paul Corey reading: "No one should have to pay a fee to enter state service.

Corey's memo said it is not state policy to use private employment agencies, and that violations of the policy should warrant disciplinary action.

John Marshall, past-president of the Ohio Private Employment Service Association estimated that private agencies place 500 to 2,000 people with the state each year.

He said state officials "continue to ignore" orders not to use the services of private agencies because the OBES cannot do the job.

Toledo policemen all back on jobs

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Toledo Police Chief Robert Duck said Thursday he believes leaders of a police sickout decided to halt the action because "we were getting along very well without them."

Duck said command officers managed to maintain basic services during the three-day work stoppage.

Most of the policemen returned to work Thursday.

Ohio Perspective

By PERRY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Democratic Party has been patting itself on the back for the large number of tickets pre-sold for its $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner Saturday.

To hear party officials tell it, they sold more than 3,000 tickets with modern techniques such as organized telephone solicitations and advance mailings.

There were widespread reports, however, that an old but successful method also was used. It is commonly referred to as "arm twisting."

Some department heads within the administration have been grumbling about the number of tickets they have been told to dispose of, apparently to employes.

The arm reportedly also has been put on lobbying groups. Even Republican-oriented associations felt compelled to accept an offer of large blocks of tickets. The Democrats are in command.

Advance mailing was so thorough solicitations went even to Statehouse newsmen, most of whom object to paying even $5 for dinner.

Secretary of State Ted W. Brown may not have political feet of clay as Gov. John J. Gilligan apparently believes, but he knows a lot about molding the stuff.

In recent months Brown has spent a lot of his spare time making ceramic objects. He has displayed some of them, such as a reproduction of the Liberty Bell, in his office.

Brown has set up a ceramics studio in the basement of his home. He contended it was cheaper pasttime "than going out Saturday afternoons and buying beer for the boys."

The Ohio Environmental Protection Agency isn't trying to cripple the coal industry with emission control standards too strict to be economically feasible, said Dr. Ira Whitman, the state's anti-pollution chief.

Whitman said his agency "strongly recommends the continued use of coal" but with control equipment which is "available and proven."

The Ohio Chamber of Commerce and other groups have asked that the state's sulfur oxide standards be eased. They claimed the standards put coal at a competitive disadvantage in the current fuel market.

The Ohio Petroleum Marketers' Association also asked for such relaxation as an essential move in the energy crisis.

Dr. Whitman said 14 major power plants in areas of severe pollution in Ohio have been issued proposed compliance schedules and will be given a chance to testify at public hearings.

"If the companies can prove their cases to our statisfaction," said Whitman, "we may request from the U.S. EPA an extension of the time limit for reduction of sulfur oxide emissions."

Greenfield gets physicians

GREENFIELD — The need for doctors in Greenfield, which prompted the Rotary Doctor Fund, has been relieved somewhat. A husband-wife physician team have agreed to begin practice here on or about June 18.

Dr. Jose A. Faffinan Jr. and his wife, Dr. Maria Reyes Raffinan, will open their offices in the complex owned by Dr. Glenn B. Doan. Mrs. Raffinan will practice solely in Greenfield, while Mr. Raffinan will also practice in Hillsboro.

The Doctor Fund has agreed to pay part of the couple's moving expenses, and gives them an income guarantee. If income fails to meet the specified level per month, the fund will pay the difference, with the stipulation that the doctors will repay the money within three years.

The two physicians have found a home in Greenfield and plan to move here with their three children around the first of June.

POWs blast Hanoi trips by peaceniks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Several former prisoners of war, telling Congress of torture and blows to their morale, have urged a ban on unauthorized trips by Americans to nations fighting the United States.

They said life behind Hanoi's bars was made even more miserable by American antiwar visitors to North Vietnam.

"All in all, it created an ,untenable situation for us," Navy Cmdr. David Hoffman of Philadelphia and San Diego, Calif., told the House Internal Security Committee Wednesday.

The North Vietnamese, he said, "were convinced the delegations that came in there were representative of American public opinion. They were taking everything they said at face value and it was very widely publicized within Vietnam.

"After all, if you can have a picture of an American sitting in an antiaircraft battery with a helmet on as though shooting down an aircraft, that makes pretty good propaganda. It also made it much more difficult for us to continue to fight against the propaganda efforts that were being made trying to use us for propaganda purposes."

Air Force Capt. Larry Carrigan of Scottsdale, Ariz., testified: "I personally know of several men that were either forced to go see a delegation or there were repercussions afterward ....

"These delegations did absolutely nothing for the betterment of our camp life, it did not improve one bit because they came to Hanoi. In fact, it hurt us and hurt us badly."

Your Horoscope

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SATURDAY, MAY 12

ARIES
(March 21 to April 20)

Avoid needless anxiety and tension. You can deal effectively with difficult assignments by being your innately enthusiastic and sound-thinking self.

TAURUS
(April 21 to May 21)

Step up and be counted! Several advantages indicated for you if you put forth original and progressive ideas. This is no day for outmoded methods or practices.

GEMINI
(May 22 to June 21)

Some dubious schemes may be suggested. Be alert — and reject promptly. Also, avoid eccentric behavior, extremes in word or deed.

CANCER
(June 22 to July 23)

LEO
(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Influences encouraging for substantial interests and projects. Bide your time where fast moves could offset the effect of work already done commendably.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Emotions could get out of hand unless you are determined to keep them under control. Lack of self-mastery could hinder progress.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

This could be a day of great personal achievement. Aim to attain goals you have set for yourself, but don't expect the unreasonable.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Care needed in both budgetary and domestic matters now. Also, avoid restlessness and changeability. A day for straight-line thinking and action.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

You may have a desire to try something a bit "different," but think well beforehand of the possible outcome. Your wish may not be based on logic.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Don't be so overly cautious that you lose out on advantages. And don't wait for others to "mend the fences." Some things need to be straightened out — by you.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Determine distance efforts must stretch to cover ground necessary. You may be tempted to press too hard now — trying to cover more than is possible. DON'T!

PISCES
(Feb. 20 to March 20)

You may not reach the peak of your expectations, but if you keep things going and have faith, you will achieve a great deal. Take clever short cuts; trim out nonessentials.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a warm and outgoing personality, great dignity and extraordinary determination, which helps you to achieve almost "impossible" goals. Your adaptability, strength of will, love of harmony, imagination and pride in your work are outstanding. Many fields of endeavor are open to you because of your versatility and willingness to strive hard for achievement. You could excel especially in art, music, the law, teaching, gardening, writing or archeology. Also, with your innate humanitarianism and sympathy for all living creatures, you could make a notable success as a physician, nurse or veterinarian.

Nixon kin in trouble

"They'd better leave me and my family alone," declared Milhous' wife, Anna.

She said her son, who has declared bankruptcy, had quit a private detective's job because he was being forced to break the law by being assigned as an undercover agent to parties where drugs were being used illegally.

"If he'd got caught, he'd gone to jail," she told a newsman who asked for her comment on her son's plight.

Milhous is the President's first cousin. He disclosed two years ago that he and his wife had been ill and were forced to go on welfare.

ACCEPTED BY ARMY — James D. Haithcock Jr. of 1028 John St., has been accepted into the U.S. Army's Delayed Entry Program (DEP), according to Sgt. Don Warner, local Army representative. Scheduled to graduate from Washington Senior High School in June, Haithcock is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Haithcock Sr. He has been active in track and NROTC during his four years at Washington Senior High School. The DEP program enables a high school senior to make plans while in school for his future after graduation. A qualified man can be guaranteed a choice of training, schooling and, in most cases, location. Pvt. Haithcock selected the Army's 82nd Airborne Division at Ft. Bragg, N.C.

House gets registration by postcard

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed and sent to an uncertain fate in the House a bill that would allow Americans to register for federal elections by mailing a postcard.

The White House opposes the measure, which won 57-37 Senate passage Wednesday only after a month-long filibuster by Southerners and conservatives was broken.

Twice earlier the Senate had failed to cut off debate and bring the bill to a vote. Opponents, led by Sens. James Allen, D-Ala., and Hiram Fong, R-Hawaii, contended registration by mail would promote election fraud.

The vote on halting the filibuster was 67 to 32, with all senators voting except John C. Stennis, D-Miss., who is recovering from gunshot wounds.

The bill, which was killed in the Senate last year, would create a voter-registration administration. The Census Bureau would identify potential voters and the Postal Service would deliver registration cards. The voter would register simply by returning the card.

The popular 1916 "World War I" steel tray is the only design ever produced for Coca-Cola in the elongated, oblong configuration. A unique design with strong decorator appeal, this tray is a welcome addition to any homemaker. (Size — 8-5/8" x 19")

The 1914 "Betty Girl" classic is perhaps the most famous of all memorabilia art objects for Coca-Cola. The familiar oval design adorned soda shoppes and parlors across America throughout the early 1900's (Size — 15-1/8" x 18-1/2")

The 1912 rectangular tray completes this initial grouping from Coca-Cola Bottlers. Subtle use of color in the traditional turn-of-the-century styling highlights this famous tray design for Coca-Cola. (Size — 10-5/8" x 13-1/4")

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Occasionally, we ought to stop to study this color phenomenon to appreciate its magic and its value. Its present stature has been attained in a comparatively short time for there's little more than 100 years between the first color theory demonstrations and today's sophisticated achievements.

We ought to pause, too, to improve the quality of our color pictures instead of the quantity. And, since color dyes may deteriorate, under certain conditions, we should make an effort to preserve our favorite pictures from premature fading.

Fortunately, to spare you time involved in research, editors of Popular Photography did some homework on the subject. Result: six articles and three color portfolios in the current "1973 Color Photography" annual (Ziff-Davis Publishers, $1.50).

On the educational beat, Jacob Deschin provides a checklist and compact review of currently available publications on color from general guidebooks for beginners to comprehensive manuals for advanced workers. A fan can select the specific topic — slid making, shooting outdoors . . . or indoors, color processing . . . or printing, etc. — that will improve his picture-taking results.

Harvey V. Fondiller is the author-photographer who says, "The color photographs you make will not survive unless something is done about preserving the images — and soon."

Color films and prints should be stored or kept in a dry, cool, preferably dark place and never in a damp basement or hot attic.

Transparencies and slides are vulnerable to high temperature and high humidity because the combination can cause mold or mildew. They should be stored in a moisture - proof box containing silica gel, a chemical that absorbs moisture.

Other protective measures to preserve color films are mounting in clean glass mounts, inserting in transparent sleeves or applying a lacquer coating. Make sure also that color materials aren't exposed to insecticide sprays, moth flakes or hypo cyrstals.

COLOR PRINTS are best preserved in albums. Those with transparent sleeve pages add extra protection to print surfaces. Don't use ordinary rubber cement to mount prints because they can cause stains in time. Use special inert photo cement or a moisture-resistant paste.

If a transparency or print you value shows signs of fading, have a duplicate made immediately before deterioration goes any further. Once started, Fondiller warns, the dye destruction takes place slowly, silently and irrevocably.

In another article, Fondiller emphasizes an old rule by which professionals maintain their reputation as good photographers: never show your bad pictures.

"It Takes Courage To Throw Away Color Slides," he entitles it, but it's necessary and practical. Start with the assumption that every frame you click off will not be perfect.. . . not even for pros. So do what they do: they make mulitple shots of any picture they shoot, then select only the best one for expression, composition or mood.

Be discriminating, show only the best pictures and you'll be spared the embarrassment of apologizing for what went wrong.

Even when good pictures show up every fourth or fifth shot, the total effect is a bomb. However, if he had shown only the infrequent gems, he would have been considered a good photographer.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures
By SYD KRONISH

Israel's Declaration of Independence is featured on the special stamp issued by that country to herald its 25th anniversary.

Highlighted on the new adhesive are the signatures of those who penned their names to this historic document.

Although one would need a large magnifying glass to see the names on the stamp, a stellar array of Israel's founders can be noted — including David Ben-Gurion, Golda Meyerson (now Meier), David Remez and Moshe Shertok.

Also issued simultaneously is a sourvenir sheet which contains the new stamp but also adds the complete Declaration. The tab sheet is inscribed "Israel — 25 Years of Independence," reports the Israel Philatelic Agency in America.

In contrast to the celebration theme is a haunting commemorative dedicated to the "Hitler Holocaust." The design depicts a stylized skeletal hand reaching out to the people of the world.

Fully titled "The Holocaust and the Revolt of European Jewry," the stamp represents the brutal and inhuman treatment by the Hitler regime which wiped out six million Jews from 1933 to 1945.

Copies for $1 each may be obtained directly from the American First Day Cover Society, 14359 Chadbourne, Houston, Tex., 77024.

CYPRUS honors the 29th Congress of the International Skiing Federation to be held in Nicosia in June with a new two-value set of stamps.

The stamp is the 1969 U. S. Christmas issue which has been found to exist vertically and horizontally imperforate. A full pane of 50 stamps, including 30 without the horizontal or vertical perforations, is in Schiff's hands.

This represents the fourth discovery of a completely imperforate sheet stamp since 1968 and the seventh in the past 35 years. The rarity of such errors is evident when one realizes that the Bureau of Engraving and Printing has produced 875 billion stamps in that 35 years.

The error pane was purchased in 1969 by a resident of small town in Tennessee for mailing his holiday cards. Though not a philatelist he recognized their possible value and carefully placed them in his bank vault. He did this because he feared that if he reported his find immediately, the Post Office Department might order a reprinting of the error stamps as was done for the Hamarskjold errors of 1962, thus negating their rarity and value.

COLLECTORS who specialize in first-day covers will be interested in the latest issue of "First Days," the official magazine of the American First Day Cover Society. The publication features stories on U.S. issues from 1926 to the present time.

POWER PLANT CHANGES — New precipitators, which will be installed on the south side of the Tait Generating Station, will be 110 feet high, according to the Dayton Power and Light Co. The new conventional design units will be built instead of the Mirror Grid system which could not meet emission control standards. The cost of this latest environmental project will be over $8 million. It will include a modification of the station's topping plant boilers so they can burn fuel oil as well as coal. The precipitators are expected to be in service in early 1975.

Strong wheat prices to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wheat farmers can expect prices to continue relatively strong for another year, according to the latest production and use estimates by the Agriculture Department.

The winter wheat crop, which supplies the bulk of the bread grain, was estimated Thursday at a record 1.282 billion bushels. That would be 8 per cent or 96 million bushels more than harvested in 1972.

Although the estimate did not include new figures on spring wheat production this year, that type has been projected roughly at 454 million bushels.

Thus, the total crop of 1973 wheat is shaping up at a record of about 1.736 billion bushels. That would compare with 1.545 billion last year and the previous high of 1.618 billion in 1971.

Although the estimates are still subject to major revisions, it appears that as of now a crop of around 1.7 billion bushels would be about equal or slightly less than the demand expected for wheat next marketing year.

As it looks to USDA experts, wheat exports for the year beginning July 1 may run about 950 million bushels, second only to the record 1.115 billion expected to be shipped in the current year.

If domestic use in 1973-74 is about equal to this season, another 800 million or more bushels will be required. That would put total use in the range of 1.7 billion to 1.8 billion bushels.

In other words, if the total crop materializes as it looks to USDA now—and the exports and other requirements shape us—the United States may not produce enough wheat this year to meet total demand.

That would put new upward pressure on the farm price of wheat through mid-1974 when another crop will be ready for harvest. It also would syphon off the dwindling carryover or reserve of wheat, expected to be about 441 million bushels on July 1.

The July 1 carryover, reduced by exports to the Soviet Union and other markets, would be the smallest in six years.

Officials point out, however, that the first official estimates on spring-planted wheat will not be ready until July and that those could indicate a larger (or smaller) crop than currently projected.

Death probed at Cincinnati

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — Police are awaiting results of an autopsy as investigation continued today in the death of Mrs. Brenda Seifert, 25, of Reading.

She was found early Thursday morning by her husband Gary, 25, in the bedroom of the couple's home. He said he had been out for the night.

"All we can say at this time," a police spokesman said, "is that we have a female death that appears to us not to be natural."

Negotiations resumed

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Officials of the B. F. Goodrich Co. and the United Rubber Workers resume negotiations in Columbus today in an attempt to end a strike of 10,600 workers at seven Goodrich plants.

Chamber of Commerce board elects new officers

Jack Criswell, community relations manager for the Ohio Bell Telephone Co., will be the speaker at the annual meeting to be held in the Mahan Building.

DOMENICO announced the appointment of five persons to the board of directors. They are: Robert Gestrich, Ronald Hidy, John Lachet, David Ogan and LaVerne Haugen. Leroy Barton, chairman of the election committee, reported that Brennan, Otis Hess, Paul Johnson, John Rhoad and Jim Ward were elected to the board of directors by the Chamber membership.

Other Chamber officials are Jerry Sheppard, immediate past president, and James Dunn, executive vice president. Members of the board of directors also will be installed at the annual meeting. An orientation meeting for the new directors will be held at 10 a.m. Monday in the Chamber office.

Pool, as attendance chairman for the annual meeting, announced that formal reservations were mailed Thursday to members. The attendance goal is 400.

The program of work was discussed at the Thursday meeting and will be presented at the annual event.

NEW MEMBERSHIP plaques have been ordered and will be distributed during the membership drive, to begin the day following the annual meeting. A membership planning committee session will be conducted at 1 p.m. today in the Chamber office.

In other business Thursday, the board reviewed the budget, heard a report by Roberta Bowers concerning the 1973 Business and Industry Education Days, and selected Eddie Fisher as chairman of the Christmas Parade.

Property damage crashes reported

Two minor hitskip traffic mishaps were investigated by city police and sheriff's departments Thursday.

A truck driven by Robert L. Oty, 34, Rt. 4, was damaged when it was struck by a hitskip driver on Main Street at 9:54 a.m.

Oty was turning left into an alley beside the J.C. Penney Co. store when a car backed from a parking space and hit the left door of the truck. Oty said that while he went to telephone police the other driver left the scene.

Sheriff's deputies are still investigating a hitskip mishap on Rowe-Ging Road which damaged three rods of fence on the Lowell Coffman estate. Officers said the driver of the hitskip vehicle had failed to negotiate a sharp curve and ran through the wire fence.

City band concert scheduled outdoors

The All-City Band Concert is scheduled to begin at 6:30 this evening at Gardner Park on Circle Avenue. The elementary, Junior High and Senior Bands will all participate.

In the event that the daily rains strike the city at concert time, the presentation will be held in the Senior High gymnasium.

Annual awards presented at Boys' Choir windup

Several awards were presented at the final 1972-73 meeting of the Fayette County Boys' Choir Thursday night in its meeting room at the First Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Robert E. Willis, founder and director of the choir, made the awards. Brad Tolle won the highest attendance award and highest ticket sales award, Randall Burge the best behavior award, Gregg Sanderson the highest bank account award and Ralph Fast the best salesman award.

Choir officers spoke to the gathering of parents on their experiences during the year especially during the spring trip to Charlottesville, Va., last weekend. President Gregg Sanderson, Vice President Jess Fannin, Sergeant-at-arms Ralph Fast, Librarians Mess Overly and Steve Ford, Secretary-Joe Smith and Pianist John Huffman all gave short talks.

Reports were given by Mrs. Joe Overly, secretary; Mrs. Ron Waggonner, treasurer; Mrs. William Heinz, project chairman; Mrs. Kenneth Ford, bake sale chairman, and Garrell Leasure, choir trip manager.

Mrs. Willis said the choir had some "left over expenses" from the spring trip and will be selling stationery and cards this summer to clear the slate.

The choir entertained their guests with two groups of songs, and Mrs. Willis gave a short theory demonstration. In her 17th year as choir director, Mrs. Willis said she was especially pleased with this year's group because it had shown marked improvement in various aspects throughout the year.

Strevey installed as Barracks head

J. Paul Strevey became commander of Fayette County Barracks 2291, Veterans of World War I, Thursday night at an installation ceremony held in the Paul H. Hughey Post, American Legion, home here. The oath of office was administered by the Rev. Cloyce Copley, District 7 commander and Ohio Department chaplain.

Other officers installed were Robert Rothrock, senior vice commander; Earl Greer, junior vice commander; Clarence Hackett, chaplain; Harold C. Mark, quartermaster; R. B. Tharp, judge advocate; the Rev. Mr. Copley, adjutant; and D. V. Lockwood, Calvin Johnson and Willis E. Hays, trustees.

Plans also were made at the business session to participate in the Memorial Day parade and observance at 7:30 p.m. May 30. Strevey, Mark and Hackett were named to represent the Fayette County Barracks at the state convention June 8-10 in Columbus.

Gold zooms in Europe

LONDON (AP) — A new wave of buying hit European gold markets today, sending the metal to new peaks amid expectations that $100 an ounce would be reached soon. Bullion opened in London at $96.05 an ounce, a dollar above Thursday's close. It was raised another 25 cents at the morning fixing.

The record high followed a steady climb all week that has taken the price up more than $6 an ounce.

Thursday's trading in London was double the normal amount, dealers said, and more than 30 tons, worth nearly $100 million, changed hands. Trading in the big Zurich market was believed even heavier.

The U.S. dollar continued steady on foreign exchanges. Dealers said the American money was again in demand, apparently as a result of the raising of the Federal Reserve discount rate.

Female turkeys, unlike chicken hens, stand upright when they lay eggs. Since the eggs drop an average of 10 inches, the breakage problem is tremendous.

The California condor's great black wings, marked underneath with tapering white patches, may stretch to 10 feet and carry it up to 10,000 feet and higher.

Defensive driving course presented

The sixth Defensive Driving Course, sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club, was held Thursday evening in the Farm Bureau auditorium.

The three-hour course, with an intermission when refreshments were served, was conducted by officers from the city, county and State Highway Patrol.

Police Patrolman Dennis Brown spoke on "Laws of Nature - Safety and Mechanics." Fayette County Sheriff's Sgt. William Crooks taught a course on defensive driving principles and presented two films.

The course, designed by the Highway Patrol, was conducted to promote driver safety.

Committee chairwoman for the promotion was Miss Frances White, and assisting her were Mrs. Donald Long, Miss Mary Jo Cullen, Miss Mary Sauer, Mrs. William Rogers, Mrs. Dave Seaman and Mrs. Stanley Brown.

Also present for the course was state WRAP (Women Responsible for Accident Prevention) chairman, Mozelle Ross, of Lebanon.

Nader attacks oil companies over shortages

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)— Consumer advocate Ralph Nader charged Thursday that oil companies deliberately produced less gasoline than was needed in face of increasing demand in order to create a shortage.

Speaking with newsmen here, Nader accused the companies of creating the shortage in an effort to win tax breaks and permission to build the Alaskan pipeline. 7

Nader also criticized the Environmental Protection Agency's decision to allow auto manufacturers a year's grace in meeting 1975 emission control standards. He said it was an example of the Nixon administration's disinterest in enforcing consumer laws.

Social Security Act changes hike retirement payments

CHILLICOTHE — Social Security retirement payments to most aged widows and dependent widowers were increased this year due to the 1972 amendments to the Social Security Act.

Under the old law a 62-year-old widow was entitled to 82½ per cent of the amount her husband would have received at age 65. The widow had nothing to gain by waitinb beyond age 62.

Under the new legislation a widow has the option of beginning her payments with any month from age 60 to age 65. The payments are not reduced if she elects to wait until age 65 to begin receiving her benefits. In that case she receives 100 per cent of the amount her husband was receiving.

If he was not entitled to benefits at the time of his death she would receive the same benefit her husband would have received at age 65.

SOME INCREASE in monthly benefits resulted for widows and widowers already receiving checks. For example, a widow who started getting benefits at age 62 now gets 82.9 per cent of her husband's benefit amount instead of the 82.5 per cent she received under previous law.

Nationwide, about 4 million widows and dependent widowers are receiving higher payments under the new law. Increases that were due were automatically processed by the payment centers and appeared in checks beginning in February.

The 1972 amendments contained several other changes affecting widows and widowers. One requirement of the old law was that marriage took place at least three months before the worker died where the death was accidental or occurred in the line of duty in military service. This provision has been eliminated.

Another change eases a similar duration - of - marriage requirement where the widow had divorced and remarried to the same individual shortly before his death.

A FURTHER CHANGE which benefits some divorced women provides that a surviving divorced wife will no longer need to meet a support requirement. It is still necessary that the marriage had lasted for at least 20 years. Any widow who might qualify under this change must file an application with the Social Security Administration.

The waiting period for disabled widows and widowers is 5 months under the new law instead of 6 months. This change affects all claims in which a decision has not been reached and is effective January 1973.

The 1972 amendments also provide that disabled widows and dependent widowers between age 50 and 65 who have been entitled to benefits for 24 consecutive calendar months, will be entitled to hospital insurance benefits under Medicare effective July 1973.

The disabled widow is also eligible to enroll in the supplementary medical insurance. The Social Security Administration will contact these persons by mail before July 1973.

Anyone wishing more information regarding these or any other changes may contact the Chillicothe Social Security Office at 606 Central Center. The office is open daily, Monday through Friday, from 8:45 a.m. to 4:45 p.m. - except on holidays. The telephone number is 775-4950.

Test Your Dummy Play

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Six Notrump and North leads the ten of spades. How would you play the hand?

	♠ KQ6 ♥ A5 ♦ A74 ♣ A9543
♠ AJ3 ♥ K82 ♦ KJ5 ♣ QJ62	N W E S

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Hearts. North leads the ace and another heart, South following suit. How should you play the hand

	♠ K8 ♥ KQ10984 ♦ A10 ♣ AQ9

1. If you were sure of five club tricks you'd also be sure of the contract, but, since the odds strongly favor only four, you must consider a diamond finesse as an eventual source for the twelfth trick.

This train of thought leads to the surprising conclusion that, since there are two ways to play the clubs and only one way to play the diamonds, you should try the diamond finesse first — as an aid to how to play the clubs.

Suppose you lead a diamond to the jack at trick two and it wins. Once this occurs, the contract is foolproof. The only remaining problem is to absolutely guarantee four club tricks, and this can be done very simply by returning to your hand in any suit but clubs and leading a low club to dummy. This enables you to guard against either opponent's having the K-10-8-7.

If the diamond finesse at trick two loses, you will have to assume that South was dealth specifically the K-x or K-x-x of clubs (a 26 per cent chance) and rely on a finesse to produce five club tricks.

2. Win the heart in your hand, cash the K-A of spades, ruff a spade, then play the A-10 of diamonds. This sequence of plays guarantees the contract 100 per cent.

If North wins the diamond, he is bound to hand you a trick whatever he returns. If South wins the diamond and returns a low club, you finesse the nine — thus forcing North to yield the game-going trick. If South's return is the jack or ten of clubs, you play the queen to achieve the same result.

If South wins the ten of diamonds and returns a low diamond, you discard a club, while, if he returns a spade, you get a ruff and discard.

Here's a Real Dream Diet

How do you feel about the controversy over the weight-reducing diet that allows you to eat limitless fats?
Mrs. B.B., Mass.

Dear Mrs. B.:

The raging controversy about the high-fat, low-sugar, low-carbohydrate diet has taken on unprecedented proportions in the field of weight-reducing programs.

Those who have lost weight on the recommended regime are the greatest proponents in support of it.

This, of course, is a typical response of anyone who has also lost weight on the water diet, the banana diet, the milk diet, the fruit diet, the nine-day diet, the alcohol diet, the diet-of-the-month, and the dieter's diet.

An ideal diet is the dream of anyone who wants to shed 20 pounds without imposing the slightest effort or deprivation. This diet might include eggs, butter, martinis, French fried potatoes, thick milk shakes, rich gravies, pancakes dripping with butter and syrup, plenty of hot biscuits drenched in butter and jam, doughnuts, baked beans, fettucine saturated in rich sauce, mouth-watering pastries and banana splits topped with mountainous crests of whipped cream.

If, on such a diet one could lose those 20 pounds overnight and regain his svelte figure immediately so much the better.

Since such a fictional diet will have to remain in the world of dreams, the dieter will have to come face to face with the reality that it is only by arduous effort and consistent restraint that he can expect the pounds to come off and STAY OFF.

It is a well-established fact that a high level of cholesterol in the bloodstream is potentially responsible for the narrowing of the arteries. Heart disease and strokes due to arteriosclerotic changes in the blood vessels are related to these high cholesterol levels. There are, of course, other contributing factors such as tobacco.

Certain foods such as eggs, butter and fatty meats (containing saturated fats) do increase the cholesterol level in the blood, and expose people to a greater possibility of vascular disease.

Healthy, normal adults can do themselves an injustice when their diet is excessively high in cholesterol.

People with heart, lung, liver or kidney disease are especially vulnerable to diets that contain large amounts of saturated fats.

There are other conditions in which the metabolic balance is easily thrown off by unrestricted diets.

That which is apparent is that some people have lost weight on this unusually tempting diet. It must be emphasized that this diet has been used for many years by doctors who carefully select their patients and follow them meticulously throughout the weight-losing period, checking constantly on their cholesterol level and the output of significant elements (ketone) in the urine.

Herein lies the key to the controversy that now involves physicians and laity. When the general public becomes captivated by such a diet, the element of risk is introduced unless this plan is carefully supervised by a physician. The doctor knows his own patients. Their underlying medical status may be such that he will often advise against such a regime.

Any diet, new or old, should be under the doctor's supervision if permanent weight control, without risk to health, is to be maintained.

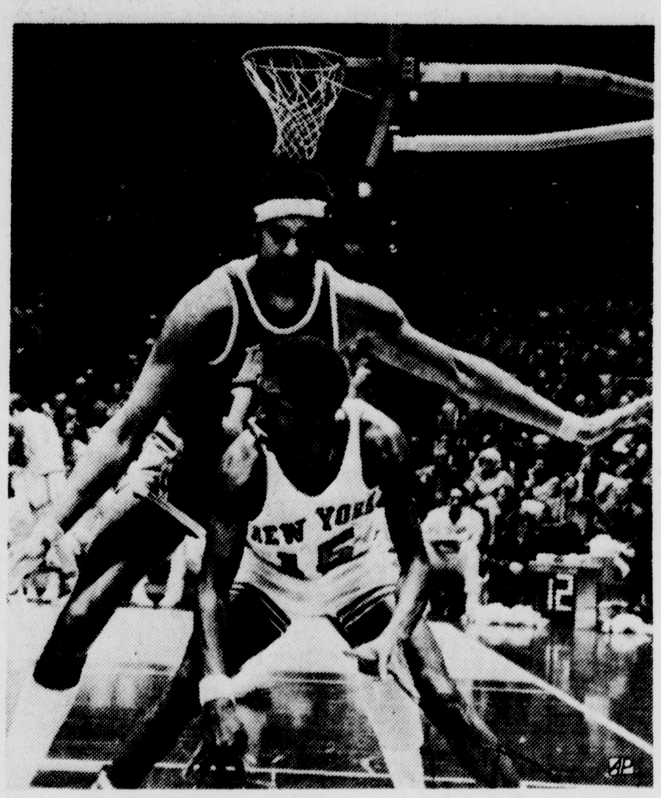
Knicks nab NBA playoff crown



LONG AND SHORT OF IT — New York Knicks guard Earl Monroe (15) is dwarfed by Los Angeles Lakers pivotman Wilt Chamberlain as he tries to dribble the ball (not shown) away from the 7-foot-1 star during the National Basketball Association playoffs.

NY clinches series with 102-93 victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Four in a row seems almost impossible," sadly commented the giant Wilt Chamberlain, yet he and his Los Angeles Laker teammates had lost their National Basketball Association title to New York in a virtual sweep.

"New York was the better team," added the 7-foot-1 Laker after the Knicks had hung up a 102-93 victory Thursday night and a 4-1 winning margin in playoff series games.

They had lost the opener and then come back to whip the defending champions four straight and there were few excuses.

"They are well balanced, have tremendous passing and so many good shooters that you can't concentrate on one man. The key to the series was that the defense stopped our running game."

The Knicks' defense throttled the Lakers, particularly when there was a chance of Los Angeles pulling ahead.

Ironically, the Lakers had wanted to play New York in the final series rather than Boston and cheered when the Knicks beat the Celtics in the Eastern playoffs.

Last year, it was Los Angeles 4-1 over the Knicks, who had won the NBA title in 1970 by beating the Lakers.

"I think we had more depth than we did the last time we won the title," commented Knicks' Coach Red Holzman. "We didn't have Jerry Lucas, Earl Monroe or Dean Meminger then."

Monroe took scoring honors for the finale on the New York side with 23 points and Bill Bradley, the Rhodes scholar, added 20.

Dave DeBusschere, who starred two nights previously with 33 points, tallied just one field goal and sprained his right ankle in the fourth quarter when he finally did reach the scoring list.

Willis Reed, the nine-year veteran pro from Grambling, proved tremendous. Three years ago when the Knicks beat the Lakers for the title he was the most valuable in the series. Then his knees were injured. Last year he didn't even play in the finals.

This time he showed more quickness than any time during the season.

Again, a national magazine voted him most valuable and he received a new car.

In the final game, he scored 18 points, grabbed 12 rebounds and had seven assists.

The Lakers had only one excuse. Back court ace Jerry West was hampered by strained hamstring muscles in both legs. The right was bandaged for the finale and he scored only 12 points.

"With Jerry hurt, our quickness, our speed and our running game just aren't the same," said Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman and even efforts of 28 points by Gail Goodrich and 23 by Chamberlain could not compensate for the bad West underpinnings.

For the winners, Jerry Lucas commented, "I really believe this is the most intelligent team in the history of pro basketball. Everybody on this team is thinking all the time. We don't overpower anybody, we have to finesse them. To do that, you have to play smart, intelligent basketball."

LEAVES JAIL — Heisman football trophy winner Johnny Rodgers pulls on a fur hat as he leaves the Lancaster County-Lincoln City jail after serving a 30-day sentence for driving on a suspended license. Rodgers says he plans to go to Canada and then to San Diego, Calif., to discuss his pro football future.

Circleville outburst ousts Lions from section tourney

Circleville's Tigers, a perennial tourney toughie, unveiled an explosive 17-hit assault to usher Washington C. H. to the sidelines of the Class AA Central District sectional baseball tournament Thursday night at the WSHS diamond.

Head coach Dan Fouts' Tigers, who have now beaten the Blue Lions twice this spring, clobbered the injury-riddled Washington C. H. 17-1 to advance to the finals of the South sectional.

WASHINGTON C. H. which saw a three-game winning string snapped, was eventually forced to play without the service of five regulars in the contest.

Junior Duke Willis suffered a sprained ankle prior to the game, but later came back to belt a pinch-hit double. Third sacker Herb Bonner suffered a broken nose in batting practice and junior Mark Johnson was spiked in the first inning and later removed from the game. Senior catcher Mike Domenico was attending a Hi-Y convention in Columbus and Craig Stebleton was hurt during the game.

The loss was the sixth in 14 outings for head coach Rodger Mickle's Blue Lions. Washington C. H. had won tourney games over Watkins Memorial and Columbus Bishop Hartley.

Greg Hoskins, who has emerged with victories in both starts against the Blue Lions, nursed a 1-0 lead for four innings, before the Tigers erupted for 12 runs in the fifth inning.

The 12-run outburst, coupled with eight Washington C. H. fielding miscues, didn't help the Blue Lion cause.

Coach Mickle employed a total of three pitchers in hopes of quieting the booming Circleville bats. Stebleton started for Washington C. H. and pitched four innings before being relieved in the middle of Circleville's fifth inning explosion.

HOSKINS, in picking up the win, allowed one run and scattered six hits. Washington C. H. scored its only run of the lopsided contest in the seventh inning.

Washington C. H., still nursing hopes of at least clinching a share of the South Central Ohio League baseball pennant, will risk its 2-1 loop record in a game at Greenfield McClain tonight. The Lions stand 8-6 overall.

Bench joins Shamsky in Reds record book

CINCINNATI — The booming bat of Johnny Bench has put the Cincinnati Reds catcher into the baseball record book once again.

Bench became only the sixth player in National League history to hit four consecutive home runs in two games. The defending major league homer king accomplished the feat in Philadelphia on his last time at bat Tuesday night and his first three times up Wednesday.

Johnny is the second Reds player to do it. Art Shamsky hit four in a row in 1962. Deron Johnson was the last National Leaguer to turn the feat, blasting four straight in 1971. The others who have done it are Bill Nicholson, Ralph Kiner (twice) and Stan Musial. Johnson, a former Red, was with the Phils at the time.

IT WAS the second time in his career Bench had hit three homers in the same game . . . both times against Steve Carlton, Philadelphia's Cy Young Award winner.

Only one other Reds player ever hit three home runs in a game twice. Gus Bell did it in 1955 and 1956.

Bench blasted his way into the record book last year during a five-game home run tear. He hit seven in the five games, tying Jim Bottomley's record that had stood since 1929. Although not a record, Bench also added seven more in an eight-game stretch in September.

Home run binges are nothing new to Bench. He hit six in eight games in 1969. During one four-game stretch in 1970 Johnny hit six, including three off Carlton, who was then with St. Louis. And in 1971 he hit nine in the month of April, including four in three games against Atlanta.

Just 25 years old, Bench now has 163 career home runs, including nine this year. Few players in baseball history have hit as many at such a young age.

Reporter Ken winner of Lebanon feature

Six horses are in the field.

Thursday night, Reporter Ken forged into the lead moments before a five-horse accident at the three-qyarters mark and went on to win. Only two horses finished the race.

There were no injuries when a horse fell and created a chain of collisions.

Red Chinese tour scheduled by cagers

WASHINGTON (AP) — An all-star men's team will be joined by a college women's squad when the United States invades mainland China for an amateur basketball tour in June.

Two Providence University stars, 6-foot-8 center Marvin Barnes and 6-4 guard Kevin Stacom, reportedly are assured of spots on the team.

Lion spikers fare well in prelims

WCH's Wilson grabs district track berth

Wilson leaped 20 feet, four and one-fourth inches in the long jump Thursday to place third in the sectional field. The performance earned Wilson an automatic berth in the Class AA Central District track meet which will be held May 19 at Columbus Walnut Ridge High School.

WASHINGTON C.H.'s mile relay team shattered a school record, eclipsing the old mark by a total of five seconds. The mile relay team of Kevin Merritt, David Payton, Gene Lyons and Bob Osborne placed second in the sectional prelim field with a 1:34.7 clocking.

Senior Brian Storm, who captured sectional honors last spring and later advanced to the state track meet where he placed third, posted victories in the 100 and 220-yard dashes to earn a spot in Saturday's semifinals.

Storm turned in a 10.1 clocking in the 100-yard dash and a 22.3 time in the 220-yard dash.

The Blue Lions' 880-yard relay team will also advance to the sectional finals after a fine effort in the prelims. Members of the 880 relay team were Kevin Terry, Peyton, Jeff Willis and Storm.

Terry won a berth in the semifinals in the low hurdles and senior Eric Shaffer will compete in the semifinals of the 440-yard dash.

Saturday's semifinals will open at 10 a.m. with the finals scheduled for 2 p.m. Six representatives from the sectional finals will qualify for the Class AA Central District meet.

200 elusive for Indy drivers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Where is that 200 miles-perhour lap so freely predicted for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway this year?

"It's still over there in the garage area, in the minds of the drivers who will have to do it," said one seasoned observer. "I think it will come ... when the tension builds up during qualifying."

Another pit roader pointed to the top of the front stretch grandstand and commented, "You won't see a 200 mile lap at the speedway as long as that pennant up there continues to flutter in the wind. That's the key — no wind, good track conditions and a perfect car-driver."

With only two practice sessions left—a 9 a.m.-6 p.m. shift today and a 90-minute warmup Saturday close to the magic barrier heading into the first weekend of qualifying for the May 28 500-mile race, richest motoring event in the world.

The mad scramble for positions in the 33-car starting field begins at 11 a.m. EST Saturday. At least 40 drivers were to participate in a late afternoon drawing to gain assignments for the first session under the clock, when the pole position will be at stake.

Their target will be Bobby Unser's track record speed of 196.678 m.p.h. for one lap and 195.940 for four laps, or 10 miles, set last year. Unser himself has been slowly gearing up for a shot at his mark.

Until today's final warmups, however, 25-year-old Swede Savage had been the closest to the 200 mark. The second-year driver from Santa Ana, Calif., posted an unofficial 197.802 last Saturday, during what track observers said were perfect weather and track conditions.

Colonels top Pacers, 109-93; final game slated Saturday

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The home court advantage has seemingly turned to disadvantage in the American Basketball Association championship series, but Indiana Pacers' Coach Bobby Leonard isn't very happy about going back to Kentucky Saturday.

Leonard was disappointed but not shaken after the Pacers lost to the Colonels 109-93 here Thursday night to even the series at three games apiece.

"The momentum's gone back and forth in this series and now they've grabbed it back," he said.

Each team has won two of three games away from home, and Kentucky can't afford to get too bouyant about having the home court advantage for the nationally televised seventh and final game.

Kentucky Coach Joe Mullaney mulled over the poor home court luck of the first six games and said, "It doesn't look too good, but we'd rather be home."

Indiana, the defending ABA champion, is the only team to have won two league titles in the first five seasons of play, but the Pacers have been unable to win a title at home.

Thursday night, Kentucky took the lead in the early minutes of the first quarter and never relinquished it. The Colonels built the lead to 12 points, 55-43, at halftime and upped it to 14 in the opening minutes of the third period.

The Pacers cut the deficit to 78-76 with 44 seconds left in the third period, but Kentucky then reeled off a 19-3 surge to put the game on ice.

Kentucky forward Dan Issel, who popped in 22 points, pointed to 7-foot-2 Artis Gilmore and said, "If we can get a performance out of Artis like we did tonight, I think we'll be all right."

The big center led both teams with 28 points and 21 rebounds. He was aided by guard Louie Dampier, the only remaining original Colonel, who pitched in 25 points. Dampier hit 10 of 15 shots from the floor, including a three-pointer.

George McGinnis topped Indiana with 26 points, followed by Mel Daniels with 17 and Freddie Lewis with 16. But that trio only managed five points in the fourth quarter as Indiana scored only 17 points.

Longshots victorious at River Downs opener

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — River Downs opened Thursday before a record 8,800 fans, but the day belonged to longshots.

Jenny Jo, 45-1, won the $4,400 feature race to pay $96.60, $26.40 and $10.40.

Straight Dope, 30-1, and Bull Along, 70-1, combined for a quinella payoff of $1,959.60.

Conquering Roman was second in the feature race and returned $6.20 and $5. Antebate showed at $7.60.

The record crowd also produced a record opening day handle of $529,846.

Post 25 call

The last of three tryout sessions for prospective Washington C.H. Post 25 American Legion baseball players will be held at 2 p.m. Sunday.

Charles Mallow, of the Post 25 baseball committee, said the tryouts will again be held at the Washington Senior High School diamond.

Colonial Stair sponsor

Top slo-pitch teams enter tourney here

Fayette County fans will have the opportunity to see some of Ohio's top slo-pitch teams this weekend in the Colonial Stair-sponsored tournament at Eyman Park.

The three-day tourney, which has attracted 18 of the top slo-pitch teams in the area, will open tonight with a three-game schedule.

A hefty schedule, including seven first round games, are booked Saturday. Action will continue Sunday with the championship game of the double elimination event set at 6 p.m.

GENE FOUT, manager of the sponsoring Colonial Stair team, said the tourney will offer first, second and third place trophies, plus individual awards for members of the championship team. A home run and leading hitter trophies will also be presented.

Fout said that Don Fowler, president of the Fayette County Softball Association, will be in charge of the tourney, which is the first in Washington C. H. this season.

The tourney field includes teams from Chillicothe, Greenfield, London, Columbus, Xenia, Carroll and Westerville, in addition to five teams from the Fayette County league.

Fayette County teams entered are Colonial Stair, Washington C. H. Eagles Lodge, Hidy's Food Market, Bell-Dor-Lite and Jeffersonville Merchants.

In tonight's action starting at 7 p.m., Chipaco's, of Chillicothe, will clash with the Greenfield Businessmen; Colonial Stair meets a team from the London Correctional Institute at 8 p.m. and Associates, of Chillicothe, will cross bats with Wilhelm Plumbing, of Xenia, in the nightcap.

Saturday's schedule opens at 10 a.m. with Page News, of Chillicothe, meeting the Washington C. H. Eagles Lodge. Hidy's Food will collide with Bell-Dor-Lite at 11, followed by Jeff Merchants vs. Carroll Union 76, 12; Jequita's, of Columbus, vs. King's Realty, of Westerville, 1; Hillsboro UAW vs. Snawnee Trophy of Chillicothe, 2; Pasquella's, of Xenia, vs. winner of Jeff Merchants - Carroll Union 76 game, 3; and Staub's, of Chillicothe, vs. winner of Colonial Stair-LCI game, 4.

BRL draft nabs 57 players

A total of 57 players were selected in the annual Fayette County Babe Ruth League draft for the four Washington C.H. teams Thursday night.

John Skinner, the new Babe Ruth League commissioner, said the four Washington C.H. teams have set practice schedules and all managers request that all returning players, plus those drafted report to Roszmann Field for the drills.

Girtons will practice at 8 a.m. Saturday, Wilson's Chevrolet at 2 p.m., Willis Insurance at 10 a.m. Saturday and the Medics at 4 p.m. Saturday.

MEDICS — Scott Johnson, Alan Conner, Mark Tubbs, Gary Fisher, Bill Davis, Keith Downing, Jim Sturgeon, Randy Hinkley, Brian Carr, Chip Adams, Bret Wilson, Jim Haines and Jeff Penwell.

Practice scheduled for Wilson players

Practice has been scheduled at 2 p.m. Saturday at Roszmann Field for members of the Wilson Chevrolet Babe Ruth League baseball team.

Gary Dunn, coach of the Wilson Chevrolet team, said all returning major and minor league players, plus those picked in Thursday's draft should report for the drills.

Canadiens Stanley Cup victors

CHICAGO (AP) — Their objective achieved, the Montreal Canadiens took turns sipping champagne from the coveted Stanley Cup which they earned Thursday night with a hardfought 6-4 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks.

Aside from a shout here and there, there was no whooping it up, no hollering and no spraying of champagne. They were tired, weary warriors. They had done their job. The Stanley Cup now goes back to Montreal where they feel it belongs following a one year absence in Boston.

"The Stanley Cup is the only trophy," said Yvan Cournoyer who set a playoff record of 15 goals when he hammered in the tie-breaking and winning goal at 8:13 of the third period.

"The Conn Smythe?," said Cournoyer, the most valuable player in the playoffs. "I wasn't even thinking about it. One man can do nothing. I didn't think about the record. When you work hard, things happen. And if they happen, they happen. How important was my goal? How important was Henri's goal?"

Henri Richard, playing on his 11th Stanley Cup winner, got the Canadiens going with a score as only 12 seconds remained in the first period and the Hawks leading 2-0 on the first two of three goals by Pit Martin.

Goals by Pete Mahovlich and Rejean Houle gave the Canadiens a 3-2 lead early in the second period. As the series had been going, rookie Dave Kryskow tied it with a disputed goal at 8:32. Frank Mahovlich, whose record of 14 goals in one series set two years ago was wiped out by Cournoyer, made it 4-3 before Martin completed his hat trick to tie it at 4-4.

Summer pin loops to open schedules at Bowland Lanes

Summer bowling leagues are now starting to form at Bowland Lanes, according to proprietor Tony Capuana.

Capuana said there's still plenty of time to register for one of the three summer leagues, and interested bowlers are asked to contact Bowland Lanes for further details.

The Thursday Night Mixed Couples League will launch its summer schedule this week at 7 p.m. Earl Mark is secretary of the mixed couples league.

Mrs. Dale (Marge) Merritt, secretary of the Monday Night Ladies League, reports that league will embark on its summer season starting Monday, May 21. Mrs. Merritt said an organizational meeting will be held at 6:30 p.m. prior to the start of the opening night of bowling.

Capuana said the three-man team league which bowls on Tuesday nights is scheduled to open May 22.

LOOKING FOR A CHANCE TO ADVANCE?

Your Opportunity Is In Consumer Finance

Our company is growing. We now have an opening as a branch manager trainee for an ambitious man who is willing to start at a modest but comfortable salary and look forward to earning well above average.

Previous experience not necessary. We train you. You'll work with our customers both inside and out of the office. In a friendly manner you'll be helping people with their financial problems. You'll have an exceptional opportunity to learn the consumer business.

Our men who start in similar positions become branch managers and leaders in their community and business. You can do the same.

ONE OF THE FINER HOMES

We have had the pleasure of offering for sale. Three massive bedrooms and bath upstairs off a central hallway. Downstairs as you enter the lower hall, you have easy access to the tastefully decorated living room, family room or formal dining room. The large eat-in kitchen has an abundance of new cabinets, built in china and work desk. The extra large bath downstairs offers spaciousness that includes washer and dryer hook-up. Partial basement, hot water heat, storm windows and screens. At the back of the lot is a four car garage, plus block storage building that gives you much outdoor spaciousness as well. Homes such as this one is seldom offered for sale, and are seldom in showplace condition such as this one. It's a jewel. Let us show you through.

Heartworm disease of dogs now blamed on mosquitoes

CHICAGO (AP) — Many dogs annually fall victim to canine heartworm disease, which in its advanced stages causes impaired breathing, coughing, listlessness and wight loss. If not detected and treated, the disease can lead to extensive organ damage and death, warns the American Veterinary Medical Assn.

Canine heartworm disease is caused by long white worms called Dirofilaria immitis. The disease can reach advanced stages and even cause death before signs become apparent to the owner. In its early stages heartworm disease can be detected using a blood test. Sometimes an infected dog will have adult worms but no larvae in the blood. To confirm the infection in these cases, a veterinarian must use X-rays and other laboratory tests.

Technically known as dirofilariasis, canine heartworm disease is transmitted by mosquitoes. When biting an infected dog, a mosquito may take up blood containing larval forms of the heartworm that are microscopic in size. After a 2-week incubation period in the mosquito, the larvae become infective.

Girl arrested forpossession of marijuana

A Westlake teenager was arrested for possession of marijuana in Jeffervsonville Thursday afternoon when sheriff's deputies disovered three plastic bags of the drug in the panel truck she was driving.

Deputies said Joan M. Borelli, 18, initially was stopped on High Street for speeding in a school zone. When she was unable to produce proof of ownership of the truck Deputy Charles Wise made a routine search of the truck and discovered the marijuana.

Miss Borelli was brought to the county jail and later was released after posting $523 bond.

Howard Burnett, Jeffersonville, reported that someone threw rocks through five heavy plastic covers on his windows during the past week. Damage was set at $125.

James Morris, 43, Sabina, was treated at Memorial Hospital for a laceration of the nose suffered when he became ill at the Lafayette Inn Thursday night.

Sheriff's deputies said Morris was sitting at a table when he became ill and passed out. He was taken to Memorial Hospital by ambulance and later released.

Colleges face bias charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 150 all-male and all-female colleges, including some of the most prestigious in the nation, must explain by early summer delays in totally eliminating sex discrimination in admissions.

A government memo and guidelines mailed recently to presidents of the institutions in 33 states say they have up to six years to comply with a new anti-discrimination law if accetable transition plans are received before July 1.

"Educational institutions which are eligible to submit a plan, but do not, will be required not to discriminate on the basis of sex in admissions as of June 24, 1973," the memo said.

Copies were sent to such schools as Notre Dame, Harvard, Yale and Vassar.

Institutions violating the guidelines, covered by Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972, risk the loss of all federal aid.

The memo from Peter E. Holmes, director of the Office for Civil Rights, and John Ottina, commissioner-designate of the U.S. Office of Education, asks the schools to identify all obstacles that might hinder full compliance this fall.

"Nondiscrimination does not imply that your institution must or will accept students of either sex in any particular number or proportion, but it does mean removal of all obstacles, based on sex, to admission of students," the guidelines said.

Columbus Flight Service program explained here

Three speakers from the Columbus Flight Service briefed members of the Fayette County Pilots Association about services the firm has to offer at a regular meeting held Thursday night at the Fayette County Airport.

The county pilots learned that Columbus Flight Service, which is a division of FAA, helps lost pilots, aids those planning trips in terms of weather conditions and helps the pilots follow flight plans. The county association also learned what is involved in search and rescue missions.

Members discussed the new beacon which is being installed at the Fayette County Airport. The weather has he' up installation of the beacon. Poles have been set and further work such as trenching, laying lines and stringing wires for the poles will be completed at 8 a.m. Saturday. The new beacon should be in operation within two weeks.

A special meeting of the Fayette County Pilots Association will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, May 23 at the airport. A safety specialist from the General Aviation District Office in Cincinnati will be present at the meeting.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Unofficial figures show the vote turnout in Tuesday's election was 1,586,667, Secretary of State Ted W. Brown said today.

Brown had predicted that 1,680,000 would go to the polls. Brown blamed the poor turnout — 30.3 per cent of the nearly 5,238,000 eligible — on general public disinterest.

In addition to the seven statewide issues, there 286 local questions on the ballot.

MIKE DOMENICO

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Domenico, 137 River Rd., he was one of three candidates for the office, the highest in the judiciary branch of the program. He was sworn in by Chief Justice C. William O'Neill and will preside at hearings and appeals from decisions by the lower courts in the local programs.

Two other members of the WSHS Hi-Y Club were named to posts in the legislative branch of the Youth in Government program also in session now in Columbus. Jeff Downs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Downs, 811 S. Main St., and Steve Fenton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Fenton, 1031 Millwood Ave., were named chairmen of committees.

Eleven other Hi-Y members also are in Columbus for the Youth in Government session. They are Steve Hill, John Tatman, Garth Cox, John Hopkins, Jeff Wallace, Mark Allen, David Mustine, Jim Smith, Jim Vess, Keith Stimpert and Rory Souther. They were accompanied by Austin Crusie and George Shoemaker, Hi-Y advisers.

The session will conclude Saturday afternoon.

City firemen make 10 runs during April

City firemen made a total of 10 fire runs during the month of April according to a monthly report released by Chief Maynard Denen.

Of the 10 runs, eight were in the city and two in Union Township. There were five blazes involving buildings, four in trucks or cars and one grass fire during the month. Firemen responding to the runs averaged just over 11 per call.

The department's five pieces of equipment worked a total of 6.9 hours and traveled 21.9 miles in answer to the calls.

Other activities of the department included: four trash burning and after hours burning complaints; two fire prevention lectures; five miscellaneous inspections; investigation of 11 gas leaks or carbon monoxide tests; two hours of training and familiarization on the aerial ladder; two hours of pumper training and two tours of the department by school children.

The department also sponsored a county-wide meeting on the safe handling and storage of anhydrous ammonia and toured the Pennington Bakery.

Jack E. Leonard dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Comedian Jack E. Leonard, 62, who frequently billed himself as "Fat Jackie Leonard" and who raised the insult to a fine art, died Thursday. He had been hospitalized since collapsing in late March while appearing at the Rainbow Grill in Rockefeller Center.
